Exceed United Fund Goal Of $33,400

Matthews Next Drive Chairman

The United Fund campaign has exceeded the $33,400 goal and elected Charles D. Matthews as campaign chairman for the next drive at a Tuesday board meeting, chairman Henry Bussey said.

Final tabulations have not been recorded but the goal has been exceeded, Bussey reported. A few letters with pledges and checks have to be counted.

The drive this year began Oct. 4, and was scheduled to close by Nov. 8. The deadline was extended.

Matthews will take on the chairmanship in July, and will pick his own directors. Previously, directors have been elected by the board.

Matthews and his wife, Janice, have two sons, Matt, 10, Christopher, 7, and a daughter, Melissa, 1. They live at 1 Cotton Trace.

He graduated from the University of Missouri school of business in 1954, and received a law degree at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

He has been a partner in the law firm of Potashnick and Matthews two and one half years.

Agencies in the United Fund are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, City Welfare Center, American Red Cross, Salvation Army and the United Service organizations.

The banquet is held to show appreciation to all volunteer leaders in the organization.

Hearnes Denies Planned Surplus

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - A Republican charge that the state had built up a "planned surplus" of $100 million was denied by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday.

"That is not true" he told a news conference.

He said inflation was the main cause of the surplus and many states underestimated their revenues last year. He expressed hope "the minority will help preserve the fiscal responsibility of the state."

The governor said he hoped the legislature would be able to solve the congressional redistricting problem before its adjournment June 30, otherwise a special session would be necessary "and I don't want any more of that."

FFA State Officers To Visit Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- Residents of Southeast Missouri will have the opportunity to meet the officers of the Missouri Association of Future Farmers of America during their annual goodwill tour, The FFA leaders will visit Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Jackson, Kennett, Dexter, Charleston, Caruthersville, Poplar Bluff, and Bloomfield, where they will present programs to service clubs and special programs for representatives from surrounding towns. Radio, television and press interviews are scheduled.

Schools, industries, and other points of interest in the area will be visited by the group.

The tour is planned to help the people of Southeast Missouri gain a better understanding of vocational agriculture and the FFA. The officers will have the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Missouri business and agriculture.

The tour is planned to help the people of Southeast Missouri gain a better understanding of vocational agriculture and the FFA. The officers will have the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Missouri business and agriculture.

The 12 state officers and their three adult leaders will divide into three groups in order to meet the schedule. All of the group will assist with area meetings to be held at Jackson Jan. 23, and Poplar Bluff Jan. 25. Both are 6:30 p.m. dinner meetings.

These meetings will give all FFA chapter representatives and guests in the district the opportunity to hear their state officers. These dinner meetings will be attended by approximately 250 people from about 45 towns in Southeast Missouri. Representatives and guests from each chapter will include the instructor of vocational agriculture, an FFA member, and three or four men representing business, farming, boards of education, and school administrators.

Young men, who now hold the degree of American farmer, and past state FFA officers, are expected to attend.

Chamber of Commerce officials, officers of service clubs, and host instructors, of vocational agriculture will assist the group in meeting the schedule.

Salisbury Feels Viet Reds Won't Negotiate Forcibly

HONG KONG (AP) — Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, said today he does not believe that Communist North Vietnam can be "compelled to come to a conference table."

"These people strike me as being very tough, very hardy, very independent and very courageous," Salisbury said in a taped interview with Radio Hong Kong on his two-week visit to North Vietnam.

"They say, and I rather believe them, that you cannot drag them to the conference table: that they can't be beaten into submission.

"They would rather go back to the jungles and the mountains and fight a guerrilla war for 20 years against the United States as they did against the French."

Reporting his findings during two weeks of talks and observation in the Communist capital, Salisbury said he did not believe a serious military defeat would force Hanoi into negotiations.

"I think there are two circumstances which highly color the thinking of the North Vietnamese," Salisbury said.

"One is their defeat of the French at Dien Bien Phu. This is their greatest achievement, to their way of thinking, and I think that they cannot help when they are considering the prospect of the further course of the war, they can't help believing that sometime there may be an opportunity for a Dien Bien Phu against the United States. That's point No. 1.

"Now, point No. 2. I do believe that they are deeply conditioned by their experience, first with the French in the negotiations immediately after the war and then again with the results of the Geneva negotiations. In both cases they feel, rightly or wrongly, they feel that they were let down, that they reached an agreement and the other side refused to abide by them.

"As a result of that they say, time and again and quite openly, that they have to be doubly sure this time if they go into negotiations it's going to be one in which the agreement can be enforced. And those terms, an agreement which can be enforced, were used specifically to me by Pham Van Dong, their prime minister."

Salisbury said American policy with regard to the bombing of North Vietnam "seems to me to have been a little bit unclear."

"We started it with the contention that it was designed to bring the North Vietnamese to the conference table. In other words, we would increase the military pressure on them and when they felt it enough, they would be willing to negotiate.

"Well, we have been at it for nearly two years and, as far as I can see, negotiations are just about as far away as ever."

Earl M. Allen Helps Select Circus Greats

SARASOTA, FLA. -- Earl M. Allen, of 516 South New Madrid St., Sikeston, Mo., participated in the annual election of circus greats announced Tuesday afternoon by the circus hall of fame.

He is a member of the hall of fame's national awards committee, which selects people each year from the performing artist, business or maintenance categories of big top entertainment.

Elected to the hall of fame were Ernestine Clarke Baer, equestrienne and flying trapese star; Jorgen M. Christiansen, animal trainer; and the late Matthew B. Buckley, one-time performer and circus manager.

Allen was present as Christiansen personally accepted his hall of fame award from Col. William W. Naramore, president of the Sarasota attraction, in the center ring of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. After receiving his award, Christiansen, now retired and living in Rochester, Ind., then blew the ringmaster's whistle to officially start the 1967 performance of "The Greatest Show on Earth" at nearby Venice, Fla.

The national awards committee consists of 12 circus historians from across the country whose hobby has been big top entertainment. Committee members work toward creating an understanding of the educational and recreational value of the circus.

Allen is central vice president of the Circus Fans association of America.

Gunshot Wound Fatal

NEW MADRID -- A New Madrid youth who was accidentally shot Friday night died Tuesday afternoon at the Jewish hospital in St. Louis.

Melvin Kellum, about 18, died from a gunshot wound which he received while wrestling over a pistol with Willie Ross, about 30, at a bar on Russell street Friday.

The gun discharged and the bullet hit Kellum in the throat. Following the shooting Kellum told police that he and Ross were only playing and that the shooting was an accident. Ross was not charged.

Kellum was first taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kellum.

The body is being returned to Richards Funeral Home.

Thompson Is Bound Over to Circuit Court

BENTON -- Tommy Lee Thompson, 18, Sikeston, charged with felonious burglary, was bound over to circuit court following a preliminary hearing in magistrate court this morning.

He will appear in circuit court Thursday morning.

Thompson is charged with burglary of a wallet and clothing from the Daris Burgess residence, 842 Ruth, Feb. 17, 1965.

Thompson was acquitted of a first degree murder charge last month at Jackson in connection with the Feb. 1, 1965, gun slaying of Mrs. W. R. Lewis of Sikeston.

$555,000 Funded for DAEOC

PORTAGEVILLE - The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Monday night was informed that three of the submitted DAEOC projects have been approved and funded in the amount of $555,000.

Two board members, J. V. Conran of New Madrid and Conner Hicks of Risco, resigned as members of the DAEOC board.

Hal Hunter of New Madrid will replace Conran and William Johnson of Risco will replace Hicks.

Reports were given by Gene Cross of Jefferson City, technical assistant to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, and Dean Lupkey of Kansas City, a regional supervisor from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lupkey notified DAEOC of the approval of the three programs, administration component, neighborhood service centers and homemaker aides, the latter a program conducted through the University of Missouri extension centers.

Lupkey said an additional $170,000 is available but requests for this fund must come directly from the county OEO boards.

The neighborhood service center program has been conducting 32 centers in the six Southeast Missouri counties, but because of a cutback in federal funds made last year the number of centers will be reduced to 24, four in each county.

Maddox Pledges Peaceful Term

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Gov. Lester G. Maddox promised today to initiate a "people's administration" devoid of extremism or violence, and to seek legislative reapportionment, a constitutional convention and a task force approach to the state's problems.

Maddox, 51, a segregationist who ran second in the popular vote in November, toppled Republican Howard H. Callaway, 182-66, in balloting Tuesday by the General Assembly, which, by law, made the choice because neither candidate received a majority in the election.

Heckemeyer Vice Chairman

Rep. Tony Heckemeyer, Scott county Democrat, serving his second term in the legislature, has been appointed vice chairman of the House agriculture committee.

President Calls for Six Per Cent Income Tax Hike

Don Agnew

Bank Board Gives Agnew Promotion

Donald Agnew was promoted from cashier to vice president and cashier of the Security National Bank at a board meeting following the annual stockholders meeting Tuesday night at the bank's community meeting room.

Bank officers re-elected were Chairman Robert A. Dempster, President N. E. Fuchs, Executive Vice President Jack K. Hogan, Vice President A. C. Riley, Vice President Earl M. Allen and Vice President Dr. Leo A. Bruce.

Agnew and his wife Evelyn and their three children, Cathy, 14, Donnie, 13, and Andrew, 7, live at 807 Harvard road.

Agnew has been with the bank since August of 1965. He was associated with the Union Planters National Bank in Memphis before coming to Sikeston. He is a graduate of the school of banking of the south at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge and is treasurer of the Kiwanis club.

Bank directors re-elected at the stockholders meeting are, Dempster, Fuchs, Riley, Dr. Bruce, Lincoln Scherer, J. W. Hartzog and Jack K. Hogan.

Market Recoups Early Losses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market dropped sharply in opening trading today but by early afternoon had regained the ground lost initially in the wake of President Johnson's tax boost proposal.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which fell 11.47 points by 10:30 a.m., was up 0.28 at 814.42 by 12:30 p.m.

Three Injured Taken to Hospital

Three persons were given emergency treatment Tuesday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Glenn Rich, Bertrand, chain caught on foot and pulled by tractor; David Briggs, fell and struck back of head; Victoria Lynn Davis, Bertrand, hit on mouth with gun.

Extension Council Election Tuesday

BENTON -- Sixteen nominees have been selected to fill eight vacancies created by expiring terms on the University of Missouri extension council of Scott County, advises Joe Engram, council chairman.

An election will be held in eight polling places Tuesday, from 1 p.m. until 5:30 p.m.

The County is divided into five districts which comprise all the old townships. District 1, which encompasses the north end of Scott County, has one person to elect. Those nominated are Joe Schwartz route 1, Illmo, incumbent; and Franklin Schlosser, route 1, Illmo. The polling places are Kelso Milling Company at Scott City and the lobby of the court house.

District II borders district I on the New Hamburg to Chaffee Highway. A and on the south by the Baseline Road, Mo. 91, with Highway 61 as the eastern border. Four have been nominated: J. W. Rencher, Bill Graviett, Frank Hahn, incumbent, and Ralph Heisserer, incumbent all of route 1, Oran.

Two are to be elected.

District III - - Benton to Commerce Road as northern border and Highway 61, south to Morley and Baseline Road to river is the area in district III. One person will be elected from two nominees. Mrs. Dewey Hagar, Benton and Mrs. Clifford Hubbard, both of route 1, Benton. The Lobby of the court house is the polling place.

District IV -- This district borders district III on north and has Highway 61 as western border and county line as southern border. Two people are to be elected from these four nominees: Mrs. Gordon Deason, Mrs. W. A. Beggs, Tom Duff, and Gordon Deason, all of Blodgett.

Mrs. Deason is serving on the council.

Polling places are Deason Bros. Store, Blodgett, and the court house.

Nominees are Joe Engram, Vanduser; Layton Hubbard, route 4, Sikeston; Arnold Stone, route 4, Sikeston; and Mrs. Helen Howle, Sikeston.

Joe Engram is serving as chairman of the council.

Two are to be elected from district V. Polling places are: 1st National Bank Community Room, Sikeston; Vanduser Gin Co., Vanduser; McMullin Gin Co., McMullin; and the lobby of the court house.

Citizens of voting age living in the county are eligible to vote.

The council is responsible for the extension program in Scott county.

Twitty Hired for Four Year Term

The board of education Tuesday moved to continue faculty contracts for 1967-68 subject to the approval of superintendent. Contracts expire June 30.

The new contracts to be offered July 1, will include an increase in the salary schedule. The schedule will be adopted in the next three to four weeks by the board. A faculty committee and administrative leaders are working out details.

Supt. Twitty stated that the schedule must be competitive with other area schools. Additional money can be added to the teachers fund by diverting revenue from other school funds and from anticipated additional state funds as recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his budget message.

The superintendent's contract was renewed for a four-year period.

The board was informed that the citizens advisory council for schools last week unanimously endorsed the move toward educational improvement. Included in the improvements discussed were pay increases, possible changes in the organizational pattern for better student grouping, improvements in the curriculum and new building facilities.

Board secretary, Charles Matthews, was asked to work with the administration in preparing to finance building improvements to be submitted to voters at the annual April election.

The exact amount of the bond proposal has not yet been fixed, pending a study of the district's bonding capacity. It will probably be $1,300,000 to $1,400,000.

To this $200,000.00 will be added in federal funds promised to the district, to be matched by an equal amount of local money for expansion of the building facilities at the trade-technical school. No tax increase will be needed.

Outlined as needs are a new elementary school, additional classrooms, a second floor-balcony to add bookshelf space to the high school library, enlargement of the cafeteria and kitchen at the high school, added classrooms and shops at the trade-technical institute, a field house at the high school and an auditorium-theater building.

The field house would include an indoor track, a removable basketball court and would seat 5,000 or more. The facility would serve physical education needs of the school, provide space for athletic events, community exhibits, conventions and meetings.

At the request of the Sikeston community teachers association, a written policy for improved teacher administration-board cooperation for school improvement was approved.

The board also passed a resolution paying respect to Nathan Lambert, assistant coach, who died in an automobile accident Friday.

Other board business included the payment of incidental fund bills totaling $13,976.21; building fund bills of $1,133.61 and textbook fund $394.86.

Ten Adult Courses Offered to Adults

A college credit course from the University of Missouri titled "Rural Real Estate Appraisal" will be organized in Sikeston.

This is a course for real estate dealers, salesmen, farmers and bankers.

Anyone interested in taking this course may notify Tom B. Stroup, county extension director, University Ext. Center, in Benton. The telephone number is KI 5-3517.

The course is offered by the agricultural economics department of the college of agriculture and carries three credit hours.

The classes, if organized, will meet for four hours each week for ten weeks. A minimum of 20 is required.

Dr. Frank Miller, professor emeritus in the university of Missouri college of Agriculture will teach the course.

The classes will begin on or

Nine other short courses are offered through University of Missouri extension centers in Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott, and Stoddard counties.

They are creativeness and intellectual development, interior design, meal service for different occasions, grain storage and drying, beef cattle feeding, soils, corn production, self improvement and farm machinery investments.

Applications and brochures are available at extension centers.

Instructors are from the University of Missouri faculty or extension specialists. Exceptions are the self improvement course which will be taught by a former faculty member of Stephens College, and the soils course, which will be taught by John Garrett, area soils agent.

The courses are scheduled to get underway Jan. 26, 7:30 p.m., at Sikeston high school. They will be held on Thursday nights each week for five or more weeks.

The instructors from Columbia will be flown in the University of Missouri's DC-3 airplane and returned each night.

Boshears Bound For Trial

Bill Gene Boshears, 34, 103 Selma, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clennis Ables, 2010 Kentucky on Dec. 23, 1966, was bound over to circuit court in Benton following a preliminary hearing in magistrate court Tuesday.

Boshears is to appear Thursday. Charges against him will be read, and a trial date is expected to be set following the arraignment.

Eight witnesses including a neighbor to the defendant, three Sikeston police officers and the Cape Girardeau pathologist who performed the autopsy on Ables' body entered testimony at the hearing.

Sikeston police officer Dolph Webb Jr., the first officer to arrive at the Boshears residence the night of the slaying, was the first to testify.

Webb related that when he arrived near the Boshears' residence he heard a shot and saw a woman carrying a child in her arms run from the side of the house. He said he drove past the house and the woman (Mrs. Boshears) got into the police car. Another shot was fired and officer Webb radioed for help, he said.

Webb said he saw a man walk from 103 Selma to 105 Selma where he talked with a neighbor. Webb said he asked the man, later identified as Boshears, if he was the one doing the shooting.

Boshears was then placed under arrest, handcuffed and put into the rear seat of the patrol car, officer Webb said.

Webb also told of going to the front porch of the Boshears residence, where he saw Ables' body. He called an ambulance and took a 20 gauge shotgun from the house.

John A. Cowan, 105 Selma, took the stand and testified that he saw and talked to Boshears the night of the slaying.

Cowan said he saw Boshears walk across his (Cowan's) lawn the night of the slaying. Cowan said Boshears told him, "I didn't want to, but I had to shoot him. I just had to shoot Clennis Ables."

Cowan said he couldn't believe what Boshears was saying, so he asked him where the shooting took place. Cowan said Boshears said, "at my house. . . He's lying over there now."

Cowan said this conversation took place before officer Webb arrested Boshears. Cowan said he and his son took a blanket over to the Boshears residence to cover the body.

Cowan was the third and last witness called by the state, represented by Scott County prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick. Coroner William Clyde Poe entered testimony describing the wound and disposition of the body, prior to Cowan's appearance on the stand.

The attorneys for the defendant called Dr. Thomas L. Lovinggood, a Cape Girardeau pathologist who performed the autopsy on Ables' body.

Dr. Lovinggood related that three metallic pellets about a 1/4 of an inch in diameter were removed from the body. The doctor estimated that the

State of Union Reactions Vary Critical to Favorable

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's State of the Union message was criticized by civil rights leaders during a nationwide discussion of the address over the National Educational Television network.

For the first time, 75 educational stations throughout the country carried a live hookup of the State of the Union message. After the address, civil rights leaders, economists, historians and others expressed their views.

Walter W. Heller, former head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the proposed six per cent tax surcharge is "sensible and well within the capacity of the country."

Heller wondered, however, if the President had left sufficient "options" open to withdraw from the tax boost "if the economy softens more than he thinks and is not in good shape at midyear."

George F. Kennan, diplomat and critic of American involvement in Vietnam, praised the President for advocating warmer relations with the Soviet Union — for "getting rid of the harsh spirit of the cold war."

Former Undersecretary George W. Ball expressed surprise that the President put the question of Soviet relations "squarely up to the Congress," which is considering the ratification of the treaty to establish consul offices throughout the country.

The civil rights leaders who attacked Johnson's message were Dr. Ralph Abernathy, acting president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Kenneth B. Clark, a Negro educator from New York.

Increase To Offset War Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday night to increase the Federal income tax bills of most individuals and businesses by 6 per cent.

He said this is needed "to hold our budget deficit within prudent limits and to give our country and our fighting men the help they need in this hour of trial."

President Johnson's call for higher taxes six months hence was the highlight of his State of the Union message to Congress -- and it came as a surprise to many.

The President's tax proposal would mean that anyone now paying income taxes of $1,000 a year would pay $1,060 if Congress accepts his plan.

The proposed new surtax is planned to become effective July 1.

President Johnson also disclosed he will ask Congress to increase Social Security benefits by any average of 20 per cent starting July 1.

In discussing the Vietnam war, the Chief Executive voiced little optimism.

He said; "I wish I could report to you that the conflict is almost over. This I cannot do. We face more cost, more loss and more agony."

Voicing the Administration's determination to "see Vietnam through to an honorable peace," President Johnson had this to say about the military measures to be aimed at the Communist enemy:

"Our pressure now must be -- and will be -- sustained until he realizes that the war he started is costing him more than he can hope to gain."

At the same time, President Johnson called for restraint in military operations and rejection of what he termed the temptation to "get it over with."

President Johnson's speech was prepared for a joint session of House and Senate on the opening night of the 90th Congress.

The President outlined in general terms at least a dozen proposed legislative programs including:

A $270 million increase in anti-poverty spending -- a new "safe streets and Crime Control Act."

Consolidation of the Labor and Commerce Departments into a single new Department of Business and Labor.

Outlawing of virtually all wiretapping and electronic snooping.

A new civil rights law.

In national defense, Johnson was more specific than any other officials have been when he reported that the Soviet Union "has begun to place near Moscow a limited anti-missile defense."

Signaling a major decision to avoid, at least for the time being, costly quick development of an American anti-ballistic missile, President Johnson said he will seek agreement with the Soviets "to slow down the arms race between us."

The President prefaced his call for a tax increase by saying he will work for lower interest rates and easier money and for a growing economy "without new inflationary strains." Then he voiced his proposal:

"I propose a surcharge of 6 per cent on both corporate and individual income taxes -- to last for two years or for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with Vietnam continue. I will promptly recommend an earlier termination date if a reduction in those expenditures permit it."

Exempt from the surtax, which officials hope will go into effect with the start of the new fiscal year this July 1, would be single people who do not earn more than $1,900 a year and married couples in the lower income brackets. A couple with two children, for example, would be exempt provided their income does not exceed $5,000 a year.

The surcharge, President Johnson said, would raise Federal revenues by about $4.5 billion in the first year. Officials said that during a full tax year the added receipts would come to $5.7 billion.

President Johnson also disclosed revised budget estimates for the current bookkeeping year that ends June 30, and announced the size of the new budget for the following 12 months, which he will send to

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The death of Anne Latimer, the veteran correspondent of the Daily Standard in Charleston, leaves the news room saddened by a colleague they only knew as a stimulating voice over the telephone.

Miss Latimer worked for the Standard for 35 years. She was a uniformly cheerful, peppy and direct woman, who talked with the rapidity of machine gun fire.

It was difficult for anyone in the news room to believe that she was 81.

She had called in a story to the news room Saturday.

So her death comes as a shock. Our people had not known that she was ill.

The other shocking aspect about her death is that no one in the news room recalls ever having seen Miss Latimer.

Everyone has experienced taking a news story from her over the phone.

Miss Latimer was a dedicated news gatherer and held in affection by her fellow newsgatherers for her devotion to her work, accurate attention to detail and the spirit she approached her job and the every day demands of living.

Every one of us hopes that at age 81 he will have some of her spark and living zest.

So Miss Latimer does not leave us unmourned.

Instead she was admired and respected even though our acquaintenance with her was both professional and unusual.

No one who ever talked to her over the telephone could describe the acquaintenance as casual. Her personality was unmistakable. It came through like the explosion of firecrackers.

When St. Peter greets Miss Latimer at the Pearly Gates he should not misunderstand this kindly woman's motives because she speaks so rapidly it may be difficult at times to follow her meaning.

If he will just call in Bill Yorke or Clesson Harris surely the three of them could set him straight.

Somehow Charleston and Mississippi county does not seem the same without her. Neither does working at the Daily Standard.

Our newsgatherers may not have the occasion to wish again soon that they knew how to write shorthand.

DISAPPEARING CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

James D. French, a convicted murderer, was electrocuted in the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester on Aug. 10, 1966. As far as the U.S. Bureau of Prisons knows, French was the only person executed in the United States last year. The Bureau's survey of the 37 states that still impose capital punishment is now in progress and will not be published until spring. But even if a few more executions are reported, the trend is clear: The death penalty itself is dying.

Three decades ago, executions were common; no fewer than 199 were carried out in 1935. Then the number began to decrease, reaching 42 in 1961 and only 7 in 1965. In one of his last official acts as governor of California, Edmund G. Brown on Dec. 28 commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of four murderers in the death row of San Quentin Prison. The last execution in San Quentin's gas chamber took place almost four years ago.

In Massachusetts, another capital punishment state, no one has been executed in 20 years. Charles E. Tracy, convicted of first-degree murder in the killing of a Boston policeman, was to have been electrocuted shortly before Christmas. But Gov. John A. Volpe and his Executive Council stayed the sentence until next June 14. They did so to give the Massachusetts General Court (legislature) time to debate a bill providing for a one-year moratorium on the death penalty. In that period the general court, which recently convened, would try to determine whether capital punishment deters capital crimes.

Participants on both sides of the capital punishment controversy quote the same statistics and the Bible in attempting to prove their points. Arguments of those who would abolish the death penalty are based in general on religious and moral objections to taking a man's life. Arguments of those who would retain the penalty tend to stress the need to protect society against injury from evildoers. The debate continues even as capital punishment disappears.

WINTER VACATIONS

A winter vacation in Florida or California once was a luxury reserved for the rich. Today, however, jet planes and reasonably priced package tours have enabled hundreds of thousands of Americans to get away from snow and smog during the cold months. And while Florida and California remain as popular as ever, more and more winter vacationists are heading for the Caribbean, Europe, South America and Africa.

Last winter, about 600,000 Americans traveled to the Caribbean islands for varying lengths of time. Bookings to date this winter indicate that the Caribbean tourist traffic will mount to 700,000. Pan Am has scheduled 81 round trips a week from New York and the East Coast to San Juan, Puerto Rico, as against 70 round trips a year ago.

Vacations in more distant countries also are gaining in popularity. A 10-day tour of Israel, including round-trip economy jet air fare, hotels, and three days of sightseeing (but no meals), costs less than $500. Swissair is offering a variety of 15- to 21-day tours of southern Europe, the Middle East, or Alpine ski resorts for prices ranging from $400 to $800. Transatlantic air fare, transfers, tips, taxes and most meals are included.

No matter how specialized the taste, a travel agency will cater to it. One of the more unusual package tours of the 1966-67 winter season is designed specifically for devotees of gardening. For $4,400, the amateur or professional horticulturist can fly around the world in 50 days, visiting noted gardens in such places as Casablanca, Nairobi, Mauritius, Perth, Christchurch and Tahiti. It might seem difficult to find enough people interested in taking such a tour. But a round-the-world flight for the same price, announced last May, was sold out in five weeks.

Occasionally the process of evolution does leave some stone unturned, thus giving rise to those quaint misfits which remind us of another age. A few of the more striking examples are the duckbilled platypus, San Francisco's cable cars, Casey Stengel and movies the whole family can see. A less happy example is our public school system.

With their six- or seven-hour schedules and three-month vacations our schools still are geared to the agricultural economy of the 19th century, when pupils doubled as farmhands. The President's Council on Physical Fitness points out the waste involved in this system in urging communities to open up their school sports and fitness facilities for after-hours and summer use. It also indicates a logical place to begin making more efficient use of an $85 billion physical plant.

Why shouldn't the residents of a community use the gymnasiums, tennis courts, playing fields, running tracks, activity rooms and swimming pools (if they have them) of the schools which they build and support with their tax dollars? All of us - young and old alike - could use the facilities which would be added to its resources for recreation.

The time is long past when we could afford to utilize expensive public facilities for only a few hours a day, 180 days a year. Meeting the needs of the modern community is a full-time job which won't permit part-time use of valuable resources.

Of course, there is more involved in making our schools neighborhood recreation centers than merely unlocking the doors and throwing out the balls. Someone has to be there to organize, supervise and instruct, and there are problems of maintenance, insurance, equipment, etc.

Communities which already have adopted this approach have discovered that it costs them only a few dollars per capita per year. That's cheap when compared to the cost of duplicating the trained staffs and extensive facilities which our schools now employ on a part-time basis.

Evidence That The U.S.A. Is "Constitutionally Christian."

VERMONT (Constitution of 1793, 1963 supp.)

That all men have a natural and unalienable right, to worship Almighty God, according to the dictates of their own consciences. . .every sect or denomination of Christians ought to observe the sabbath or Lord's day, and keep up some sort of religious worship, which to them shall seem more agreeable to the revealed will of God. IKE TAKES ROLE OF 'DUTCH UNCLE'

Americans understood former President Eisenhower when he said the other day that he "would not automatically preclude anything," including the use of nuclear weapons, to bring the war in Viet Nam to an honorable conclusion.

He was expressing frustrations over the unfruitful course of a struggle with a foe who has obstinately refused every offer of negotiation we have made. It was tough talk, straight, no-nonsense talk, the kind we like to hear.

His was not the voice of a warmonger or tyrant, but that of a man who desires peace as only a professional soldier who has seen war can desire it--the voice of a one-time world leader who recently said that his greatest disappointment while in office was the failure of his quest for international safeguards against war.

Yet in the eyes of so-called neutrals, not to mention our enemies, will the advocacy of nuclear war by an American of Eisenhower's stature appear much different from the "ballistic blackmail" we once accused Comrade Khrushchev of practicing?

"When you appeal to force to carry out the policies of America abroad, there is no court above you,'" Ike added.

What of the court of world opinion? The court of history? The court of our own consciences?

Mr. Eisenhower's statement is all the more regrettable when we reflect that there are really no targets for nuclear weapons in Viet Nam, save little brown men cowering in the jungle. There may be "no substitute for victory," but there is also no shortcut to it and strategy to practicalities.

The threat of nuclear weapons may scare the North Vietnamese. Nothing else has so far. Unfortunately, it is more likely to frighten only our friends, or would-be friends.

PLAYING IT SAFE ON BIBLE ISSUE

Something many people, including Sen. Everett Dirksen, the chief proponent of a constitutional amendment legalizing prayers in the public schools, seem to have forgotten is what the Supreme Court recommended schools might do in the matter of religion at the time it rendered its historic decision three years ago.

"It certainly may be said that the Bible is worthy of study for its literary or historical qualities. Nothing we have said here (banning prescribed prayers and Bible reading) indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be affected consistent with the First Amendment."

Few schools have had the courage to do what the court told them explicitly was permissible, says the National Education Association. One that has, however, is the high school in Abington, Pa., which was one of the schools that figured in the court's decison.

Since then the school has presented in-depth studies of such books as Ecclesiastes, Job and the Psalms in its English curriculum. Principal Allan A. Glatthorn reports that there have been only a few, easily answered critics of the Bible study program, as well as of other controversial subjects like communism, sex education and modern literature.

"Playing it safe by avoiding controversy is the greatest risk of all," he says, "because it changes the school from the open forum of live ideas to the closed tomb of dead dogma."

Most parents and schools, unfortunately, prefer playing it safe. Which is why Sen. Dirksen will be back next year with another try at a constitutional amendment that would be a victory in the name of meaningless piety while at the same time eliminating the need to face the great challenge laid down by the Supreme Court.

A man walked into a doctor's office with the worst case of trembling hands the doctor had ever seen.

"Tell me," the doctor said, "how long have you been shaking like this?"

"For years, Doc," the patient answered, "but it's much worse lately."

"Perhaps you drink too much," the doctor mused.

"I don't know," the patient said. "What's too much?"

"Oh, say a quart a day," the doctor replied.

"A quart a day!" the man exclaimed.

"Good gosh, Doc, I spill that much!"

The man's face reddened and he mumbled, "I suppose so . . and give me one for underarms, too."

'Internal Differences Are Healthy—Heh-Heh'

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato:

There is an easy way to solve the crowded feeling that has resulted from the human population explosion. The answer is to breed miniature people.

The first step, as a matter of fact, already has been taken.

Babies in most civilized countries today, as a result of medical advice to mothers, weigh at birth at least a pound less on the average than they did a generation or two ago.

A mother in 1900 somehow felt she had cheated her husband if she delivered a baby that didn't bump the scales beyond the 8-pound mark. Today her doctor praises a mother if she keeps her infant down to seven pounds.

The trouble is what happens thereafter. The smaller babies of today, thanks to vitamins and better nutrition generally, grow up to be taller and heavier than their fathers and their grandfathers. That's why they crowd the world.

The growing problem is how to use available space more efficiently. Scientists are well aware of this fact. Through the miniaturization of parts they have been able to make smaller machines that have more output than larger machines formerly did.

As man tends more and more to ape the machines he creates, that probably will turn out to be the human answer to overcrowding, too. Since the earth itself can hardly be enlarged, what better solution to the population problem can there be than the miniaturization of people?

For some time the secret ideal of most men has been to be six feet tall and weigh somewhere between 180 and 200 pounds. Such a man would have a brain weighing about three pounds.

This ideal must be destroyed. It is out of date.

I would say the ideal man of the future should have a five-pound brain, stand three feet tall, and weigh about 75 pounds.

Since women by then will still be insisting on being even more equal than men, I would say the ideal woman of the future should have a four-pound brain —more than ample for her everyday needs -- stands 3 feet 6 inches, weigh 100 pounds, and be broad enough so that the ideal man would hide safely behind her skirts in case of sudden attack.

Don't think this is all a dream. If science could miniaturize machines, who can say it won't be able to midgetize man?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's note - The book "The Death of a President" gives the Kennedy side of the differences between the Kennedy and the Johnson families following John F. Kennedy's assassination. Drew Pearson was in Dallas on the day of the tragedy and in today's column endeavors to give the other side of the story.

WASHINGTON - I was in Dallas on the tragic day President Kennedy was assassinated. Since that time Jack Anderson and I have talked to various members of the Kennedy and Johnson staffs in order to get the facts regarding the friction and bitterness which William Manchester reports developed between Mrs. Jackie Kennedy and President Johnson.

Unquestionably there was friction. Bitterness developed during the tense moments after the assassination. However, the Manchester book tells only one side of the story.

Here is part of the other side:

First, friction occurred with the coroner in Dallas. Kenneth O'Donnell, secretary to Kennedy, and Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, his air force aide, had been entrusted with the job of getting the body back to Washington. But the coroner refused to release it until he held an inquest.

Finally O'Donnell and McHugh prevailed upon him. Then they had trouble with a Dallas city ordinance against carrying a casket in an ambulance. They had purchased a casket but found it was necessary to get a hearse.

It took about an hour to overcome local red tape and drive Kennedy's body to the waiting airplane.

Meanwhile, Air Force One, the presidential plane, had been waiting for Kennedy's body. This delay was on the personal order of the new president, and contrary to the wishes of the Secret Service.

Emery Roberts of the Secret Service staff had ordered the plane to take off immediately. The Secret Service had no idea, in the confusion of Kennedy's death, as to whether there was a widespread plot against both the president and the vice president and felt the new president would be safer in the air en route to Washington.

But Johnson ordered the plane to wait for Kennedy's body. Meanwhile he telephoned Robert F. Kennedy, the attorney general, in Washington to ask for a legal opinion as to whether he should take the oath of office immediately or wait till he got back in Washington. Bobby Kennedy did not reply immediately. But Deputy Attorney General Katzenbach called back to advise that Johnson should be sworn in immediately. If there was a national emergency while the plane was in the air, such as a missile attack on the United States, the president was the only person, as commander-in-chief, who could give the order to launch American missiles in retaliation.

Incidentally, Johnson addressed Bobby formally as "General Kennedy" during this and other conversations.

JACKIE'S IRE

Jackie Kennedy expressed indignation in the original version of the Manchester book that Johnson used her husband's plane. However, the plane contained secret electronic communications equipment which only the president could use in case of emergency. Johnson had flown to Dallas in the vice presidential plane, but it did not carry this equipment. The Secret Service had decided that he must use Air Force One for the return journey in order to be able to use this equipment. Besides, he was now president.

After receiving word from the Justice Department that he should be sworn in in Dallas, Johnson sent for U.S. District Judge Sarah Hughes to administer the oath. While he was waiting for her to arrive, Kennedy's body was put aboard the plane, and Gen. McHugh told Malcolm Kilduff, press secretary, that Ken O'Donnell wanted the plane to take off immediately. McHugh was quite excited. He had rushed through the plane looking for Johnson and Mrs. Kennedy, later said that he had found Mrs. Kennedy kneeling beside her dead husband while Johnson was in the washroom changing his clothes.

But Kilduff told McHugh the plane could not take off.

"He may want to take off," Kilduff said, referring to O'Donnell, "but he isn't in charge anymore. Johnson is now president."

O'Donnell, who two hours before had been the closest staff member to Kennedy and whose word was law, was bitter.

Later, as Kennedy's body was about to be removed from the plane, O'Donnell is reported to have blocked the new president in the plane's aisle so he could not disembark with the body.

RUMORS OF BOORISHNESS

Various stories have been circulated regarding the tragic flight back to Washington. Mrs. Kennedy is reported saying she objected to being called "honey" and did not want Johnson near her; that she didn't want "that man to touch me." It was also reported that Johnson had come back to the rear of the plane and smiled on the casket.

According to Kilduff, the new president acted with dignity and sympathy.

"My hero was Jack Kennedy," Kilduff told me, "but Johnson acted with nothing except sympathy for a bereaved widow. He took over the situation with precision and dignity. He acted as a strong president must. He ordered certain meetings by telephone. He telephoned the late president's mother to tell her of the tragedy, and the late president's brother. These were not easy things to do."

"Did he smile on the plane?" Kilduff was asked.

Kilduff replied: "Paternally and in sympathy. He did his best to help Mrs. Kennedy."

"There was an atmosphere of bleak silence on the plane going back," said one member of the Johnson staff. "You did not want to break the silence by touching a typewriter. You felt you were an intruder. Death of course was the intruder."

Doc. Duncan Says

When we read in the Post Dispatch 1/7/67, the purpose of the program of acquiring land for recreation in the rich mineral belt of the Ozarks, we wonder if it isn't about time to lay the cards on the table face up. Nobody is fooling anybody anymore. It would appear that John Q. and the landowners are like the country dog in the City. Stand and fight now or turn tail and get chewed up. Looks like its a question as to which side will own and control the known minerals in this four state area that in the recent past demoralized the lead market price when the truth seeped out.

Now it seems to be a battle undercover between the Politicians from dog catcher to president and the big monopolies to get title to this land and someone to get the windfall of royalties that rightfully belong to the poor landowners. In the opinion of many others in the know, this is the clearest-cut case of fraud by deceit this side of Tea Pot Dome or Arkansas Wildlife. It could rock our form of government.

H. L. Hunt Says

McNAMARA'S WAR

Congress in September, 1961, accomodated the State Department by following its plan and enacting a law providing that the U.S. disarm by empowering the President to transfer the U.S. armed forces and facilities to the U.N. The passage of this law has been disregarded and its existence has been overlooked by the public.

In this atmosphere it is not surprising that the overt and belligerent actions of Secretary of Defense McNamara is disarming our nation much faster than the State Department's Document #7277. Secretary McNamara began closing down many essential defense installations over the protests of many members of Congress.

Many anti-communists considered that McNamara was acting only as a front for Adam Yarmolinsky until Yarmolinsky retired to become a professor at Harvard Law School.

McNamara has scrapped all of our B-47 bombers and has begun scrapping B-52's and carrier based bombers. None have been built since 1962. Our Atlas and Titan missiles have been slashed from 203 to 54. Even the launching pads and guidance controls of the 149 big missiles have been destroyed.

He refuses to produce and deploy the marvelous Nike-X anti-missile system which the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously recommended, and which McNamara's testimony of February 18th, 1965 admitted would save 40 million American lives.

Our strategic missile and bomber bases in Turkey, Italy, England and Morocco have been dismantled, in addition to many in this country. These bases were closed early in McNamara's reign in accordance with a specific proposal of the Moscow conference to scrap U.S. manned bombers and missiles around the Communist empire.

Recently the Army ran short of the rifles so necessary to our troops in Vietnam. McNamara had stopped production 2 or 3 years previously. The thought of just one American soldier equipped with an obsolete, inadequate weapon rests heavily on the minds of most Americans. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Powerful Labor Bloc Backs Hubert Humphrey Against Robert Kennedy on Vice Presidency

New York: -- The host, potentially with the most, in this pivotal state is the ever restless, one-man whirlwind, silver-haired Harry (Four-Hour-Day) Van Arsdale. He leads a million unionists whom Nelson Rockefeller, in a private letter, described as a "major factor in my being re-elected governor."

But now Van Arsdale has invited Hubert H. Humphrey to luncheon. "Van," the Vice President and the city's most powerful labor leaders will gather behind closed doors at the Waldorf Astoria on Jan. 19. And there is far more here than meets the palate or the political eye.

The initiated consider this the beginning of the ebullient Vice President's counter-offensive against all those being discussed as his potential replacements.

To the initiated, it is significant that the luncheon will take place deep in the heart of Sen. Bob Kennedy's bailwick.

It is significant that the junior senator has not been invited. These labor men are not overly fond of Mr. Kennedy, nor he of them.

It is significant that the luncheon will mark the clasping of hands, in traditional labor symbolism, of two powerful union forces -- the so-called old-line construction unionists who have always rewarded their friends (and punished their enemies) and the militant, politically avant-garde force which is philosophically dedicated to operating an organized party.

Rarely have they been united. Now they appear to be -- though the Van Arsdale bloc backed Republican Governor Rockefeller and the militants, such as the ladies' garment workers, ran an independent candidate.

This show of unity behind the embattled Vice President therefore is unprecedented, with the exception of 1964. There is an elan about all this which is characterized by the ladies' garment workers' president Louis Stulberg who, like his predecessor, the legendary David Dubinsky, is emotionally as well as politically tied to "Hubert," the man they found and made.

"Recently I told Hubert," said Stulberg, "what we think of him --wherever destiny leads him, he will find us alongside him, because it is our fight he is making."

At a recent banquet Vice President Humphrey took his place card and wrote a note to Dubinsky saying, "You're a great American." Dubinsky made it quite plain the sentiment was reciprocated.

Now we find the Stulbergs and the Van Arsdales joining in a closed, but obvious, luncheon conference between the Vice President, some of his aides and the leaders of the million-member City Central Labor Council headed by Van Arsdale.

Obviously it is a retort to those who hope to have the Vice President "dumped" by undermining him with reports to Lyndon Johnson that "HHH" had lost liberal, labor and intellectual support. Certainly a million unionsts in one city is labor support and certainly the presence of Stulberg, a major force inside the Liberal Party, is reflective of intellectual and liberal support.

But there is even more significance to this gathering than testament in reply to those who are urging Arthur Goldberg or Bob Kennedy on President Johnson in '68.

Many see the Van Arsdale action as a rejection of the theory that strong sections of labor will stay with the Republicans throughout the Presidential election. After Mr. Rockefeller won, Van Arsdale told this newsman that, "The people of this state won a great victory by re-electing Nelson Rockefeller."

But now it appears that, at least in New York, the labor men who backed statewide GOP candidates against the Democrats are shying from bolstering them nationally.

Of course it could be that, being scientific politicians, the labor leaders are playing deep in both fields. But there can be no doubt that the luncheon and the testimonials which will be voiced will be a positive demonstration of their intention to back Hubert Humphrey against other Democratic contenders. And that they want Mr. Johnson to know it.

That's what makes Van Arsdale the host with the most on the political ball for the moment.

Mrs. Richard Norman Chapman

Marilyn Kay Conrad Pledges Vows With Richard Chapman

Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church was the candlelight setting at 8 p.m. Dec. 23 for the wedding of Miss Marilyn Kay Conrad and Richard Norman Chapman.

The Rev. Lindy M. Cannon, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Swags of green fir roping centered by a large circular wreath with a large red velvet bow graced the back of the altar. An arrangement of white mums and greenery with red velvet ribbons was placed on the communion table, flanked by white altar candles. Two nine-branched circular candelabra, entwined with holly and red bows, were placed on either side of the white kneeling bench.

Two baskets of southern pine and holly with red bows completed the altar arrangement. The holiday theme was carried out throughout the sanctuary with greenery, pine cones and red bows placed on each pew. The windows contained large red candles surrounded by greenery and pine cones and tied with large white satin bows.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Conrad, 408 Missouri. Her maternal grandparents are Mrs. Bert Knox and the late Mr. Knox of Perryville. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Conrad of Sedgwickville.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chapman, 800 Courtney. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Sikeston high school. Mrs. Chapman is a 1966 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College and is an English teacher at Pattonville high school in St. Louis. Chapman is a senior at Washington University in St. Louis.

WEDDING MUSIC

Mrs. Elmer B. Poage, organist, provided Christmas music as the candles were lit by Miss Mary Elizabeth Schuerenberg and Master Donald Davidson. After the mothers were seated, Mrs. James Davidson, soloist, sang "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach. Following the marriage vows, as the couple knelt, "The Greatest of These is Love" by Bitgood, was sung by Mrs. Davidson. The recessional was "The Wedding March" from the "Mid-Summer's Nights Dream."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was escorted down a white carpeted aisle. Her gown was designed by her and fashioned by her mother of heavy white bridal satin. The empire waistline was outlined with white satin braid, centered with a white satin rose. Two additional rows of braid and roses banded the A-line skirt. The portrait neckline was embroidered with pearls and tiny satin rose buds. The full length sleeves came to lily points over her hands and were joined with white satin buttons. Her watteau train hung from her shoulders and was banded with white satin braid with white satin roses scattered over the train. She wore an elbow-length veil attached to a white satin rose embroidered with pearls. The bride carried a white leather Bible, a high school graduation gift from her church. The Bible was covered in lace from the wedding gown of a friend. Atop the Bible were placed two white orchids, surrounded by white stephanotis and lily of the valley with white satin steamers. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls.

The bride carried out the tradition of something old, her shoes in which was placed a lucky penny by her father, had been worn by her cousin, Mrs. Roy Allen at her wedding. Something new was a white linen handerchief, a gift of Mrs. Hemba Young. Something borrowed was her veil which was worn by her cousin, Mrs. David Dillingham. Something blue was her garter worn by Mrs. James Davidson, at her wedding.

BRIDES ATTENDANTS

The bride chose her college roommate, Miss Sandy Combs of Cape Girardeau, for her maid of honor. Miss Carol White, cousin of the bride and Mrs. David Lewis of Anderson, Ind., close friend of the bride, were bridesmaids. Miss Tammy Barks, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants' formal-length gowns were of red brocaded taffeta, styled similar to the bridal gown with elbow-length sleeves ending in a double ruffle. A red satin bow complimented the front of the empire waistline with a bow and a single strand of pearls and dyed to match shoes were worn by the attendants. Hurricane lamps containing lighted swirl candles and festooned with holly and red satin streamers were carried by the maid of honor and bridesmaids.

The flower girl's dress was a miniature of the bridesmaids' and she carried a basket of white mums. Miss Schuerenberg wore a street-length dress identical to the other attendants and a wrist corsage of white mums with red velvet leaves. All of the bridal attendants, wore nose-tip veils of red illusion attached to red velvet poinsettas.

Mrs. Conrad, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a jacket dress of green velvet, green veil hat and matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Chapman, wore a satin trimmed, imported knit suit of deep pink, with floral hat and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of purple-throated white orchids.

Mrs. Knox, maternal grandmother, wore a wine silk dress with matching velvet hat. Mrs. Conrad, paternal grandmother, wore a blue silk jacket dress and matching accessories. Mrs. Coburn, the groom's maternal grandmother, wore a green brocade suit, with matching accessories and a winter white hat. The three grandmothers all wore corsages of white mums.

GROOM'S ATTENDANTS

Head usher was James Davidson. Additional ushers were Mike Lund of Rolla, David Lewis, of Anderson, Ind. and Mike Lee.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Hemba Young and Mrs. Ralph McElroy were in charge. A Christmas tree was at one end of the hall. Hurrican lamps, containing red and green candles with southern pine and holly filled each window. Baskets of spruce, pine and holly were arranged in the hall. Greenery and a five-branch candlelabra were placed atop the piano.

The bride's table was covered with white taffeta draped with green net and caught up at the corners with clusters of white satin wedding bells. A four-tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional bride and groom, beneath an arch of lily of the valley and decorated with miniature red roses, centered the table. A three-branched silver candlelabra, containing red swirl candles entwined with holly, was placed on each side of the cake. Cranberry punch and coffee were served from a silver punch bowl and silver coffee service. Silver compotes containing nuts and mints completed the table. Coffee was served by Mrs. Eugene Bullard, punch by Mrs. Ray McCord and cake by Mrs. Roy Allen and Miss Karen Barks.

Corsages of white mums with red velvet leaves were worn by each participant in the reception.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Dale Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen and Sandy and Angie, of Sedgewickville; Mrs. Bert Knox and Woodrow Knox of Perryville; Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCord, Mrs. Edna Coburn and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow White of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Conrad and Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dalle and Debbie of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Nickell of West Plains; Mr. and Mrs. Lowell W. Lawrence of Southaven, Miss.; Michael Sherry of Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Vesta Smith of Anna, Ill.; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Combs of Fletcher.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chapman entertained at the banquet room of the Mid-Towner restaurant with a candlelight dinner following the rehearsal on Dec. 22 at 8 p.m. Thirty-five places were set for members of the wedding party, their families and guest. A large silver tree with red ornaments was behind the head table which was decorated with red candles in silver holders, tied with white bows, flanking an arrangement of red carnations in a silver bowl. Candles, poinsettas and greenery were placed down the centers of the adjoining tables. The bride and groom presented their attendants with gifts. Following the dinner, the group went to the Conrad home for coffee and cake.

BRIDAL PARTIES

On Dec. 3, Mrs. Ralph McElroy, Mrs. Hemba Young, Mrs. John Bartlett and Mrs. Virginia Moser were hostesses for a drop-in wedding shower at the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Upon arrival, the bride-elect, her mother and the mother of the groom were presented corsages of peppermint carnations.

Guests were greeted in the foyer of the church by Miss Sue Taylor and Miss Barbara Arbaugh.

The Christmas theme was used throughout, featuring the bride's chosen colors of red, white and green. Small tables covered with white linen cloths and centered with candles and greenery were arranged for the guests. Baskets of southern pine, juniper and American holly were arranged throughout the room. Candles and greenery graced the windows. The gift table was draped in red net and caught up at the corners with balls of holly, at which the bride-elect received her guests and opened her gifts. Christmas music was heard during the shower. Mrs. Eugene Bullard was at the guest book.

The serving table was covered in green linen and overlaid with a lace cloth. A five-branched silver candelabra entwined with red carnations centered the table. A silver apointment for coffee, spiced tea, holiday cookies, sandwiches and toasted nuts completed the table arrangements.

The guest list included: Misses Maudie Dickerson, Hazel Thompson, Evalee Thompson, Berneice Adams, Connie Odum, Peggy Lee, Paula Kelly, Iva Houch and Helen Lee.

Mrs. Joy Appleton, Mrs. Virginia Learue, Mrs. Helen Manley, Mrs. Sarah Smith, Mrs. Virginia Nickell, Mrs. Marie Yeakey, Mrs. Gwen Jones, Mrs. Flora Pratt, Mrs. Margarate Joyce and Mrs. Myrtle Carrington.

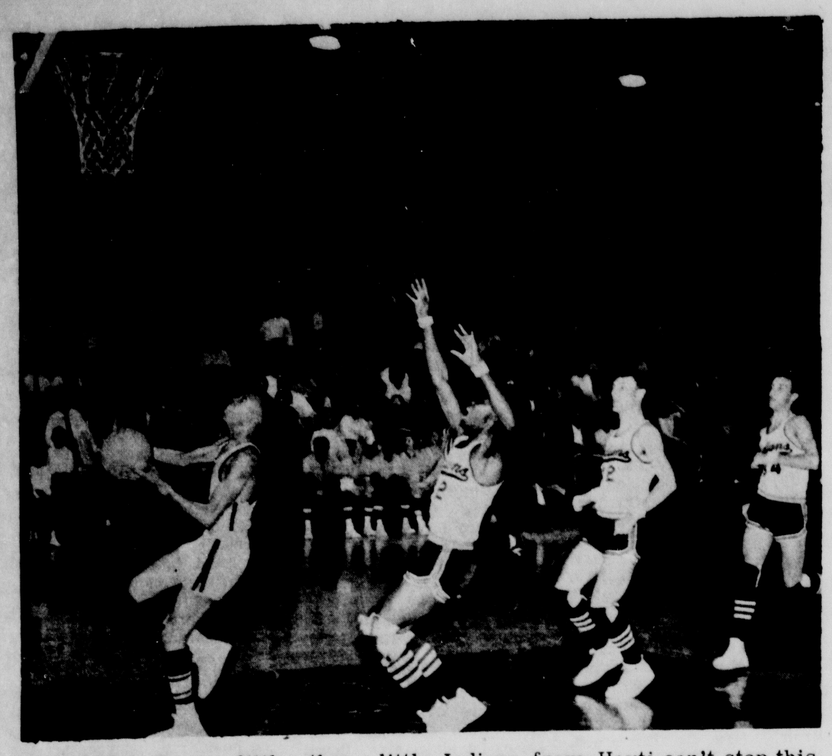
Matthews Wins 19th Game, Remains No. 1



ONE LITTLE, two little, three little Indians from Hayti can't stop this fast-break layup by Matthews' Leonard Bishop at Hayti last night. The Pirates outran and outscored the Indians to gain their 19th basketball win, 72-55. It was Hayti's first loss.

HAYTI - Matthews' Top ranked basketball Pirates crushed their only challenger for the number one spot in the Daily Standard basketball poll last night, 72-55, running their record to 19-1. Hayti suffered its first loss after winning 11 in a row.

A capacity crowd was on hand to see the Pirates run their way into an early 6-0 lead and never trail. Their smallest lead during the night was 1-0 with six seconds gone in the first quarter.

Holding a 21-10 first quarter lead the Pirates used their zone press and man-to-man defense to its maximum effectiveness. They led 13-2 with 3:35 remaining in the first period.

Dominating the rebounds the first quarter, the Pirates hit an amazing 78 per cent from the field as Chuck Brooks ended the period with nine points while Leonard Bishop added five. Hayti had a balanced scoring attack as the starting lineup each netted two points.

Hayti, expected by many to give the Pirates their toughest game of the season, seemed to be tight in the first half. They missed four consecutive layins before netting their first basket with 3:23 left in the period.

Coach Jim Hart's Pirates jumped on the much taller Indians in the first period, taking a rebound advantage of 23-9. All nine of the Indians rebounds came on defense. The Pirates only collected three offensive rebounds in the first half.

Hayti, surprised most of the capacity crowd trying to run with the speedy squad, which most teams have shied away from doing.

Hayti closed to with six points of the leaders in the second period, 25-19, but the Pirates press began to take its toll and they went into the dressing room at half with a 36-21 lead.

Brooks ended the first period with 15 points, followed by Hicks with eight and Bishop with seven. Benny Johnson topped the Indians first half scoring with eight points.

Hicks pulled 12 rebounds the first half while teammate Amon Ring was credited with five.

Matthews slacked up the second half after posting a 23-point lead, and used only seven players the entire night while Hayti used eight.

Coach Hart's Pirates took a commanding 48-26 edge in the rebound department, and ended the game hitting 53 per cent from the field.

Brooks topped the Pirates scoring attack, netting 21 points, Hayti's B. Johnson took game honors with 22 points.

The Pirates broke open a close game in the fourth period and shot to their 12th win of the season against no defeats as they downed the Indians 46-40.

Nunn and Lape poured in 13 and 11 points respectively for the Pirates while Hayti's White hit 20 for game high honors.

North Pemiscot Jumps On Delta

STEELE - The home team, North Pemiscot, rolled past the visiting Delta C-7 Chargers last night taking a twin basketball victory. The Bulldogs won the varsity outing 79-54 and the junior varsity game 92-54.

Spearheading the mighty Bulldogs, Howell netted 21 points and brought down 19 rebounds off the boards. This was Pemiscot's 10th win. It has five losses. Delta has a 5-11 record.

North Pemiscot came on strong in the final half after playing a tight first two quarters. The Bulldogs moved to a one-point lead in the first quarter, and increased it in the second by eight points, leading at the half 34-26.

Moroney collected 12 of his 20 points in the third period to lead the attack for the Bulldogs. This was the Bulldogs best team effort for the season.

Hitting 63 points in the first half the Bulldogs scored an easy victory over the Charger B squad 92-54. Fisher led the Pemiscot five team with 23 points and Bryant got 17 for the Chargers.

Score by quarters: North Pemiscot 16, 18, 23, 22.

Bernie Gives Dexter Trouble

BERNIE -- Visiting Dexter barely made it past the wire last night as the surging Bernie Mules fell short 53-48. The Mules took the B basketball game 50-35.

Bernie with Botsch and Craft back into the starting lineup racked up a 15-13 first quarter lead but fell back 29-24 at the half and was never able to overtake the struggling Bearcats.

Both squads played even the last half, scoring 24 points. The Mules got to within three points of the forerunners midway in the third quarter but were never able to take over.

David Guethle paced the Bearcats scoring with 19 points and 17 rebounds.

A well balanced scoring attack by the Mules was led by Botsch, who netted 16 points.

Watkins poured in 16 points to lead Dexter's scoring attack. Botsch netted 21 for Bernie.

Dexter Divides Games With Cape

DEXTER - Cape Girardeau junior high squad divided basketball games last night as the Dexter Cubs captured the night's opener 45-32 for their ninth straight season victory, against no losses. The Cubs have won their last 20 in a row. Cape took the night cap, 51-28, as the Cubs' ninth grade squad opened its season.

McCoy netted 15 points to take high scoring honors for Dexter in the eighth grade game. Meyer hit 10 to take high honors for Cape. Dexter won its own tournament two weeks ago to add to its record.

It was all Cape in the ninth grade contest as the Cubs opened their season with a 51-28 loss.

Roderman was high man for Dexter. He pumped in 13 points, one shy of scoring half the team's points. Marshall hit 14 for Cape.

Dexter won the Puxico invitational seventh grade basketball tournament last week. Bernie, Advance and Richland finished, in that order.

Junior College Action At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- junior college basketball comes to Southeast Missouri Thursday night when Jefferson College of Hillsboro and Southern Baptist of Walnut Ridge, Ark., meet at 8 p.m. Thursday night.

Former area cage stars are members of each team. Bloomfield has three players who will see action for Jefferson City. Among them are Mike Wise, All-American and All-State last year, Ron White, an All-Stater from the 1965 season, and Dennis Gilespie.

Included in the Southern Baptist squad are Richland's Wayne Early, who has been doing a fine job in his freshman year. Ron Patillo of Gideon and Stan Whitson and Curt Simpson of Parma. Whitson is a Class S All-Stater.

Kennett Downs Southland

KENNETT -- The Kennett Indians won their 11th basketball game of the season last night, defeating the visiting Southland Rebels, 63-46, in the A game, but dropped the B game, 36-30.

The Indians placed four men in double figures. Tweedy and Taylor pumped in 13 points and Fingers and Crawford netted 12. Staggs hit 14 for the Rebels.

The end of the first period saw the score netted 18-15. The Rebels went into a stall the second period as the Indians collected a mere four points to the Rebels two. The score at the intermission held at 20-19 in favor of Southland. Coming out the second half, Kennett made up for lost time as they poured it to the Southland quinter dropping in 42 points.

Fingers led the B team scoring with 12 points as Cude also got 12 for the Rebels.

Parma Has Easy Time

PARMA -- Ken Womack's 15-point production was enough to lead an 11-man scoring attack and the Pirates to a 74-41 basketball victory over arch-rival Risco Last night, Parma captured the B game 50-38.

A full-court zone press sent the Pirates ahead early. After the smoke settled the Parma quintet posted a 23-6 first quarter lead.

Womack's driving layups and ball steals on the press ignited both the Pirates offense and defense. He played his best game of the year. He was credited with eight assets.

Risco collected 17 points by half time but failed to stop Parma, who racked up 40 points.

Kellick topped the Tigers scoring attack with 11 points.

In the B contest, the Pirates broke on top early in the game, and sailed to their 50-38 victory on the shoulders of Jay Foster, who pumped in 10 points. Calvert took high game honors. He netted 17 for the Tigers.

Wrestling Tonight

Sikeston's matmen will be host to Jackson wrestlers tonight at the armory.

Exhibitions and 13 matches will be fought, starting at 7 p.m.

Crader Paces Woodland

LUTESVILLE - Woodland swept two basketball games from the visiting Zalma team last night winning the B game 59-51 and the A game 82-77.

The Woodland quintet was headed by the hard hitting Crader, who popped in 34 points. He has a 30-point average. Woodfin hit 18 for Woodland also. Payne paced the Zalma team with 27.

Outrebounding the smaller Zalma five, the Zalma Bulldogs jumped to a 19-16 lead in the first quarter. Woodland gained its advantage in the third quarter as it pumped in 26 points to Zalma's 14.

Woodland captured the B game behind the shooting of Keith with 17. Morgan netted 19 for the losers.

Your passport to the world

Your telephone can carry your voice to almost any corner of the globe at the speed of light. Pretty amazing when you stop to think about it. Fact is, you can reach 97 percent of the telephones in the world by Long Distance. And closer to home, you can call more people and more places in Missouri than ever before. That's just one way your telephone service has grown in value over the years.

Another way is in transmission quality. Today's phone users can talk as though they were four feet apart. Back in the early 1930's, it was 35 feet. And the low cost of telephone service makes it a real bargain. Today you can make a three-minute, station-to-station call to any point in the continental United States (except Alaska) for $1 or less after 8 p.m. or all day Sunday. Better service to more places at lower cost. We think that's a winning combination.

Briggs Hits 20 In Leading Charleston Past Central

CHARLESTON--Posting their eight win of the season, fifth out of their last six, the Charleston Blue Jays edged the Scott Central Braves 73-62 last night.

It was a nip and tuck battle all the way. Charleston opened a first quarter lead of 15-14 but found itself tied 30-30 at intermission and broke on top of the third period 46-44. Charleston outscored its opponents 16-14.

Scott Central tallied 18 points in the fourth quarter compared to Charleston's 16, but the third quarter lead was too much to overcome.

Hitting 44 per cent from the field, the Blue Jays had three men scoring in double figures. Briggs poured in 20 points to take high game honors. Scott Central had four men scoring in double figures with Owens topping the crew with 16 points. They hit 42 per cent from the field.

Charleston controlled the rebounding over the Braves as they pulled 36 compared to the Braves 28.

Central hit on 20 of 28 free throws while Charleston netted 15 of 21 attempts.

Charleston's B squad won their eighth straight game, by dumping the Braves junior varsity 57-48.

$500,000 in Crop Loss Payments

NEW MADRID -- Corn, cotton and soybean farmers in New Madrid county shared in total estimated 1966 crop loss payments amounting to more than $500,000 paid by federal crop insurance corporation in Missouri.

Charles Lindley, Matthews, field representative in the district office, said the payments were made on the 1966 spring crops, destroyed by excessive moisture or drought.

He is now explaining the program to producers and taking applications on the 1967 crop.

New Library Dedicated

KANSAS CITY, (AP) - A new $400,000 library at the Nazarene Theological Seminary was dedicated Tuesday.

The dedicatory address was made by Dr. G.B. Williamson, a general superintendent.

The facility has room for 95,000 volumes and will seat 150 persons.

Hall Again Seeks To Remove Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., reintroduced at the opening of the new session of Congress a bill to ban admission fees at federal reservoirs.

Hall said in a statement the administrations attempts to impose the fees last year had been a dismal failure.

"It makes no sense to continue the fees at 20 per cent of the federal reservoir public use areas after finally agreeing to remove them at the other 80 per cent," he said.

$29,577 Grant To Cape Agency

KANSAS CITY - A $29,577 grant to Bollinger, Cape and Perry County Human Resources Corporation, Cape Girardeau, for the administration of community action programs, has been approved by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal agency in charge of the war on poverty.

Don Thomason, director of the north central region of OEO, made the announcement.

The 10-month grant will provide professional direction and leadership for the development and initiation of anti-poverty programs in a three-county area. The staff will comprise four professionals and 10 volunteer aides, who will be recruited from neighborhoods to be served.

The grantee is a non-profit agency, responsible for alleviating the social and economic status of low-income families and individuals.

Thomas E. Reeves is director.

COFFEE CORNER

Horrors! I just stepped on the scales and tipped them five pounds heavier than last year. Brother, I know one rather late New Year's resolution I'd better get busy and make, you guessed it, back to hard-boiled eggs and rabbit food, (that's the only thing I'll ever have in common with the bunnies anyway --- the food we eat). I just can't understand how pre-marriage I was a skinny 95 pounds and would have loved to gain weight. Then marriage, one baby, and wow! I refuse to even tell you my poundage. It just doesn't make sense. Before marriage I ate constantly and didn't lift a finger to do anything but turn the pages of a book, and now -- I starve myself constantly, don't lift one finger, but all ten (toes too), all the time, and just keep getting fatter. I've decided one thing about age is it sure doesn't cut you short, in fact, its most generous. You get more weight, more wrinkles, more grey hairs, more aches and pains, -- the only thing you seem to have less of is energy. Somehow, it looks to me as if it could have been worked out just a little better. I believe if I had been arranging people, I'd have made it so the kids were always pooped and the adults full of energy -- come to think of it maybe that much energy wouldn't be such a good idea after all. I hadn't considered what a problem the world might have with a population explosion! Hmmm, I guess someone had thought things out pretty thoroughly at that.

Oh bother, this really hurts me, turning through the pages of my recipes is making my salivary glands work overtime and my stomach is growling so loudly I don't hear the news on T. V. (the news being what it is nowadays, I guess it's just as well). Tell you what, I'll give you a fantastic pickle recipe, I can eat those.

1 gallon of sour pickles, drained and sliced
5 pounds of granulated sugar
1 package of pickling spices
3 cloves of garlic, sliced thin

In a large gallon jug, place a layer of pickles, sugar, spices and garlic, and continue layering until all ingredients are used and jar is full. Then for seven days, turn your jar once a day. That's it, and they are just divine.

Dear Readers, several of you have asked me to publish a cookbook with my favorite recipes. Well, I have written one and would love to have it printed, but until I have the assurance that certain number of these would be bought, I cannot do this as the price involved in getting them printed is fantastic!!! The book contains over a hundred recipes, lots of chatter, party ideas, easy and elegant meals to serve your guests, and lots more chatter (it's even a little spicey in spots and I don't mean the red pepper variety.)

It will be bound and contain illustrations, in fact, would make delightful gifts for those difficult to buy for. The cost would be $3.50. If you would buy, please call or write me and let me know how many books you'd desire. Do not send any money. If enough of you are interested, we'll go to press Feb. 1, with "Thank Hearnes for School or Why I Bake For the Truant Officer!!" Write or call your orders into Cherie Blanton.

Bureau Leaders Trained

A leadership training meeting was held for the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation in Southeast Missouri with 42 county leaders representing eight counties, present Thursday in the public library basement.

The meeting was the first for new state Farm Bureau president, Paul Pippitt, West Line, who has replaced retiring president Olin Monsees of Jefferson City.

Staff members and officers present, who shared the program on marketing, women's activities, memberships and service, legislation and resolutions, broke the discussion down to a county levy, to find the needs in this area.

State leaders present were John Summitt, Cardwell, Dick Gray, California; Benson Crane, Columbia; Clark Lewis, Margaret Schowengerdt, Russell Elsea and Richard Carroll, all of Jefferson City.

The Southeast Missouri Farm Bureau region includes the counties of Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Mississippi, Butler, Scott, Ripley and Cape Girardeau.

State to Offer Business Courses

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The department of commerce and business administration at Southeast Missouri State College will offer four night courses next semester, aimed at meeting the needs of the business community for individual improvement of skills.

Each of the four courses offers three hours of academic credit, although those enrolled need not be working towards an academic degree.

Each course will meet three hours per week, either on Monday evening or at another time mutually agreed upon by both the instructor and the class members.

Registration will be Jan. 26, in Kent Library at 6:30 p.m. A minimum of 15 students is required for each class.

Courses to be offered include business organization and management (emphasizing a behavioral science approach), under E. J. Harrick; data processing, under Robert Malahy; elementary accounting, under Robert Van Rigenmorten; and marketing, under Hayden Scheutts.

Course work will be built around the interests and problems of individual class members. Further information is available from the director of admissions at the college.

NOTHING SO SHOCKING
Let's face it, trial marriage
Goes on all the while-
Year after year, it's
Trial after trial!

THE Outlook for Business
for the first six months of 1967

RAILROAD INDUSTRY

Louis W. Menk President, Northern Pacific Railway Company.

The railroad industry set some significant traffic records in 1966 and made continuing advances in technology and equipment acquisition. The railroad should be reasonably well during the first six months of 1967, too, but it is doubtful if any gains will approximate the rate achieved during 1966.

Freight traffic volume in 1966 probably will exceed 750 billion ton - miles, an all-time high, while the average amount received for carrying one ton of freight one mile probably will decline to about one and one fourth cents, the lowest level since the late 1940's. This trend reflects the increasing carriage by unit train and larger cars of more and more commodities. I would expect the ton-mile rate to bottom out very near the one and one quarter cents figure during the first six months of 1967.

After record capital expenditures of about $1.7 billion in 1966, I would expect to see a decline of about 5 per cent during 1967, due to the loss of the 7 per cent tax credit.

The year 1967 will be an important year to the railroad industry because of substantial wage agreements with the various labor unions. Some already have been agreed upon. These will increase the industry's high rate of payment for wages and fringe benefits, which presently take some 46 cents of each revenue dollar. They will, however, provide employees with a level of wages that should make railroad careers even more attractive, especially to the talented young people we need.

Understandably, wage increases of this scope place even grater premium on increased railroad efficiency, which must be obtained through improved technology and management methods. While greater technological strides have been made by the railroad industry in recent years, we may expect to see such effort intensified in 1967 and subsequent years.

The wage increases bring great pressures to bear upon the freight rate structure. I am confident every effort will be made by the industry to hold the line on rates. But this may be impossible, especially if freight traffic volume does not increase during 1967. My feeling is that it will not increase in the over - all; gains in certain traffic categories will be offset by reductions in others.

Although equipment purchases and construction will be at a modestly reduced level, specialized cars being offered shippers will contribute significantly to greater over-all transportation efficiency.

The considerable problem of tailoring railroad passenger service to decreasing public usage, and of finding ways to cope with steadily increasing per passenger costs of operation, will continue to tax the ingenuity of railroad management during 1967. Although recording a traffic surge during the airline strike of last summer, railroad passenger-miles for 1967 may be expected to fall below 1.3 billion, less than the level of passenger business during the depression years of the 1930's.

Summing up, during the first six months of 1967, freight traffic can be expected to be at or near the same level of the first six months of 1966. Passenger traffic will decline 3 per cent or more. Net income should drop from 2 to 5 per cent, depending upon traffic factors for the particular railroad.

The major problem facing the industry in 1967 will be higher wage costs. Additionally, loss of the 7 per cent tax credit and the threat of a tax increase will have a bearish effect on railroad results. There will be great pressures for a freight rate increase as a result of higher wage costs, and it is doubtful if even selective rate increases can be avoided. The increasingly high cost of operating passenger trains, coupled with declining public use of them, will force further reduction in passenger train operations.

The industry, however, has made great strides in technology and management expertise in recent years and is better able to cope with current trends than perhaps at any time in recent years.

Six in Bootheel Committee Heads

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri House Speaker James E. Godfrey (Dem), St. Louis, streamlined the number of House committee chairman, by reducing the number appointed from 47 to 37.

Six committee chairmen were named from Southeast Missouri. They were, banks, Fred E. Copeland, New Madrid; transportation and natural resources, David Rolwing, Charleston; state institutions, Charles W. Foley, Hayti; accounts, Marvin E. Proffer, Jackson; interstate cooperation, Frank C. Ellis, Sedgewickville; mining, William F. Casey.

Proffer also was named vice chairman of the appropriations committee.

The Domincan Republic has a population growth of 3.5 per cent a year.

First Semester Ends at State

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- First-semester classwork at Southeast Missouri State ends officially this week with final examinations beginning Friday and continuing through Thursday.

Students will take a mid-semester break beginning Jan. 20, then enroll for the second semester Jan. 25-26.

Classes for the spring semester get underway Jan. 27.

Mrs. Rolwing Gives DAR Program on Newspapers

The Kings Highway Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Jan. 3 with Mrs. Helen Jones with Miss Isabel Hess as co-hostess.

Supper was served to 10 members and one guest. Mrs. Jones, regent, opened the meeting with the DAR ritual. Mrs. Audley A. Brown read the president general's report.

The national defense report was given by Miss Lucille Howlett. She reported that the Communists are moving into the colleges because youth has a long life and are not yet mature. A review was given of "The New Lift" by Phillip Abbott Luce, telling the life that he lead until he was 28 and how his early training won him back to democracy.

Mrs. Margaret Rolwing of Charleston read letters from the School of the Ozarks. Several members had received jellies, candy, honey and other products made at the school.

Members were reminded to fly their flags on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, and Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Jane Ann Baker, 313 Circle Dr., was on the list for an invitation to serve as a page at the state conference, March 22 - 24.

It was announced that anyone interested in making a chartered bus trip with the Missouri Delegation to the contenental congress April 13 to April 24 should contact Mrs. Jones, 507 Woodlawn.

The chapter decided to write a letter to preserve the house of Peter Leffent in Prospect Park, New York City.

Mrs. Rolwing gave the program on Missouri newspapers. Joseph Charles founded the first Missouri newspaper, the Missouri Gazette in 1808. Most of the news was political and what was new at the capital. The local news was gained by sitting in the stores. The newspapers tried to keep people together before the Civil War and banded together to keep them together after the war.

Club Tours Extension Center

For the regular monthly meeting Monday of the Meadow Lane Garden Club, 10 members had a luncheon in Portageville, after which the group visited the Missouri University Delta Extension center.

Mrs. J. H. Calvin was program chairman and she introduced Henry F. DeCarlo, a member of the staff at the center, who spoke on the proper planting, care and pruning of flowers and shrubs.

Following the program, DeCarlo conducted a tour of buildings at the center.

Of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodges, route three, visited their son, Harold, in Indianapolis, where he is a staff member at the Indiana School for the Blind. The three then drove to Canton to spend Christmas with the family of the Hodges' youngest son, Dale. Harold visited in St. Louis before returning to Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hackett of 806 Wayne entertained their son and his family this weekend. Here from Knoxville, Tennessee, were Mr. and Mrs. David Hackett and children Cindy and Mark.

Returning this Sunday, after two weeks spent at the home of her son and his family in Memphis, Tenn., is Mrs. Leland Hollis. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hollis and son Allen, and while there a new baby boy David Lynn, eight pounds, was added to the amily.

Daughters of Isabella Meet

The St. Francix Xavier Daughters of Isabella met last Wednesday night at the Knights of Columbus hall. Twenty members attended.

Mrs. Judy Hart, regent, presided. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane gave the opening and closing prayers.

Mrs. Mary Frances LeGrand, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved. Thirteen officers were present for roll call.

A letter of thanks from the Missouri Delta Community hospital for a donation was read. The circle also received a not of thanks from Msgr. McGrane for a Christmas gift.

Hostesses for the February business meeting will be Mrs. Pauline Kaullen, Mrs. Evelyn Pinnell and Mrs. Jerry Schlosser.

Seven hours of volunteer service were reported by the members during January.

Cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mrs. Josephine Schwab and Mrs. Marcella Layton.

Monsignor McGrane reviewed "The Rabbi" by Noah Gordon.

MRS. ELMER ERNST of Morehouse chooses a recipe from the cookbook she has compiled of her family's favorite foods.

Mrs. Elmer Ernst Compiles Cookbook of Favorite Foods

Editor's Note: This is the 20th in a series of articles about the homelife of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

MOREHOUSE — Mrs. Joyce Ernst likes to do things with her hands. She collects recipes and has compiled a family cookbook of favorite foods. She sews, making clothing for herself and her daughters, Sue, a freshman at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau, and Debbie, an eighth grade student.

She likes to arrange flowers and do artwork.

Mrs. Ernst's husband, Elmer, is a partner in the E and S Construction company.

The family attends St. Francis Xavier Catholic church in Sikeston. Mrs. Ernst is a member of the Daughters of Isabella and Ernst is grand knight of the Knights of Columbus.

The family likes to camp, fish and picnic in the summer.

A family treasure is a rocking chair that belonged to Mrs. Ernst's great-aunt.

Favorite recipes of the Ernst family are:

KRAUT RELISH

1 No. 303 can chopped kraut, drained
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped celery
1 can pimentoes, chopped
1 cup sugar
½ cup cider vinegar

Bring sugar and vinegar to full boil and boil one minute. Pour over the remainder of ingredients and let stand 6 hours before serving.

Mrs. Ernst says that this relish is particularly good with pork.

THRIFTY POUND CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup butter
1½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, mace and salt together three times. Cream butter with sugar and vanilla until fluffy and add eggs. Beat thoroughly. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Pour into greased tube pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for one hour.

PORK CHOPS SOUTHERN STYLE

5 pork chops
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoon lard
1 tablespoon green pepper
1 tablespoon worchestershire sauce
1 cup water
salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
onion seasoning to taste
½ cup whole kernel corn
½ cup rich cream sauce or tomato sauce

Dredge chops in flour, brown on both sides in hot lard. Place in buttered baking dish. Drain off part of the drippings in which chops have been browned. Mix seasonings, green peppers, corn and sauce. Pour over chops. Bake about one hour in 325 degree oven. Serve with apple sauce.

TUNA AUGRATIN

Sift together:
1½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt

In mixing bowl, cut in ½ cup shortening until particles are size of small peas. Sprinkle 4 to 5 tablespoons water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out to ⅛" thickness on floured surface. Fit loosely into 9 inch pie pan. Trim pastry from edge of shell and place extra pieces in small pan. Flute edge of shell. Prick generously with fork. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until light brown. Crumble pastry pieces for topping.

For tuna filling, combine in sauce pan:

1 can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons onion flakes.

Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1 package frozen peas, thawed and drained, 1 can pimento chopped, and 2 6½ ounce cans of tuna. Again bring to boil. Pour hot filling into baked pie shell. Sprinkle 1 cup shredded American cheese over filling and top with pastry crumbs. Bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

DATE NUT BREAD

1 6 ounces package pitted dates
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup butter
¾ cup boiling water
1½ cup all purpose flour
1 beaten egg
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts
2 teaspoons rum flavoring, if desired

Cut dates in four pieces each using kitchen shears. Combine with brown sugar and boiling water in mixing bowl. Sift flour, remeasure and add salt, soda and sift again. Add egg to date mixture. Then stir in flour mixture and rum flavoring. Beat well. Fold in chopped nuts. Turn into well greased loaf pan, 4½ by 8½ by 2½. Bake in 370 degree oven 60 to 70 minutes. When done, turn out on cake cooker and turn right side up immediately. Cool before slicing. Serves eight to 10.

Mrs. Ernst says that this bread keeps well.

SPEEDY BAKED BEANS

Saute 4 strips bacon, diced, and 1 large onion, minced, until bacon is crisp and onions yellow.

Stir in:

No. 1 tall
2 cans pork and beans,
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ cup chili sauce
½ cup brown sugar.

Pour into greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake uncovered until beans are brown and bubbley, approximately 45 minutes in 350 degree oven. Serves six.

Pills Get Credit For Birth Decline

TRENTON, N.J. AP — A Rutgers University sociologist says oral contraceptives are contributing to New Jersey's three - year decline in births.

"The pills have made it easier to control births and there are several million women in the country using them," said Dr. Robert Gutman, professor of sociology and population analyst at Rutgers.

Gutman said he felt the falling birth rate was most pronounced among Roman Catholics, who he said were using the pills in greater numbers, and the poor who "were unskilled in using mechanical contraceptives."

The State Health Department reported last week that 1966 marked the third successive lowering of the state's birthrate. There were 121,433 births last year, compared with 132,606 in 1963.

To become a pre-medical student, one must have a high school diploma and at least two years in a college of arts.

Viet Nam Montage

By Dick Vaughan, Jr.

ARTICLE #26

While I was still at Ft. Riley, Kansas, preparing to come over to Viet Nam, I managed to get back to Sikeston for a short leave.

When I returned to Ft. Riley, I took some Bar-B-Q meat with me. I explained to some of my friends that my Dad had cooked this meat at his Bar-B-Q market, and I gave them all a small piece of it.

Oddly enough, only one of them had ever before tasted real pit Bar-B-Q before and they all became "hooked" on it.

There is an unfortunate aspect to this story, at least from my point of view. All of them immediately assumed that because my Dad was so good at this business, that I, being his son, had inherited his talent. I was immediately appointed "cook pro-temp," and the other officers have spent a great part of this tour over here, scrounging up things for me to cook.

A few weeks back, two of them came driving into the compound yelling and laughing, and pointing to a trussed up object in the back of the jeep. It was a goat! "Look Dick, we feast tonight. Cook him!"

I stalled for time, "I have to give him seven days first, to make sure he doesn't have goat fever." It was the only thing I could think of at the moment.

"I never heard of that," they chorused.

"Of course not, but in S.E. Missouri, it is quite common," I replied with crossed fingers.

In the meantime, I dispatched a quick letter for help and instructions on cooking this thing from my Dad. While I was waiting on the letter to come back, the goat was placed in a hastily constructed pen, and was anxiously scrutinized daily, by the others, checking for any signs of "Goat Fever."

After receiving my awaited instructions, the cooking was carried out, and turned out pretty good, although it was pretty tough.

The ones who are here with me now, that were with me in Ft. Riley, remembered the pork though, and began telling the newer people about how good it was.

They immediately began making plans to acquire a pig. I could feel it coming. From then on, I noticed that every time we landed in some distant place, the Crew Chief and Door Gunner left on some secret mission.

Then last week at Phan-Thiet, it happened. Phan-Thiet is a small village with very few Americans, and only one small, but well-guarded Helipad. There was a lot of commotion at one of the guard posts near the pad, and I noticed our Crew Chief and Door Gunner arguing loudly with the Sentry. They were standing along-side a Lambretta three-wheeled scooter. There was a burlap bag on the ground jumping around and from which there emitted loud squeals.

"What is going on Dempsy?" I asked.

"Sir, they won't let me carry this bag of turnips out to the helicopter."

"Turnips?"

"Sir, I'm afraid to tell him it is a pig. You know how these Viet Namese guards are, he may try to confiscate it," he whispered to me.

"Did you steal it?" I asked.

"He no steal" the Lambretta driver assured me, "I sell to him."

"Then Guard, since that is my aircraft there, I will take full responsibility for the cargo, and I see no danger in loading these turnips aboard," I said.

"But I must look," the guard started to say.

"It is quite all right. Thank you for your attention to duty." The guard unhappily brought his rifle up to a salute, and we cheerfully loaded our "turnips" aboard the aircraft.

As I write this article, "Marsha" is waiting in the pen we originally built for the goat. Luckily, there are some butchers in the company, and I must say I am looking forward to some Bar-B-Q pork myself.

Junket and Trip Difference Defined

JEFFERSON CITY AP — How do you tell a useless legislative committee "junket" from a legitimate trip to gain information?

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis County, who has been a bitter foe of junketing, gave his yardstick Tuesday.

He told the Senate it's a junket if:

1. The information can be obtained by mail or telephone.

2. If the committee is going to Las Vegas or "some other watering spa." He noted that some committees have investigated Miami Beach every year.

3. If the characters of the men involved are such that they won't bring back any useful information to the legislature.

But he said some trips are legitimate. So he went along with the majority in supporting a resolution that would allow expenses for necessary trips of House and Senate leaders. He said this has not been abused in recent years.

Armed Forces

Colonel Elizabeth P. Hoisington

Colonel Elizabeth P. Hoisington, newly appointed director of the Women's Army Corps will make her first official visit to the St. Louis area on 19 January 1967. She will visi the U.S. Army Recruiting Main Station and will meet the women under her command throughout the St. Louis area.

As Director of the Women's Army Corps, Col. Hoisington is the principal adviser to the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff on all matters pertaining to the approximately 10,000 officers, warrant officers and enlisted women of the Corps, stationed in most of the 50 states and around the world, including Europe, The Pacific, the Far East and Southeast Asia. She advises on plans and policies for the recruitment, reception, classification, training, utilitzation, promotion, assignment, logistical support, separation, mobilization and career development of WAC personnel. The Colonel maintains liaison with other government and civilian agencies and with other women's military services, and acts as the United States Army representative to the women's Army groups of foreign nations. She also initiates and formulates plans and policies for the supervision, administration, morale and well-being of WAC personnel.

In choosing military service as a career, Colonel Hoisington followed the path of her father and her three brothers, all of whom were graduated from the United States Military Academy.

She has served in posts throughout the United States and overseas in both the European and Far Eastern theaters and just prior to becoming the seventh WAC Director she was Commanding Officer, U.S. Women's Army Corps Center and Commandant, U.S. Women's Army Corps School, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

A native of Newton, Kansas, the Colonel went on to become a graduate from the College of Notre Dame of Maryland in Baltimore in 1940. At Spokane, Washington in 1942, she enlisted in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (which became the Women's Army Corps in September 1943.) She is a graduate of Officers Candidate School, Army Exchange School, the WAC Officer Career Course, the Army Management School and the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College.

Long Asks New Mental Health Studes

ST. LOUIS -- U. S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), Monday night said the 90th Congress, which convenes tomorrow, "must make new strides forward in mental health and mental retardation legislation."

Senator Long was speaking at the annual dinner of the 83-year-old Missouri Baptist Hospital.

The Senator said the 90th congress "must encourage the development of psychiatric centers like the one here at the new Missouri Baptist Hospital."

"We need these centers close to the communities so that patients can be helped to re-adjust to living and working under normal conditions," Senator Long said.

"As a member of the senate committee on aging, I will be taking special interest in legislation to expand the older Americans act," Senator Long said.

Senator Long praised the work of the 89th congress which, he said, "last year passed 11 health bills, making it one of the most important health congresses in American history. The new 90th Congress must continue this record of achievement.

"This year congress must consider doing more to combat infant mortality," the senator warned. "Our rate continues to be far too high -- there are now ten countries in the world with a lower infant mortality rate than the United States," Long said.

Senator Long noted that the new Missouri Baptist Hospital complex has "pioneered in better hospital care."

"This year congress must make a major effort to encourage more hospitals to consider designing and building new buildings," the Missouri senator said.

"We must encourage more research and development in the field of hospital design and construction," Long said.

Senator Long said the United States "must marshall the same kinds of minds for these great health tasks as we are today putting into our space programs."

Your Dental Health

27 - SHOULD YOUR CHILD BE A DENTIST?

PRECEDE: The following is one of a series of articles being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with they Scott County Dental Society

Should your child be a dentist? It's a profession he might want to consider and it's a rewarding career.

The dentist is a respected member of his community. He is recognized as a major contributor to the health and well-being of people and is considered an integral part of any over-all health program.

Dentistry is exciting and stimulating work. Each patient is different and each dental problem a challenge to the dentist's skill and intelligence. It's work that needs doing. Less than 40 per cent of Americans get reasonably adequate and regular care. One in seven adults has never been to a dentist. Seven of ten need bridges or dentures.

Today there are about 93,000 practicing dentists, and by 1970 more than 104,000 will be needed. With our expanding population, the demand for dentists is increasing.

Dentistry is a well-paying profession, and the dentist's personal life can be pleasant. The average dentist earns $16,000 yearly after all expenses; the specialist about $24,000.

A dentist in private practice can set his own hours, and few emergencies demand his after-hours' time. He can choose the city or town in which he wants to practice and can have a long dental career if he desires. In fact, the average dentist works until age 68. He's his own boss.

To be successful in dentistry, certain qualifications are needed.

It takes intelligence. Applicants welcomed most warmly by the dental school admissions committees are those with well-diversified educational backgrounds and keen, scientific minds. Especially needed are the intellectually-inquisitive students who will become researchers and teachers in the clinical and biological sciences.

It takes ability to work and study hard. A dental student spends about 35 hours a week in class, laboratory and clinic -- and then spends most of his evenings in concentrated study.

It takes certain special skills. A dentist must be good with his hands, have excellent judgment of space and shape and have the ability to understand technical material.

And it takes the right personality. A dentist works with people all day. He must enjoy them, have their welfare at heart and be able to make them feel at ease.

Once a dentist has completed training, the many worlds of the profession open up for him. He can choose to be an educator or research scientist. He can become a specialist in one of the profession's eight special areas of dental practice and continue his training beyond dental school.

If your child meets these requirements, he may want to consider a dental career. The cost of dental education is high. But scholarships and loans may be available. Talk it over with your child. Have a word with your family dentist. He and the high school guidance counselor will tell you the next steps to take.

Missouri Press Report

Sen. Edward Long

The Ozarks Planning Commission is now considering new ways to stimulate economic growth in the Ozarks areas of Missouri and Arkansas.

The Commission told me recently that nearly a half million people moved out of the Ozarks between 1950 and 1960. This translates into a staggering economic loss to the area.

For example, the out-migration meant the loss to the area of one billion dollars in retail sales. During 1962 alone, losses in food sales in the Ozarks totaled $263,963,466, the Commission estimates.

Task of the Commission will be to help create more and better job opportunities in the Ozarks counties. With more jobs available, fewer people will leave, and the population loss trend could be reversed.

One goal will be to find ways of producing goods in the Ozarks which are normally shipped into the area from other parts of the country. The Commission hopes to stimulate industries which can "export" goods from the Ozarks and thus bring in new income. This increased income will then be available for investing in more economic development for the Ozarks.

The Ozarks Planning Commission was formed as a result of the Economic Development Act, which I co-sponsored in the Senate, and which passed in Congress during 1965.

Am keeping in close touch with the Commission's work for I am deeply hopeful that these efforts will be successful.

The year-end report of the U. S. Bureau of Mines says the biggest lead-zinc development in the Nation is taking place in Missouri's "Lead Belt" area.

The report says industrial requirements for lead and zinc broke all records during 1966. The construction of new mines and smelter facilities in Missouri are beginning to provide a major increase in U. S. lead output, the report says.

Now under construction in Southeast Missouri is the first U. S. lead smelter to be built in 40 years. It will turn out 100,000 tons of pig lead annually, plus 50,000 tons of sulphuric acid byproduct.

Yet another company will soon begin producing refined lead in Missouri. Located 3 miles away from our new lead smelter, the new Buick Lead Project has just been announced by American Metal Climax, Inc., and Homestake Mining Company. The new project will cost $35,000,000 and production will begin late in 1967, the two companies said.

The latest disccveries of the U. S. space research program are being made available to U. S. industries.

James Webb, head of the U.S. space agency recently presented me with the 1,000th technical brief containing a new technique that can be used by U. S. manufacturers. The brief was prepared by Midwest Research Institute, in Kansas City. Midwest Research has pioneered in the nation's effort to get the new ideas discovered in space research out to the businessmen and private industries where new ways of doing things can produce new jobs and better products.

Girl in Miniskirts Get Blue Knees

LONDON AP -- Girls wearing miniskirts are getting blue knees in Britain's first big freeze of 1967. More than 100 in thigh-high skirts walked out of classes at Reading College of technology near London.

"It's not so bad for the boys in their warm trousers," explained one fashionable but freezing young lady. "But we girls in miniskirts found our knees and legs turning blue."

College authorities said a shortage of stokers in the boiler rooms cut the central heating system to quarter power. Ink froze in the college's printing works.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, of England, is 66 years old.

When votes were counted in an election for city commissioners of gainesville, Ga., it was found two candidates had a tie -- 674 each. There was one write-in vote. It was for Batman.

C.L. Gipson Dies at Home

Clifford L. Gipson, 67, wholesale grocery salesman, died Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at his home at 722 Sikes Ave. after an illness from a heart ailment of one year.

He was born near Canalou, Sept. 15, 1899, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gipson.

He was a salesman for the McKnight - Keaton Grocer Company more than 25 years.

He was a deacon in the First Baptist church, and had served as president and secretary of the Agoga men's Sunday school class. He was the class secretary at the time of his death.

He also was a member of the Masonic Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cathleen Baty Gipson; one son, Clifford L. Gipson Jr., Phoenix, Ariz.; two daughters, Mrs. Ann Todd, Brunswick, Ga., and Mrs. Norma Jean Lenon, Jefferson City; one brother, John Gipson, Sikeston; two sisters, Mrs. Dell Winder, St. Louis and Mrs. Golda Bragg, Poplar Bluff; and five grandchildren.

Services tentatively are set for Friday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist church, with the Rev. James W. Hackney, pastor, officiating.

Masonic services will be held in the Welsh Funeral Chapel Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Burial will be in City cemetery.

George Kernell Dies Tuesday

George Kernell, 73, Diehlstadt rural, a retired carpenter, died Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Cape Girardeau Osteopathic hospital.

He was born Oct. 28, 1893, in Toulou, Ky.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Clara Akers, Cape Girardeau, and nieces and nephews.

Services will be Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Welsh Funeral Chapel in Sikeston.

Burial will be in the old Morley cemetery.

Ada Conners Service Monday

CHARLESTON - Services for Ada Conners, 86, a resident of the Henson community, will be Sunday at 11 a.m. in St. Paul Baptist church, with the Rev. Alex Banks, officiating.

Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery, with Sparks Funeral in charge.

Congress later in January.

The new budget, he said, will project spending of $135 billion, revenues of $126.9 billion, and a deficit of $8.1 billion.

For the current year, he said spending now is likely to total $126.7 billion compared with revenues of $117 billion. That would leave a deficit of $9.7 billion.

Several times in his text, Mr. Johnson spoke of "a time of testing" for the nation.

"At home," he said, "the question is whether we will continue working for better opportunities for all Americans. . . .

"Abroad, the question is whether we have the staying power to fight a costly war, when the objective is limited and the danger to us seemingly remote."

Discussing domestic programs, President Johnson conceded that there have been "mistakes and setbacks in some of his recently enacted "Great Society" programs. He promised to try to overcome these and said that, despite them, "we are moving, and our direction is forward."

Officials said next year's budget for the anti-poverty program would be increased by about $270 million from the current level of $1.75 billion if Congress authorizes new activities Mr. Johnson proposes.

The President said last October he would seek an average increase of at least 10 per cent in Social Security benefits.

Tuesday he told Congress he wants the average boost to hit 20 per cent -- with the range running a minimum of 15 per cent to a maximum of 59 per cent.

President Johnson talked only in general terms about the civil rights program he will propose but sources said it would include a new approach to open housing -- an item that was largely responsible for the death of 1966 civil rights proposals.

victim could not have been more than 10 feet from the gun when it was fired. He said he thought he was probably from three to five feet from the shotgun.

The doctor stated that there was only slight angulation in the trajectory of the wound, and that none of the shot passed completely through the body.

No powder burns were found on the body, the doctor said.

Merrill Jones, a clerk in charge of the records room at State Hospital No. 4 in Farmington, was called to the stand and asked to identify a folder containing medical records on the deceased Clennis Ables. Jones identified the folder and was dismissed. The records were not read at the hearing.

Lt. James E. Stone of the Sikeston police department told of finding two spent shotgun shells at the Boshears' residence the night of the shooting. He also said he found a fifth of whisky, about one third full, on the kitchen table of the residence.

Wadding was found on the front porch of the residence, Stone said. The whisky bottle, the wadding and clothes of the deceased have been sent to crime laboratories in Jefferson City for tests, Stone said.

Scott county deputy Eddie Michael testified that he found footprints of someone who had gone barefoot in the snow around the Boshears residence the night of the slaying. He also described a hole in a masonite kickboard on the front door of the porch.

The footprints were made by Mrs. Boshears, Michael said. And the hole in the masonite is believed to have been made by a shotgun blast.

Attorneys for the defendant attempted to ask questions concerning the reputation of Clennis Ables, but the prosecutors objections were sustained on the basis that the Ables reputation had no bearing on the hearing.

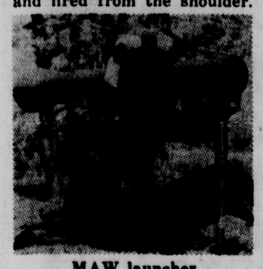
Army Tests MAW to Suit The Soldier

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (ANF)—Quickly now, who knows the meaning of anthropometry? (Pronounced AN-throw-POM-eh-tree)

It's the science of measuring the human body and its parts. And it was the name of the engineering tests conducted here earlier this month on the Army's Medium Anti-tank Assault Weapon (MAW), the first guided missile system light enough to be carried by one man and fired from the shoulder.



MAW launcher

During the anthropometry tests, about 200 soldiers of all sizes and weights handled and fired the 27-pound MAW from a variety of positions. The tests were conducted to develop a weapon that is tailored for the man—instead of having to adapt the man to the weapon.

Data from the tests is being incorporated in the MAW engineering model phase hardware by the U. S. Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal. The McDonnell Co., Titusville, Fla., is the prime contractor.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Readers: My niece who lives in Omaha sent me Twelve Rules for Rearing Children. Her pediatrician had handed her these rules and explained that he gives them to all young mothers. I read the rules and recognized them as my own. Closer examination revealed that the physician had credited Ann Landers as the author --- which I appreciate.

I am offering the rules again today for the benefit of young mothers who were high school kids when the rules first appeared. --- ANN LANDERS

1. Remember that a child is a gift from God, the richest of all blessings. Do not attempt to mold him in the image of your neighbor. Each child is an individual and should be permitted to be himself.

2. Don't crush a child's spirit when he fails. And never compare him with others who have outshone him.

3. Remember that anger and hostility are natural emotions. Help your child to find socially acceptable outlets for these normal feelings or they may be turned inward and erupt.

4. Discipline your child with firmness and reason. Don't let your anger throw you off balance. If he knows you are fair you will not lose his respect or his love. And make sure the punishment fits the crime.

5. Remember that each child needs two parents. Present a united front. Never join with your child against your mate. This can create emotional conflicts in your child as well as in yourself.

6. Do not hand your child everything his little heart desires. Permit him to know the thrill of earning and the joy of deserving. Grant him the greatest of all satisfactions -- the pleasure that comes with personal achievement.

7. Do not set yourself up as the epitome of perfection. This is a difficult role to play 24 hours a day. You will find it easier to communicate with your child if you let him know that Mom and Dad make mistakes, too.

8. Don't make threats in anger or impossible promises when you are in a generous mood. Threaten or promise only what you can live up to.

9. Do not smother your child with superficial manifestations of love. The purest and healthiest love expresses itself in day-in, day-out training which breeds self-confidence and independence.

10. Teach your child that there is a dignity in work whether it is performed with calloused hands that shovel coal or skilled fingers that manipulate surgical instruments. Let him know that a useful life is a blessed one.

11. Do not try to protect your child against every small blow and disappointment. Adversity strengthens character and makes us compassionate. Trouble is the great equalizer. LET HIM LEARN IT.

12. Teach your child to love God and to love his fellow man. Don't send your child to a place of worship --- take him there. Children learn from example. Telling him something is not teaching him. If you give your child a deep and abiding faith in God it can be his strength and his light when all else fails.

Alconol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

VIETNAM TRIP

I have just returned from some six weeks in the Pacific, the Far East, the Middle East and parts of Europe, and am now working on a report to be filed with the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee.

As soon as the report is cleared for security, it will be released to the public and will be sent to any who are interested.

On this trip I visited with foreign and United States officials in Guam, Thailand, Laos, Vietnam, the United Arab Republic, Jordan, Israel, and Spain.

Above all other impressions was again one's pride in the superb ability and dedication of our servicemen. I had the opportunity of visiting with hundreds of them, including many from Missouri.

PRIME MILITARY CONTRACTS

In the first quarter of fiscal year 1967 (July 1 to September 30, 1966), Missouri firms received $717 million in prime military contracts, 7.5% of these awards in that period. This ranks our State as fourth in the nation.

In the fiscal year 1966, the 12 months ending last June 30, Missouri received 3.5 % of these military procurement actions. This ranked us 8th as compared to 5th in the fiscal year 1965 and fourth in 1964.

In Department of Defense civil contracts, which include flood control, rivers and harbors, during the first quarter of fiscal 1967, Missouri firms received 3.19% of all contracts for civil functions ranking us 13th among the 50 states. In the fiscal year 1966 Missouri ranked 9th receiving 3.56% of civil procurements as compared to a ranking of 11th in fiscal 1965 and 14th in the fiscal 1964.

INTERSTATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM

When Rex M. Whitton retired December 31 as Highway Administrator and he and Mrs. Whitton moved back to Missouri to make their home in Independence, the nation lost one of its most able public servants. In the last six years, this dedicated American of whom we Missourians are so proud, has directed the greatest highway building program in world history.

Throughout the United States over 22,100 of the miles of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways are now open to traffic. When completed, now scheduled for 1972, 41,000 miles of freeways will connect more than 90 per cent of all cities of populations of 50,000 or more, and will carry 20% of the nation's traffic even though it will include only 1% of the nation's total road and street mileage.

The system will save at least 8,000 lives per year. The Bureau of Public Roads estimates that travel on the Interstate is 2 1/2 times as safe as on older roads with comparable traffic.

As of September 30, 1966, 721.7 miles of the Interstate Highway System in Missouri had been completed, 385.1 miles are in the process of being completed and 12.3 miles are in preliminary planning stages, bringing a total designated system mileage for the state to 1,119.1 miles.

In Missouri, total cost of the roads completed has been $493. 9 million with Federal funds providing $441.5 million of the amount. Of the projects underway, the total cost is $241.9 million, the Federal share being $216 million.

As compared to other states, Missouri ranks 9th in highway funds from the Federal government, 10th in total designated system mileage, 8th in total miles open to traffic, and 7th in total miles completed to full or acceptable standards.

I CAN'T TAKE IT WITH ME SO

I have to sell my home. It's an older house with large rooms and a lot more comfortable living space than appears on the outside. It has an efficiency apartment with inside and outside entrances that can help make the payments. An extra heavy roof and gas furnace are only 7 years old. There are 3 bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room and enclosed porch besides the apartment and a basement with another bath. The inside needs redecorating and I'm moving Jan. 20, so I've slashed the price nearly $1500 under appraisal value and will throw in the apartment furniture. I would consider trading on a smaller single family house that I could rent. Call C. D. Butler any week day at GR 1-4474 or GR 1-0034.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE POTTED JOCKEY

Jockey Johnny got so inebriated, one night, that he couldn't even pronounce it. But even worse than being drunk, he stole a rear view mirror off a car and was charged and convicted of petty larceny. The result? The next morning the State Racing Commission revoked his jockey license because of "improper conduct detrimental to the best interests of racing."

Demanding the restoration of his license, Johnny took the matter to court.

"It's not fair," he protested to a judge. "I didn't murder anybody. All I did was to take one drink too many. The headache I had the next morning was sufficient punishment."

"It's not that simple," retorted a member of the Racing Commission. "When a jockey gets drunk and commits a crime, his conduct hurts the sport and everyone in it. Under such circumstances, instead of the horses, he's the one to be booted."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you put Johnny back in the saddle?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! In so holding, the judge said that to ride a horse in the Sport of Kings is an ancient and honorable pursuit, occasionally receiving the adulation of its devotees, but jockeys as a class are not necessarily either connoisseurs of art or paragons of virtue or sobriety. Consequently, "improper conduct," to be sufficent to cause revocation of a jockey's license, must be more directly related to racing than his having had to much to drink.

(Based upon a 1960 Ohio Court of Appeals Decision)

It rarely, if ever, pays to blow your top and tell someone what you think of him. Not only don't you gain anything by it, but you may end up having to defend a slander suit. It's generally wiser, if not cheaper, to count to ten and forget about it.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

O God, thou art my God, I see thee, my soul thirsts for thee; my flesh faints for thee, as in a dry and weary land where no water is. (Psalm 63:1, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, for whom our souls thirst, help us to turn to Thee with a whole heart and find in Thee the satisfaction of the soul's hunger. Help us to give ourselves to Thee with sincerity that we may find in Thee our joy and salvation. In the Savior's name.....Amen.

Zip Code to Aid Mailing

Use of zip code will make it easier to mail packages after Sunday, acting Postmaster Ewart S. Taylor, said today.

New rates and a new system for identifying parcel post zones will go into effect on that date as provided in a new law.

The rate increases will average about 10 cents a parcel, the postmaster said. Starting July 1, the law provides for a series of size and weight increases on packages mailed between first class offices. Sikeston is a first class office. The size and weight increases will be in five annual steps, the last coming July 1, 1971.

Use of zip code in the recipient's address will enable the sender or a mail clerk to quickly determine the proper zone, and thus the rate, for the package. The zones will be based on the distance a parcel travels between the 552 sectional centers in the country, Postmaster Taylor said.

By consulting a chart, available at post offices, the zone can be identified readily because the first three numbers of the zip code represent the sectional center. This replaces a method in which a directory often had to be consulted to locate the zone for each of the nation's 33,000 post offices.

The new rates will range from 40 cents for a three-pound parcel destined for local delivery to 60 cents for the same parcel to zone three (150 to 300 miles) to $1.05 to zone 8 (over 1,800 miles). The new zoning method will also apply to air parcel post, catalogs and to publishers who pay zone rates on the advertising portion of their periodicals.

Postmaster Taylor noted that all parcels mailed between post offices within the Sikeston sectional center will be charged at the first zone rate. There are 53 offices within the Sikeston section center.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, January 11th, the 11th day of 1967. There are 354 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, Japan declared war on The Netherlands and then proceeded to invade The Netherlands East Indies.

On this date.

In 1805, the territory of Michigan was created.

In 1861, Alabama seceded from the union.

In 1865, Missouri adopted an ordinance abolishing slavery.

In 1897, the United States and Great Britain signed a treaty to arbitrate the boundary between Alaska and Canada.

In 1949, San Diego, Calif., had the first snowfall of its 99 years of recorded weather history.

Ten years ago. . . the new British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan pledged that the primary goal of his government would be the reestablishment of Britain as a strong partner of the United States.

Five years ago . . . President Kennedy personally delivered his annual "State of the Union" message to Congress. He expressed full confidence in the country's domestic and international outlook and made 34 legislative requests.

One year ago. . . Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri died of a heart attack shortly after signing a declaration with Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan. The declaration called for withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani troops from positions won in fighting in the disputed Kashmir region the fall before.

Exceed United Fund Goal Of $33,400

Matthews Next Drive Chairman

The United Fund campaign has exceeded the $33,400 goal and elected Charles D. Matthews as campaign chairman for the next drive at a Tuesday board meeting, chairman Henry Bussey said.

Final tabulations have not been recorded but the goal has been exceeded, Bussey reported. A few letters with pledges and checks have to be counted.

The drive this year began Oct. 4, and was scheduled to close by Nov. 8. The deadline was extended.

Matthews will take on the chairmanship in July, and will pick his own directors. Previously, directors have been elected by the board.

Matthews and his wife, Janice, have two sons, Matt, 10, Christopher, 7, and a daughter, Melissa, 1. They live at 1 Cotton Trace.

He graduated from the University of Missouri school of business in 1954, and received a law degree at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

He has been a partner in the law firm of Potashnick and Matthews two and one half years.

Agencies in the United Fund are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, City Welfare Center, American Red Cross, Salvation Army and the United Service organizations.

Boy Scout Banquet Set

The annual appreciation banquet for Boy Scout leaders in the Okeechobee district will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 19, at the American Legion Hall.

The banquet is held to show appreciation to all volunteer leaders in the organization.

Hearnes Denies Planned Surplus

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - A Republican charge that the state had built up a "planned surplus" of $100 million was denied by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday.

"That is not true" he told a news conference.

He said inflation was the main cause of the surplus and many states underestimated their revenues last year. He expressed hope "the minority will help preserve the fiscal responsibility of the state."

The governor said he hoped the legislature would be able to solve the congressional redistricting problem before its adjournment June 30, otherwise a special session would be necessary "and I don't want any more of that."

FFA State Officers To Visit Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- Residents of Southeast Missouri will have the opportunity to meet the officers of the Missouri Association of Future Farmers of America during their annual goodwill tour.

The FFA leaders will visit Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Jackson, Kennett, Dexter, Charleston, Caruthersville, Poplar Bluff, and Bloomfield, where they will present programs to service clubs and special programs for representatives from surrounding towns. Radio, television and press interviews are scheduled.

Schools, industries, and other points of interest in the area will be visited by the group.

The tour is planned to help the people of Southeast Missouri gain a better understanding of vocational agriculture and the FFA. The officers will have the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Missouri business and agriculture.

The tour is planned to help the people of Southeast Missouri gain a better understanding of vocational agriculture and the FFA. The officers will have the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Missouri business and agriculture.

The 12 state officers and their three adult leaders will divide into three groups in order to meet the schedule. All of the group will assist with area meetings to be held at Jackson Jan. 23, and Poplar Bluff Jan. 25. Both are 6:30 p.m. dinner meetings.

These meetings will give all FFA chapter representatives and guests in the district the opportunity to hear their state officers. These dinner meetings will be attended by approximately 250 people from about 45 towns in Southeast Missouri. Representatives and guests from each chapter will include the instructor of vocational agriculture, an FFA member, and three or four men representing business, farming, boards of education, and school administrators.

Young men, who now hold the degree of American farmer, and past state FFA officers, are expected to attend.

Chamber of Commerce officials, officers of service clubs, and host instructors, of vocational agriculture will assist the group in meeting the schedule.

Salisbury Feels Viet Reds Won't Negotiate Forcibly

HONG KONG (AP) — Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, said today he does not believe that Communist North Vietnam can be "compelled to come to a conference table."

"These people strike me as being very tough, very hardy, very independent and very courageous," Salisbury said in a taped interview with Radio Hong Kong on his two-week visit to North Vietnam.

"They say, and I rather believe them, that you cannot drag them to the conference table: that they can't be beaten into submission.

"They would rather go back to the jungles and the mountains and fight a guerrilla war for 20 years against the United States as they did against the French."

Reporting his findings during two weeks of talks and observation in the Communist capital, Salisbury said he did not believe a serious military defeat would force Hanoi into negotiations.

"I think there are two circumstances which highly color the thinking of the North Vietnamese," Salisbury said.

"One is their defeat of the French at Dien Bien Phu. This is their greatest achievement, to their way of thinking, and I think that they cannot help when they are considering the prospect of the further course of the war, they can't help believing that sometime there may be an opportunity for a Dien Bien Phu against the United States. That's point No. 1.

"Now, point No. 2. I do believe that they are deeply conditioned by their experience, first with the French in the negotiations immediately after the war and then again with the results of the Geneva negotiations. In both cases they feel, rightly or wrongly, they feel that they were let down, that they reached an agreement and the other side refused to abide by them.

"As a result of that they say, time and again and quite openly, that they have to be doubly sure this time if they go into negotiations it's going to be one in which the agreement can be enforced. And those terms, an agreement which can be enforced, were used specifically to me by Pham Van Dong, their prime minister."

Salisbury said American policy with regard to the bombing of North Vietnam "seems to me to have been a little bit unclear."

"We started it with the contention that it was designed to bring the North Vietnamese to the conference table. In other words, we would increase the military pressure on them and when they felt it enough, they would be willing to negotiate.

"Well, we have been at it for nearly two years and, as far as I can see, negotiations are just about as far away as ever."

Earl M. Allen Helps Select Circus Greats

SARASOTA, FLA. -- Earl M. Allen, of 516 South New Madrid St., Sikeston, Mo., participated in the annual election of circus greats announced Tuesday afternoon by the circus hall of fame.

He is a member of the hall of fame's national awards committee, which selects people each year from the performing artist, business or maintenance categories of big top entertainment.

Elected to the hall of fame were Ernestine Clarke Baer, equestrienne and flying trapese star; Jorgen M. Christiansen, animal trainer; and the late Matthew B. Buckley, one-time performer and circus manager.

Allen was present as Christiansen personally accepted his hall of fame award from Col. William W. Naramore, president of the Sarasota attraction, in the center ring of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. After receiving his award, Christiansen, now retired and living in Rochester, Ind., then blew the ringmaster's whistle to officially start the 1967 performance of "The Greatest Show on Earth" at nearby Venice, Fla.

The national awards committee consists of 12 circus historians from across the country whose hobby has been big top entertainment. Committee members work toward creating an understanding of the educational and recreational value of the circus.

Allen is central vice president of the Circus Fans association of America.

Gunshot Wound Fatal

NEW MADRID -- A New Madrid youth who was accidentally shot Friday night died Tuesday afternoon at the Jewish hospital in St. Louis.

Melvin Kellum, about 18, died from a gunshot wound which he received while wrestling over a pistol with Willie Ross, about 30, at a bar on Russell street Friday.

The gun discharged and the bullet hit Kellum in the throat. Following the shooting Kellum told police that he and Ross were only playing and that the shooting was an accident. Ross was not charged.

Kellum was first taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kellum.

The body is being returned to Richards Funeral Home.

Thompson Is Bound Over to Circuit Court

BENTON -- Tommy Lee Thompson, 18, Sikeston, charged with felonious burglary, was bound over to circuit court following a preliminary hearing in magistrate court this morning.

He will appear in circuit court Thursday morning.

Thompson is charged with burglary of a wallet and clothing from the Daris Burgess residence, 842 Ruth, Feb. 17, 1965.

Thompson was acquitted of a first degree murder charge last month at Jackson in connection with the Feb. 1, 1965, gun slaying of Mrs. W. R. Lewis of Sikeston.

$555,000 Funded for DAEOC

PORTAGEVILLE - The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Monday night was informed that three of the submitted DAEOC projects have been approved and funded in the amount of $555,000.

Two board members, J. V. Conran of New Madrid and Conner Hicks of Risco, resigned as members of the DAEOC board.

Hal Hunter of New Madrid will replace Conran and William Johnson of Risco will replace Hicks.

Reports were given by Gene Cross of Jefferson City, technical assistant to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, and Dean Lupkey of Kansas City, a regional supervisor from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lupkey notified DAEOC of the approval of the three programs, administration component, neighborhood service centers and homemaker aides, the latter a program conducted through the University of Missouri extension centers.

Lupkey said an additional $170,000 is available but requests for this fund must come directly from the county OEO boards.

The neighborhood service center program has been conducting 32 centers in the six Southeast Missouri counties, but because of a cutback in federal funds made last year the number of centers will be reduced to 24, four in each county.

Maddox Pledges Peaceful Term

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Gov. Lester G. Maddox promised today to initiate a "people's administration" devoid of extremism or violence, and to seek legislative reapportionment, a constitutional convention and a task force approach to the state's problems.

Maddox, 51, a segregationist who ran second in the popular vote in November, toppled Republican Howard H. Callaway, 182-66, in balloting Tuesday by the General Assembly, which, by law, made the choice because neither candidate received a majority in the election.

Extension Council Election Tuesday

BENTON -- Sixteen nominees have been selected to fill eight vacancies created by expiring terms on the University of Missouri extension council of Scott County, advises Joe Engram, council chairman.

An election will be held in eight polling places Tuesday, from 1 p.m. until 5:30 p.m.

The County is divided into five districts which comprise all the old townships. District 1, which encompasses the north end of Scott County, has one person to elect. Those nominated are Joe Schwartz route 1, Illmo, incumbent; and Franklin Schlosser, route 1, Illmo. The polling places are Kelso Milling Company at Scott City and the lobby of the court house.

District II borders district I on the New Hamburg to Chaffee Highway. A and on the south by the Baseline Road, Mo. 91, with Highway 61 as the eastern border. Four have been nominated: J. W. Rencher, Bill Graviett, Frank Hahn, incumbent, and Ralph Heisserer, incumbent all of route 1, Oran.

Two are to be elected.

District III -- Benton to Commerce Road as northern border and Highway 61, south to Morley and Baseline Road to river is the area in district III. One person will be elected from two nominees. Mrs. Dewey Hagar, Benton and Mrs. Clifford Hubbard, both of route 1, Benton. The Lobby of the court house is the polling place.

District IV -- This district borders district III on north and has Highway 61 as western border and county line as southern border. Two people are to be elected from these four nominees: Mrs. Gordon Deason, Mrs. W. A. Beggs, Tom Duff, and Gordon Deason, all of Blodgett.

Mrs. Deason is serving on the council.

Polling places are Deason Bros. Store, Blodgett, and the court house.

Nominees are Joe Engram, Vanduser; Layton Hubbard, route 4, Sikeston; Arnold Stone, route 4, Sikeston; and Mrs. Helen Howle, Sikeston.

Joe Engram is serving as chairman of the council.

Two are to be elected from district V. Polling places are: 1st National Bank Community Room, Sikeston; Vanduser Gin Co., Vanduser; McMullin Gin Co., McMullin; and the lobby of the court house.

Citizens of voting age living in the county are eligible to vote.

The council is responsible for the extension program in Scott county.

Twitty Hired for Four Year Term

The board of education Tuesday moved to continue faculty contracts for 1967-68 subject to the approval of superintendent. Contracts expire June 30.

The new contracts to be offered July 1, will include an increase in the salary schedule. The schedule will be adopted in the next three to four weeks by the board. A faculty committee and administrative leaders are working out details.

Supt. Twitty stated that the schedule must be competitive with other area schools. Additional money can be added to the teachers fund by diverting revenue from other school funds and from anticipated additional state funds as recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his budget message.

The superintendent's contract was renewed for a four-year period.

The board was informed that the citizens advisory council for schools last week unanimously endorsed the move toward educational improvement. Included in the improvements discussed were pay increases, possible changes in the organizational pattern for better student grouping, improvements in the curriculum and new building facilities.

Board secretary, Charles Matthews, was asked to work with the administration in preparing to finance building improvements to be submitted to voters at the annual April election.

The exact amount of the bond proposal has not yet been fixed, pending a study of the district's bonding capacity. It will probably be $1,300,000 to $1,400,000.

To this $200,000.00 will be added in federal funds promised to the district, to be matched by an equal amount of local money for expansion of the building facilities at the trade-technical school. No tax increase will be needed.

Outlined as needs are a new elementary school, additional classrooms, a second floor-balcony to add bookshelf space to the high school library, enlargement of the cafeteria and kitchen at the high school, added classrooms and shops at the trade-technical institute, a field house at the high school and an auditorium-theater building.

The field house would include an indoor track, a removable basketball court and would seat 5,000 or more. The facility would serve physical education needs of the school, provide space for athletic events, community exhibits, conventions and meetings.

At the request of the Sikeston community teachers association, a written policy for improved teacher administration-board cooperation for school improvement was approved.

The board also passed a resolution paying respect to Nathan Lambert, assistant coach, who died in an automobile accident Friday.

Other board business included the payment of incidental fund bills totaling $13,976.21; building fund bills of $1,133.61 and textbook fund $394.86.

Ten Adult Courses Offered to Adults

A college credit course from the University of Missouri titled "Rural Real Estate Appraisal" will be organized in Sikeston.

This is a course for real estate dealers, salesmen, farmers and bankers.

Anyone interested in taking this course may notify Tom B. Stroup, county extension director, University Ext. Center, in Benton. The telephone number is KI 5-3517.

The course is offered by the agricultural economics department of the college of agriculture and carries three credit hours.

The classes, if organized, will meet for four hours each week for ten weeks. A minimum of 20 is required.

Dr. Frank Miller, professor emeritus in the university of Missouri college of Agriculture will teach the course.

The classes will begin on or Nine other short courses are offered through University of Missouri extension centers in Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott, and Stoddard counties.

They are creativeness and intellectual development, interior design, meal service for different occasions, grain storage and drying, beef cattle feeding, soils, corn production, self improvement and farm machinery investments.

Applications and brochures are available at extension centers.

Instructors are from the University of Missouri faculty or extension specialists. Exceptions are the self improvement course which will be taught by a former faculty member of Stephens College, and the soils course, which will be taught by John Garrett, area soils agent.

The courses are scheduled to get underway Jan. 26, 7:30 p.m., at Sikeston high school. They will be held on Thursday nights each week for five or more weeks.

The instructors from Columbia will be flown in the University of Missouri's DC-3 airplane and returned each night.

Boshears Bound For Trial

Bill Gene Boshears, 34, 103 Selma, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clennis Ables, 2010 Kentucky on Dec. 23, 1966, was bound over to circuit court in Benton following a preliminary hearing in magistrate court Tuesday.

Boshears is to appear Thursday. Charges against him will be read, and a trial date is expected to be set following the arraignment.

Eight witnesses including a neighbor to the defendant, three Sikeston police officers and the Cape Girardeau pathologist who performed the autopsy on Ables' body entered testimony at the hearing.

Sikeston police officer Dolph Webb Jr., the first officer to arrive at the Boshears residence the night of the slaying, was the first to testify.

Webb related that when he arrived near the Boshears' residence he heard a shot and saw a woman carrying a child in her arms run from the side of the house. He said he drove past the house and the woman (Mrs. Boshears) got into the police car. Another shot was fired and officer Webb radioed for help, he said.

Webb said he saw a man walk from 103 Selma to 105 Selma where he talked with a neighbor. Webb said he asked the man, later identified as Boshears, if he was the one doing the shooting.

Boshears was then placed under arrest, handcuffed and put into the rear seat of the patrol car, officer Webb said.

Webb also told of going to the front porch of the Boshears residence, where he saw Ables' body. He called an ambulance and took a 20 gauge shotgun from the house.

John A. Cowan, 105 Selma, took the stand and testified that he saw and talked to Boshears the night of the slaying.

Cowan said he saw Boshears walk across his (Cowan's) lawn the night of the slaying. Cowan said Boshears told him, "I didn't want to, but I had to shoot him. I just had to shoot Clennis Ables."

Cowan said he couldn't believe what Boshears was saying, so he asked him where the shooting took place. Cowan said Boshears said, "at my house. . . He's lying over there now."

Cowan said this conversation took place before officer Webb arrested Boshears. Cowan said he and his son took a blanket over to the Boshears residence to cover the body.

Cowan was the third and last witness called by the state, represented by Scott County prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick. Coroner William Clyde Poe entered testimony describing the wound and disposition of the body, prior to Cowan's appearance on the stand.

The attorneys for the defendant called Dr. Thomas L. Lovinggood, a Cape Girardeau pathologist who performed the autopsy on Ables' body.

Dr. Lovinggood related that three metallic pellets about a ¼ of an inch in diameter were removed from the body. The doctor estimated that the

State of Union Reactions Vary Critical to Favorable

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's State of the Union message was criticized by civil rights leaders during a nationwide discussion of the address over the National Educational Television network.

For the first time, 75 educational stations throughout the country carried a live hookup of the State of the Union message. After the address, civil rights leaders, economists, historians and others expressed their views.

Walter W. Heller, former head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the proposed six per cent tax surcharge is "sensible and well within the capacity of the country."

Heller wondered, however, if the President had left sufficient "options" open to withdraw from the tax boost "if the economy softens more than he thinks and is not in good shape at midyear."

George F. Kennan, diplomat and critic of American involvement in Vietnam, praised the President for advocating warmer relations with the Soviet Union — for "getting rid of the harsh spirit of the cold war."

Former Undersecretary George W. Ball expressed surprise that the President put the question of Soviet relations "squarely up to the Congress," which is considering the ratification of the treaty to establish consul offices throughout the country.

The civil rights leaders who attacked Johnson's message were Dr. Ralph Abernathy, acting president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Kenneth B. Clark, a Negro educator from New York.

Increase To Offset War Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday night to increase the Federal income tax bills of most individuals and businesses by 6 per cent.

He said this is needed "to hold our budget deficit within prudent limits and to give our country and our fighting men the help they need in this hour of trial."

President Johnson's call for higher taxes six months hence was the highlight of his State of the Union message to Congress -- and it came as a surprise to many.

The President's tax proposal would mean that anyone now paying income taxes of $1,000 a year would pay $1,060 if Congress accepts his plan.

The proposed new surtax is planned to become effective July 1.

President Johnson also disclosed he will ask Congress to increase Social Security benefits by any average of 20 per cent starting July 1.

In discussing the Vietnam war, the Chief Executive voiced little optimism.

He said; "I wish I could report to you that the conflict is almost over. This I cannot do. We face more cost, more loss and more agony."

Voicing the Administration's determination to "see Vietnam through to an honorable peace," President Johnson had this to say about the military measures to be aimed at the Communist enemy:

"Our pressure now must be -- and will be -- sustained until he realizes that the war he started is costing him more than he can hope to gain."

At the same time, President Johnson called for restraint in military operations and rejection of what he termed the temptation to "get it over with."

President Johnson's speech was prepared for a joint session of House and Senate on the opening night of the 90th Congress.

The President outlined in general terms at least a dozen proposed legislative programs including:

A $270 million increase in anti-poverty spending -- a new "safe streets and Crime Control Act."

Consolidation of the Labor and Commerce Departments into a single new Department of Business and Labor.

Outlawing of virtually all wiretapping and electronic snooping.

A new civil rights law.

In national defense, Johnson was more specific than any other officials have been when he reported that the Soviet Union "has begun to place near Moscow a limited anti-missile defense."

Signaling a major decision to avoid, at least for the time being, costly quick development of an American anti-ballistic missile, President Johnson said he will seek agreement with the Soviets "to slow down the arms race between us."

The President prefaced his call for a tax increase by saying he will work for lower interest rates and easier money and for a growing economy "without new inflationary strains." Then he voiced his proposal:

"I propose a surcharge of 6 per cent on both corporate and individual income taxes -- to last for two years or for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with Vietnam continue. I will promptly recommend an earlier termination date if a reduction in those expenditures permit it."

Exempt from the surtax, which officials hope will go into effect with the start of the new fiscal year this July 1, would be single people who do not earn more than $1,900 a year and married couples in the lower income brackets. A couple with two children, for example, would be exempt provided their income does not exceed $5,000 a year.

The surcharge, President Johnson said, would raise Federal revenues by about $4.5 billion in the first year. Officials said that during a full tax year the added receipts would come to $5.7 billion.

President Johnson also disclosed revised budget estimates for the current bookkeeping year that ends June 30, and announced the size of the new budget for the following 12 months, which he will send to

Exceed United Fund Goal Of $33,400

Matthews Next Drive Chairman

The United Fund campaign has exceeded the $33,400 goal and elected Charles D. Matthews as campaign chairman for the next drive at a Tuesday board meeting, chairman Henry Bussey said.

Final tabulations have not been recorded but the goal has been exceeded, Bussey reported. A few letters with pledges and checks have to be counted.

The drive this year began Oct. 4, and was scheduled to close by Nov. 8. The deadline was extended.

Matthews will take on the chairmanship in July, and will pick his own directors. Previously, directors have been elected by the board.

Matthews and his wife, Janice, have two sons, Matt, 10, Christopher, 7, and a daughter, Melissa, 1. They live at 1 Cotton Trace.

He graduated from the University of Missouri school of business in 1954, and received a law degree at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

He has been a partner in the law firm of Potashnick and Matthews two and one half years.

Agencies in the United Fund are Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Civil Air Patrol, Missouri Delta Community Hospital, City Welfare Center, American Red Cross, Salvation Army and the United Service organizations.

The banquet is held to show appreciation to all volunteer leaders in the organization.

Hearnes Denies Planned Surplus

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - A Republican charge that the state had built up a "planned surplus" of $100 million was denied by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday.

"That is not true" he told a news conference.

He said inflation was the main cause of the surplus and many states underestimated their revenues last year. He expressed hope "the minority will help preserve the fiscal responsibility of the state."

The governor said he hoped the legislature would be able to solve the congressional redistricting problem before its adjournment June 30, otherwise a special session would be necessary "and I don't want any more of that."

FFA State Officers To Visit Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- Residents of Southeast Missouri will have the opportunity to meet the officers of the Missouri Association of Future Farmers of America during their annual goodwill tour.

The FFA leaders will visit Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Jackson, Kennett, Dexter, Charleston, Caruthersville, Poplar Bluff, and Bloomfield, where they will present programs to service clubs and special programs for representatives from surrounding towns. Radio, television and press interviews are scheduled.

Schools, industries, and other points of interest in the area will be visited by the group.

The tour is planned to help the people of Southeast Missouri gain a better understanding of vocational agriculture and the FFA. The officers will have the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Missouri business and agriculture.

The tour is planned to help the people of Southeast Missouri gain a better understanding of vocational agriculture and the FFA. The officers will have the opportunity to learn more about Southeast Missouri business and agriculture.

The 12 state officers and their three adult leaders will divide into three groups in order to meet the schedule. All of the group will assist with area meetings to be held at Jackson Jan. 23, and Poplar Bluff Jan. 25. Both are 6:30 p.m. dinner meetings.

These meetings will give all FFA chapter representatives and guests in the district the opportunity to hear their state officers. These dinner meetings will be attended by approximately 250 people from about 45 towns in Southeast Missouri. Representatives and guests from each chapter will include the instructor of vocational agriculture, an FFA member, and three or four men representing business, farming, boards of education, and school administrators.

Young men, who now hold the degree of American farmer, and past state FFA officers, are expected to attend.

Chamber of Commerce officials, officers of service clubs, and host instructors, of vocational agriculture will assist the group in meeting the schedule.

Salisbury Feels Viet Reds Won't Negotiate Forcibly

HONG KONG (AP) — Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, said today he does not believe that Communist North Vietnam can be "compelled to come to a conference table."

"These people strike me as being very tough, very hardy, very independent and very courageous," Salisbury said in a taped interview with Radio Hong Kong on his two-week visit to North Vietnam.

"They say, and I rather believe them, that you cannot drag them to the conference table: that they can't be beaten into submission.

"They would rather go back to the jungles and the mountains and fight a guerrilla war for 20 years against the United States as they did against the French."

Reporting his findings during two weeks of talks and observation in the Communist capital, Salisbury said he did not believe a serious military defeat would force Hanoi into negotiations.

"I think there are two circumstances which highly color the thinking of the North Vietnamese," Salisbury said.

"One is their defeat of the French at Dien Bien Phu. This is their greatest achievement, to their way of thinking, and I think that they cannot help when they are considering the prospect of the further course of the war, they can't help believing that sometime there may be an opportunity for a Dien Bien Phu against the United States. That's point No. 1.

"Now, point No. 2. I do believe that they are deeply conditioned by their experience, first with the French in the negotiations immediately after the war and then again with the results of the Geneva negotiations. In both cases they feel, rightly or wrongly, they feel that they were let down, that they reached an agreement and the other side refused to abide by them.

"As a result of that they say, time and again and quite openly, that they have to be doubly sure this time if they go into negotiations it's going to be one in which the agreement can be enforced. And those terms, an agreement which can be enforced, were used specifically to me by Pham Van Dong, their prime minister."

Salisbury said American policy with regard to the bombing of North Vietnam "seems to me to have been a little bit unclear."

"We started it with the contention that it was designed to bring the North Vietnamese to the conference table. In other words, we would increase the military pressure on them and when they felt it enough, they would be willing to negotiate.

"Well, we have been at it for nearly two years and, as far as I can see, negotiations are just about as far away as ever."

Earl M. Allen Helps Select Circus Greats

SARASOTA, FLA. -- Earl M. Allen, of 516 South New Madrid St., Sikeston, Mo., participated in the annual election of circus greats announced Tuesday afternoon by the circus hall of fame.

He is a member of the hall of fame's national awards committee, which selects people each year from the performing artist, business or maintenance categories of big top entertainment.

Elected to the hall of fame were Ernestine Clarke Baer, equestrienne and flying trapese star; Jorgen M. Christiansen, animal trainer; and the late Matthew B. Buckley, one-time performer and circus manager.

Allen was present as Christiansen personally accepted his hall of fame award from Col. William W. Naramore, president of the Sarasota attraction, in the center ring of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. After receiving his award, Christiansen, now retired and living in Rochester, Ind., then blew the ringmaster's whistle to officially start the 1967 performance of "The Greatest Show on Earth" at nearby Venice, Fla.

The national awards committee consists of 12 circus historians from across the country whose hobby has been big top entertainment. Committee members work toward creating an understanding of the educational and recreational value of the circus.

Allen is central vice president of the Circus Fans association of America.

Gunshot Wound Fatal

NEW MADRID -- A New Madrid youth who was accidentally shot Friday night died Tuesday afternoon at the Jewish hospital in St. Louis.

Melvin Kellum, about 18, died from a gunshot wound which he received while wrestling over a pistol with Willie Ross, about 30, at a bar on Russell street Friday.

The gun discharged and the bullet hit Kellum in the throat. Following the shooting Kellum told police that he and Ross were only playing and that the shooting was an accident. Ross was not charged.

Kellum was first taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kellum.

The body is being returned to Richards Funeral Home.

Thompson Is Bound Over to Circuit Court

BENTON -- Tommy Lee Thompson, 18, Sikeston, charged with felonious burglary, was bound over to circuit court following a preliminary hearing in magistrate court this morning.

He will appear in circuit court Thursday morning.

Thompson is charged with burglary of a wallet and clothing from the Daris Burgess residence, 842 Ruth, Feb. 17, 1965.

Thompson was acquitted of a first degree murder charge last month at Jackson in connection with the Feb. 1, 1965, gun slaying of Mrs. W. R. Lewis of Sikeston.

$555,000 Funded for DAEOC

PORTAGEVILLE - The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Monday night was informed that three of the submitted DAEOC projects have been approved and funded in the amount of $555,000.

Two board members, J. V. Conran of New Madrid and Conner Hicks of Risco, resigned as members of the DAEOC board.

Hal Hunter of New Madrid will replace Conran and William Johnson of Risco will replace Hicks.

Reports were given by Gene Cross of Jefferson City, technical assistant to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, and Dean Lupkey of Kansas City, a regional supervisor from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lupkey notified DAEOC of the approval of the three programs, administration component, neighborhood service centers and homemaker aides, the latter a program conducted through the University of Missouri extension centers.

Lupkey said an additional $170,000 is available but requests for this fund must come directly from the county OEO boards.

The neighborhood service center program has been conducting 32 centers in the six Southeast Missouri counties, but because of a cutback in federal funds made last year the number of centers will be reduced to 24, four in each county.

Maddox Pledges Peaceful Term

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Gov. Lester G. Maddox promised today to initiate a "people's administration" devoid of extremism or violence, and to seek legislative reapportionment, a constitutional convention and a task force approach to the state's problems.

Maddox, 51, a segregationist who ran second in the popular vote in November, toppled Republican Howard H. Callaway, 182-66, in balloting Tuesday by the General Assembly, which, by law, made the choice because neither candidate received a majority in the election.

Twitty Hired for Four Year Term

The board of education Tuesday moved to continue faculty contracts for 1967-68 subject to the approval of superintendent. Contracts expire June 30.

The new contracts to be offered July 1, will include an increase in the salary schedule. The schedule will be adopted in the next three to four weeks by the board. A faculty committee and administrative leaders are working out details.

Supt. Twitty stated that the schedule must be competitive with other area schools. Additional money can be added to the teachers fund by diverting revenue from other school funds and from anticipated additional state funds as recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his budget message.

The superintendent's contract was renewed for a four-year period.

The board was informed that the citizens advisory council for schools last week unanimously endorsed the move toward educational improvement. Included in the improvements discussed were pay increases, possible changes in the organizational pattern for better student grouping, improvements in the curriculum and new building facilities.

Board secretary, Charles Matthews, was asked to work with the administration in preparing to finance building improvements to be submitted to voters at the annual April election.

The exact amount of the bond proposal has not yet been fixed, pending a study of the district's bonding capacity. It will probably be $1,300,000 to $1,400,000.

To this $200,000.00 will be added in federal funds promised to the district, to be matched by an equal amount of local money for expansion of the building facilities at the trade-technical school. No tax increase will be needed.

Outlined as needs are a new elementary school, additional classrooms, a second floor-balcony to add bookshelf space to the high school library, enlargement of the cafeteria and kitchen at the high school, added classrooms and shops at the trade-technical institute, a field house at the high school and an auditorium-theater building.

The field house would include an indoor track, a removable basketball court and would seat 5,000 or more. The facility would serve physical education needs of the school, provide space for athletic events, community exhibits, conventions and meetings.

At the request of the Sikeston community teachers association, a written policy for improved teacher administration-board cooperation for school improvement was approved.

The board also passed a resolution paying respect to Nathan Lambert, assistant coach, who died in an automobile accident Friday.

Other board business included the payment of incidental fund bills totaling $13,976.21; building fund bills of $1,133.61 and textbook fund $394.86.

Ten Adult Courses Offered to Adults

A college credit course from the University of Missouri titled "Rural Real Estate Appraisal" will be organized in Sikeston.

This is a course for real estate dealers, salesmen, farmers and bankers.

Anyone interested in taking this course may notify Tom B. Stroup, county extension director, University Ext. Center, in Benton. The telephone number is KI 5-3517.

The course is offered by the agricultural economics department of the college of agriculture and carries three credit hours.

The classes, if organized, will meet for four hours each week for ten weeks. A minimum of 20 is required.

Dr. Frank Miller, professor emeritus in the university of Missouri college of Agriculture will teach the course.

The classes will begin on or

Nine other short courses are offered through University of Missouri extension centers in Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott, and Stoddard counties.

They are creativeness and intellectual development, interior design, meal service for different occasions, grain storage and drying, beef cattle feeding, soils, corn production, self improvement and farm machinery investments.

Applications and brochures are available at extension centers.

Instructors are from the University of Missouri faculty or extension specialists. Exceptions are the self improvement course which will be taught by a former faculty member of Stephens College, and the soils course, which will be taught by John Garrett, area soils agent.

The courses are scheduled to get underway Jan. 26, 7:30 p.m., at Sikeston high school. They will be held on Thursday nights each week for five or more weeks.

The instructors from Columbia will be flown in the University of Missouri's DC-3 airplane and returned each night.

Boshears Bound For Trial

Bill Gene Boshears, 34, 103 Selma, charged with second degree murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clennis Ables, 2010 Kentucky on Dec. 23, 1966, was bound over to circuit court in Benton following a preliminary hearing in magistrate court Tuesday.

Boshears is to appear Thursday. Charges against him will be read, and a trial date is expected to be set following the arraignment.

Eight witnesses including a neighbor to the defendant, three Sikeston police officers and the Cape Girardeau pathologist who performed the autopsy on Ables' body entered testimony at the hearing.

Sikeston police officer Dolph Webb Jr., the first officer to arrive at the Boshears residence the night of the slaying, was the first to testify.

Webb related that when he arrived near the Boshears' residence he heard a shot and saw a woman carrying a child in her arms run from the side of the house. He said he drove past the house and the woman (Mrs. Boshears) got into the police car. Another shot was fired and officer Webb radioed for help, he said.

Webb said he saw a man walk from 103 Selma to 105 Selma where he talked with a neighbor. Webb said he asked the man, later identified as Boshears, if he was the one doing the shooting.

Boshears was then placed under arrest, handcuffed and put into the rear seat of the patrol car, officer Webb said.

Webb also told of going to the front porch of the Boshears residence, where he saw Ables' body. He called an ambulance and took a 20 gauge shotgun from the house.

John A. Cowan, 105 Selma, took the stand and testified that he saw and talked to Boshears the night of the slaying.

Cowan said he saw Boshears walk across his (Cowan's) lawn the night of the slaying. Cowan said Boshears told him, "I didn't want to, but I had to shoot him. I just had to shoot Clennis Ables."

Cowan said he couldn't believe what Boshears was saying, so he asked him where the shooting took place. Cowan said Boshears said, "at my house. . . He's lying over there now."

Cowan said this conversation took place before officer Webb arrested Boshears. Cowan said he and his son took a blanket over to the Boshears residence to cover the body.

Cowan was the third and last witness called by the state, represented by Scott County prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick. Coroner William Clyde Poe entered testimony describing the wound and disposition of the body, prior to Cowan's appearance on the stand.

The attorneys for the defendant called Dr. Thomas L. Lovinggood, a Cape Girardeau pathologist who performed the autopsy on Ables' body.

Dr. Lovinggood related that three metallic pellets about a ¼ of an inch in diameter were removed from the body. The doctor estimated that the

Increase To Offset War Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday night to increase the Federal income tax bills of most individuals and businesses by 6 per cent.

He said this is needed "to hold our budget deficit within prudent limits and to give our country and our fighting men the help they need in this hour of trial."

President Johnson's call for higher taxes six months hence was the highlight of his State of the Union message to Congress -- and it came as a surprise to many.

The President's tax proposal would mean that anyone now paying income taxes of $1,000 a year would pay $1,060 if Congress accepts his plan.

The proposed new surtax is planned to become effective July 1.

President Johnson also disclosed he will ask Congress to increase Social Security benefits by any average of 20 per cent starting July 1.

In discussing the Vietnam war, the Chief Executive voiced little optimism.

He said; "I wish I could report to you that the conflict is almost over. This I cannot do. We face more cost, more loss and more agony."

Voicing the Administration's determination to "see Vietnam through to an honorable peace," President Johnson had this to say about the military measures to be aimed at the Communist enemy:

"Our pressure now must be -- and will be -- sustained until he realizes that the war he started is costing him more than he can hope to gain."

At the same time, President Johnson called for restraint in military operations and rejection of what he termed the temptation to "get it over with."

President Johnson's speech was prepared for a joint session of House and Senate on the opening night of the 90th Congress.

The President outlined in general terms at least a dozen proposed legislative programs including:

A $270 million increase in anti-poverty spending -- a new "safe streets and Crime Control Act."

Consolidation of the Labor and Commerce Departments into a single new Department of Business and Labor.

Outlawing of virtually all wiretapping and electronic snooping.

A new civil rights law.

In national defense, Johnson was more specific than any other officials have been when he reported that the Soviet Union "has begun to place near Moscow a limited anti-missile defense."

Signaling a major decision to avoid, at least for the time being, costly quick development of an American anti-ballistic missile, President Johnson said he will seek agreement with the Soviets "to slow down the arms race between us."

The President prefaced his call for a tax increase by saying he will work for lower interest rates and easier money and for a growing economy "without new inflationary strains." Then he voiced his proposal;

"I propose a surcharge of 6 per cent on both corporate and individual income taxes -- to last for two years or for so long as the unusual expenditures associated with Vietnam continue. I will promptly recommend an earlier termination date if a reduction in those expenditures permit it."

Exempt from the surtax, which officials hope will go into effect with the start of the new fiscal year this July 1, would be single people who do not earn more than $1,900 a year and married couples in the lower income brackets. A couple with two children, for example, would be exempt provided their income does not exceed $5,000 a year.

The surcharge, President Johnson said, would raise Federal revenues by about $4.5 billion in the first year. Officials said that during a full tax year the added receipts would come to $5.7 billion.

President Johnson also disclosed revised budget estimates for the current bookkeeping year that ends June 30, and announced the size of the new budget for the following 12 months, which he will send to

State of Union Reactions Vary Critical to Favorable

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's State of the Union message was criticized by civil rights leaders during a nationwide discussion of the address over the National Educational Television network.

For the first time, 75 educational stations throughout the country carried a live hookup of the State of the Union message. After the address, civil rights leaders, economists, historians and others expressed their views.

Walter W. Heller, former head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the proposed six per cent tax surcharge is "sensible and well within the capacity of the country."

Heller wondered, however, if the President had left sufficient "options" open to withdraw from the tax boost "if the economy softens more than he thinks and is not in good shape at midyear."

George F. Kennan, diplomat and critic of American involvement in Vietnam, praised the President for advocating warmer relations with the Soviet Union — for "getting rid of the harsh spirit of the cold war."

Former Undersecretary George W. Ball expressed surprise that the President put the question of Soviet relations "squarely up to the Congress," which is considering the ratification of the treaty to establish consul offices throughout the country.

The civil rights leaders who attacked Johnson's message were Dr. Ralph Abernathy, acting president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Kenneth B. Clark, a Negro educator from New York.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The death of Anne Latimer, the veteran correspondent of the Daily Standard in Charleston, leaves the news room saddened by a colleague they only knew as a stimulating voice over the telephone.

Miss Latimer worked for the Standard for 35 years. She was a uniformly cheerful, peppy and direct woman, who talked with the rapidity of machine gun fire.

It was difficult for anyone in the news room to believe that she was 81.

She had called in a story to the news room Saturday.

So her death comes as a shock. Our people had not known that she was ill.

The other shocking aspect about her death is that no one in the news room recalls ever having seen Miss Latimer.

Everyone has experienced taking a news story from her over the phone.

Miss Latimer was a dedicated news gatherer and held in affection by her fellow newsgatherers for her devotion to her work, accurate attention to detail and the spirit she approached her job and the every day demands of living.

Every one of us hopes that at age 81 he will have some of her spark and living zest.

So Miss Latimer does not leave us unmourned.

Instead she was admired and respected even though our acquaintenance with her was both professional and unusual.

No one who ever talked to her over the telephone could describe the acquaintenance as casual. Her personality was unmistakable. It came through like the explosion of firecrackers.

When St. Peter greets Miss Latimer at the Pearly Gates he should not misunderstand this kindly woman's motives because she speaks so rapidly it may be difficult at times to follow her meaning.

If he will just call in Bill Yorke or Clesson Harris surely the three of them could set him straight.

Somehow Charleston and Mississippi county does not seem the same without her. Neither does working at the Daily Standard.

Our newsgatherers may not have the occasion to wish again soon that they knew how to write shorthand.

DISAPPEARING CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

James D. French, a convicted murderer, was electrocuted in the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester on Aug. 10, 1966. As far as the U.S. Bureau of Prisons knows, French was the only person executed in the United States last year. The Bureau's survey of the 37 states that still impose capital punishment is now in progress and will not be published until spring. But even if a few more executions are reported, the trend is clear: The death penalty itself is dying.

Three decades ago, executions were common; no fewer than 199 were carried out in 1935. Then the number began to decrease, reaching 42 in 1961 and only 7 in 1965. In one of his last official acts as governor of California, Edmund G. Brown on Dec. 28 commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of four murderers in the death row of San Quentin Prison. The last execution in San Quentin's gas chamber took place almost four years ago.

In Massachusetts, another capital punishment state, no one has been executed in 20 years. Charles E. Tracy, convicted of first-degree murder in the killing of a Boston policeman, was to have been electrocuted shortly before Christmas. But Gov. John A. Volpe and his Executive Council stayed the sentence until next June 14. They did so to give the Massachusetts General Court (legislature) time to debate a bill providing for a one-year moratorium on the death penalty. In that period the general court, which recently convened, would try to determine whether capital punishment deters capital crimes.

Participants on both sides of the capital punishment controversy quote the same statistics and the Bible in attempting to prove their points. Arguments of those who would abolish the death penalty are based in general on religious and moral objections to taking a man's life. Arguments of those who would retain the penalty tend to stress the need to protect society against injury from evildoers. The debate continues even as capital punishment disappears.

WINTER VACATIONS

A winter vacation in Florida or California once was a luxury reserved for the rich. Today, however, jet planes and reasonably priced package tours have enabled hundreds of thousands of Americans to get away from snow and smog during the cold months. And while Florida and California remain as popular as ever, more and more winter vacationists are heading for the Caribbean, Europe, South America and Africa.

Last winter, about 600,000 Americans traveled to the Caribbean islands for varying lengths of time. Bookings to date this winter indicate that the Caribbean tourist traffic will mount to 700,000. Pan Am has scheduled 81 round trips a week from New York and the East Coast to San Juan, Puerto Rico, as against 70 round trips a year ago.

Vacations in more distant countries also are gaining in popularity. A 10-day tour of Israel, including round-trip economy jet air fare, hotels, and three days of sightseeing (but no meals), costs less than $500. Swissair is offering a variety of 15- to 21-day tours of southern Europe, the Middle East, or Alpine ski resorts for prices ranging from $400 to $800. Transatlantic air fare, transfers, tips, taxes and most meals are included.

No matter how specialized the taste, a travel agency will cater to it. One of the more unusual package tours of the 1966-67 winter season is designed specifically for devotees of gardening. For $4,400, the amateur or professional horticulturist can fly around the world in 50 days, visiting noted gardens in such places as Casablanca, Nairobi, Mauritius, Perth, Christchurch and Tahiti. It might seem difficult to find enough people interested in taking such a tour. But a round-the-world flight for the same price, announced last May, was sold out in five weeks.

Occasionally the process of evolution does leave some stone unturned, thus giving rise to those quaint misfits which remind us of another age. A few of the more striking examples are the duckbilled platypus, San Francisco's cable cars, Casey Stengel and movies the whole family can see. A less happy example is our public school system.

With their six- or seven-hour schedules and three-month vacations our schools still are geared to the agricultural economy of the 19th century, when pupils doubled as farmhands. The President's Council on Physical Fitness points out the waste involved in this system in urging communities to open up their school sports and fitness facilities for after-hours and summer use. It also indicates a logical place to begin making more efficient use of an $85 billion physical plant.

Why shouldn't the residents of a community use the gymnasiums, tennis courts, playing fields, running tracks, activity rooms and swimming pools (if they have them) of the schools which they build and support with their tax dollars? All of us - young and old alike - could use the facilities which would be added to its resources for recreation.

The time is long past when we could afford to utilize expensive public facilities for only a few hours a day, 180 days a year. Meeting the needs of the modern community is a full-time job which won't permit part-time use of valuable resources.

Of course, there is more involved in making our schools neighborhood recreation centers than merely unlocking the doors and throwing out the balls. Someone has to be there to organize, supervise and instruct, and there are problems of maintenance, insurance, equipment, etc.

Communities which already have adopted this approach have discovered that it costs them only a few dollars per capita per year. That's cheap when compared to the cost of duplicating the trained staffs and extensive facilities which our schools now employ on a part-time basis.

IKE TAKES ROLE OF 'DUTCH UNCLE'

Americans understood former President Eisenhower when he said the other day that he "would not automatically preclude anything," including the use of nuclear weapons, to bring the war in Viet Nam to an honorable conclusion.

He was expressing frustrations over the unfruitful course of a struggle with a foe who has obstinately refused every offer of negotiation we have made. It was tough talk, straight, no-nonsense talk, the kind we like to hear.

His was not the voice of a warmonger or tyrant, but that of a man who desires peace as only a professional soldier who has seen war can desire it--the voice of a one-time world leader who recently said that his greatest disappointment while in office was the failure of his quest for international safeguards against war.

Yet in the eyes of so-called neutrals, not to mention our enemies, will the advocacy of nuclear war by an American of Eisenhower's stature appear much different from the "ballistic blackmail" we once accused Comrade Khrushchev of practicing?

"When you appeal to force to carry out the policies of America abroad, there is no court above you,'" Ike added.

What of the court of world opinion? The court of history? The court of our own consciences?

Mr. Eisenhower's statement is all the more regrettable when we reflect that there are really no targets for nuclear weapons in Viet Nam, save little brown men cowering in the jungle. There may be "no substitute for victory," but there is also no shortcut to it and strategy to practicalities.

The threat of nuclear weapons may scare the North Vietnamese. Nothing else has so far. Unfortunately, it is more likely to frighten only our friends, or would-be friends.

PLAYING IT SAFE ON BIBLE ISSUE

Something many people, including Sen. Everett Dirksen, the chief proponent of a constitutional amendment legalizing prayers in the public schools, seem to have forgotten is what the Supreme Court recommended schools might do in the matter of religion at the time it rendered its historic decision three years ago.

"It certainly may be said that the Bible is worthy of study for its literary or historical qualities. Nothing we have said here (banning prescribed prayers and Bible reading) indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be affected consistent with the First Amendment."

Few schools have had the courage to do what the court told them explicitly was permissible, says the National Education Association. One that has, however, is the high school in Abington, Pa., which was one of the schools that figured in the court's decison.

Since then the school has presented in-depth studies of such books as Ecclesiastes, Job and the Psalms in its English curriculum. Principal Allan A. Glatthorn reports that there have been only a few, easily answered critics of the Bible study program, as well as of other controversial subjects like communism, sex education and modern literature.

"Playing it safe by avoiding controversy is the greatest risk of all," he says, "because it changes the school from the open forum of live ideas to the closed tomb of dead dogma."

Most parents and schools, unfortunately, prefer playing it safe. Which is why Sen. Dirksen will be back next year with another try at a constitutional amendment that would be a victory in the name of meaningless piety while at the same time eliminating the need to face the great challenge laid down by the Supreme Court.

'Internal Differences Are Healthy—Heh-Heh'

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato:

There is an easy way to solve the crowded feeling that has resulted from the human population explosion. The answer is to breed miniature people.

The first step, as a matter of fact, already has been taken.

Babies in most civilized countries today, as a result of medical advice to mothers, weigh at birth at least a pound less on the average than they did a generation or two ago.

A mother in 1900 somehow felt she had cheated her husband if she delivered a baby that didn't bump the scales beyond the 8-pound mark. Today her doctor praises a mother if she keeps her infant down to seven pounds.

The trouble is what happens thereafter. The smaller babies of today, thanks to vitamins and better nutrition generally, grow up to be taller and heavier than their fathers and their grandfathers. That's why they crowd the world.

The growing problem is how to use available space more efficiently. Scientists are well aware of this fact. Through the miniaturization of parts they have been able to make smaller machines that have more output than larger machines formerly did.

As man tends more and more to ape the machines he creates, that probably will turn out to be the human answer to overcrowding, too. Since the earth itself can hardly be enlarged, what better solution to the population problem can there be than the miniaturization of people?

For some time the secret ideal of most men has been to be six feet tall and weigh somewhere between 180 and 200 pounds. Such a man would have a brain weighing about three pounds.

This ideal must be destroyed. It is out of date.

I would say the ideal man of the future should have a five-pound brain, stand three feet tall, and weigh about 75 pounds.

Since women by then will still be insisting on being even more equal than men, I would say the ideal woman of the future should have a four-pound brain —more than ample for her everyday needs -- stands 3 feet 6 inches, weigh 100 pounds, and be broad enough so that the ideal man would hide safely behind her skirts in case of sudden attack.

Don't think this is all a dream. If science could miniaturize machines, who can say it won't be able to midgetize man?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's note - The book "The Death of a President" gives the Kennedy side of the differences between the Kennedy and the Johnson families following John F. Kennedy's assassination. Drew Pearson was in Dallas on the day of the tragedy and in today's column endeavors to give the other side of the story.

WASHINGTON - I was in Dallas on the tragic day President Kennedy was assassinated. Since that time Jack Anderson and I have talked to various members of the Kennedy and Johnson staffs in order to get the facts regarding the friction and bitterness which William Manchester reports developed between Mrs. Jackie Kennedy and President Johnson.

Unquestionably there was friction. Bitterness developed during the tense moments after the assassination. However, the Manchester book tells only one side of the story.

Here is part of the other side:

First, friction occurred with the coroner in Dallas. Kenneth O'Donnell, secretary to Kennedy, and Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, his air force aide, had been entrusted with the job of getting the body back to Washington. But the coroner refused to release it until he held an inquest.

Finally O'Donnell and McHugh prevailed upon him. Then they had trouble with a Dallas city ordinance against carrying a casket in an ambulance. They had purchased a casket but found it was necessary to get a hearse.

It took about an hour to overcome local red tape and drive Kennedy's body to the waiting airplane.

Meanwhile, Air Force One, the presidential plane, had been waiting for Kennedy's body. This delay was on the personal order of the new president, and contrary to the wishes of the Secret Service.

Emery Roberts of the Secret Service staff had ordered the plane to take off immediately. The Secret Service had no idea, in the confusion of Kennedy's death, as to whether there was a widespread plot against both the president and the vice president and felt the new president would be safer in the air en route to Washington.

But Johnson ordered the plane to wait for Kennedy's body. Meanwhile he telephoned Robert F. Kennedy, the attorney general, in Washington to ask for a legal opinion as to whether he should take the oath of office immediately or wait till he got back in Washington. Bobby Kennedy did not reply immediately. But Deputy Attorney General Katzenbach called back to advise that Johnson should be sworn in immediately. If there was a national emergency while the plane was in the air, such as a missile attack on the United States, the president was the only person, as commander-in-chief, who could give the order to launch American missiles in retaliation.

Incidentally, Johnson addressed Bobby formally as "General Kennedy" during this and other conversations.

JACKIE'S IRE

Jackie Kennedy expressed indignation in the original version of the Manchester book that Johnson used her husband's plane. However, the plane contained secret electronic communications equipment which only the president could use in case of emergency. Johnson had flown to Dallas in the vice presidential plane, but it did not carry this equipment. The Secret Service had decided that he must use Air Force One for the return journey in order to be able to use this equipment. Besides, he was now president.

After receiving word from the Justice Department that he should be sworn in in Dallas, Johnson sent for U.S. District Judge Sarah Hughes to administer the oath. While he was waiting for her to arrive, Kennedy's body was put aboard the plane, and Gen. McHugh told Malcolm Kilduff, press secretary, that Ken O'Donnell wanted the plane to take off immediately. McHugh was quite excited. He had rushed through the plane looking for Johnson and Mrs. Kennedy, later said that he had found Mrs. Kennedy kneeling beside her dead husband while Johnson was in the washroom changing his clothes.

But Kilduff told McHugh the plane could not take off.

"He may want to take off," Kilduff said, referring to O'Donnell, "but he isn't in charge anymore. Johnson is now president."

O'Donnell, who two hours before had been the closest staff member to Kennedy and whose word was law, was bitter.

Later, as Kennedy's body was about to be removed from the plane, O'Donnell is reported to have blocked the new president in the plane's aisle so he could not disembark with the body.

RUMORS OF BOORISHNESS

Various stories have been circulated regarding the tragic flight back to Washington. Mrs. Kennedy is reported saying she objected to being called "honey" and did not want Johnson near her; that she didn't want "that man to touch me." It was also reported that Johnson had come back to the rear of the plane and smiled on the casket.

According to Kilduff, the new president acted with dignity and sympathy.

"My hero was Jack Kennedy," Kilduff told me, "but Johnson acted with nothing except sympathy for a bereaved widow. He took over the situation with precision and dignity. He acted as a strong president must. He ordered certain meetings by telephone. He telephoned the late president's mother to tell her of the tragedy, and the late president's brother. These were not easy things to do."

"Did he smile on the plane?" Kilduff was asked.

Kilduff replied: "Paternally and in sympathy. He did his best to help Mrs. Kennedy."

"There was an atmosphere of bleak silence on the plane going back," said one member of the Johnson staff. "You did not want to break the silence by touching a typewriter. You felt you were an intruder. Death of course was the intruder."

Doc. Duncan Says

When we read in the Post Dispatch 1/7/67, the purpose of the program of acquiring land for recreation in the rich mineral belt of the Ozarks, we wonder if it isn't about time to lay the cards on the table face up. Nobody is fooling anybody anymore. It would appear that John Q. and the landowners are like the country dog in the City. Stand and fight now or turn tail and get chewed up. Looks like its a question as to which side will own and control the known minerals in this four state area that in the recent past demoralized the lead market price when the truth seeped out.

Now it seems to be a battle undercover between the Politicians from dog catcher to president and the big monopolies to get title to this land and someone to get the windfall of royalties that rightfully belong to the poor landowners. In the opinion of many others in the know, this is the clearest-cut case of fraud by deceit this side of Tea Pot Dome or Arkansas Wildlife. It could rock our form of government.

McNAMARA'S WAR

Congress in September, 1961, accomodated the State Department by following its plan and enacting a law providing that the U.S. disarm by empowering the President to transfer the U.S. armed forces and facilities to the U.N. The passage of this law has been disregarded and its existence has been overlooked by the public.

In this atmosphere it is not surprising that the overt and belligerent actions of Secretary of Defense McNamara is disarming our nation much faster than the State Department's Document #7277. Secretary McNamara began closing down many essential defense installations over the protests of many members of Congress.

Many anti-communists considered that McNamara was acting only as a front for Adam Yarmolinsky until Yarmolinsky retired to become a professor at Harvard Law School.

McNamara has scrapped all of our B-47 bombers and has begun scrapping B-52's and carrier based bombers. None have been built since 1962. Our Atlas and Titan missiles have been slashed from 203 to 54. Even the launching pads and guidance controls of the 149 big missiles have been destroyed.

He refuses to produce and deploy the marvelous Nike-X anti-missile system which the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously recommended, and which McNamara's testimony of February 18th, 1965 admitted would save 40 million American lives.

Our strategic missile and bomber bases in Turkey, Italy, England and Morocco have been dismantled, in addition to many in this country. These bases were closed early in McNamara's reign in accordance with a specific proposal of the Moscow conference to scrap U.S. manned bombers and missiles around the Communist empire.

Recently the Army ran short of the rifles so necessary to our troops in Vietnam. McNamara had stopped production 2 or 3 years previously. The thought of just one American soldier equipped with an obsolete, inadequate weapon rests heavily on the minds of most Americans. HLH.

Powerful Labor Bloc Backs Hubert Humphrey Against Robert Kennedy on Vice Presidency

New York: -- The host, potentially with the most, in this pivotal state is the ever restless, one-man whirlwind, silver-haired Harry (Four-Hour-Day) Van Arsdale. He leads a million unionists whom Nelson Rockefeller, in a private letter, described as a "major factor in my being re-elected governor."

But now Van Arsdale has invited Hubert H. Humphrey to luncheon. "Van," the Vice President and the city's most powerful labor leaders will gather behind closed doors at the Waldorf Astoria on Jan. 19. And there is far more here than meets the palate or the political eye.

The initiated consider this the beginning of the ebullient Vice President's counter-offensive against all those being discussed as his potential replacements.

To the initiated, it is significant that the luncheon will take place deep in the heart of Sen. Bob Kennedy's bailwick.

It is significant that the junior senator has not been invited. These labor men are not overly fond of Mr. Kennedy, nor he of them.

It is significant that the luncheon will mark the clasping of hands, in traditional labor symbolism, of two powerful union forces -- the so-called old-line construction unionists who have always rewarded their friends (and punished their enemies) and the militant, politically avant-garde force which is philosophically dedicated to operating an organized party.

Rarely have they been united. Now they appear to be -- though the Van Arsdale bloc backed Republican Governor Rockfeller and the militants, such as the ladies' garment workers, ran an independent candidate.

This show of unity behind the embattled Vice President therefore is unprecedented, with the exception of 1964. There is an elan about all this which is characterized by the ladies' garment workers' president Louis Stulberg who, like his predecessor, the legendary David Dubinsky, is emotionally as well as politically tied to "Hubert," the man they found and made.

"Recently I told Hubert," said Stulberg, "what we think of him --wherever destiny leads him, he will find us alongside him, because it is our fight he is making."

At a recent banquet Vice President Humphrey took his place card and wrote a note to Dubinsky saying, "You're a great American." Dubinsky made it quite plain the sentiment was reciprocated.

Now we find the Stulbergs and the Van Arsdales joining in a closed, but obvious, luncheon conference between the Vice President, some of his aides and the leaders of the million-member City Central Labor Council headed by Van Arsdale.

Obviously it is a retort to those who hope to have the Vice President "dumped" by undermining him with reports to Lyndon Johnson that "HHH" had lost liberal, labor and intellectual support. Certainly a million unionsts in one city is labor support and certainly the presence of Stulberg, a major force inside the Liberal Party, is reflective of intellectual and liberal support.

But there is even more significance to this gathering than testament in reply to those who are urging Arthur Goldberg or Bob Kennedy on President Johnson in '68.

Many see the Van Arsdale action as a rejection of the theory that strong sections of labor will stay with the Republicans throughout the Presidential election. After Mr. Rockefeller won, Van Arsdale told this newsman that, "The people of this state won a great victory by re-electing Nelson Rockefeller."

But now it appears that, at least in New York, the labor men who backed statewide GOP candidates against the Democrats are shying from bolstering them nationally.

Of course it could be that, being scientific politicians, the labor leaders are playing deep in both fields. But there can be no doubt that the luncheon and the testimonials which will be voiced will be a positive demonstration of their intention to back Hubert Humphrey against other Democratic contenders. And that they want Mr. Johnson to know it.

That's what makes Van Arsdale the host with the most on the political ball for the moment.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

The death of Anne Latimer, the veteran correspondent of the Daily Standard in Charleston, leaves the news room saddened by a colleague they only knew as a stimulating voice over the telephone.

Miss Latimer worked for the Standard for 35 years. She was a uniformly cheerful, peppy and direct woman, who talked with the rapidity of machine gun fire.

It was difficult for anyone in the news room to believe that she was 81.

She had called in a story to the news room Saturday.

So her death comes as a shock. Our people had not known that she was ill.

The other shocking aspect about her death is that no one in the news room recalls ever having seen Miss Latimer.

Everyone has experienced taking a news story from her over the phone.

Miss Latimer was a dedicated news gatherer and held in affection by her fellow newsgatherers for her devotion to her work, accurate attention to detail and the spirit she approached her job and the every day demands of living.

Every one of us hopes that at age 81 he will have some of her spark and living zest.

So Miss Latimer does not leave us unmourned.

Instead she was admired and respected even though our acquaintenance with her was both professional and unusual.

No one who ever talked to her over the telephone could describe the acquaintenance as casual. Her personality was unmistakable. It came through like the explosion of firecrackers.

When St. Peter greets Miss Latimer at the Pearly Gates he should not misunderstand this kindly woman's motives because she speaks so rapidly it may be difficult at times to follow her meaning.

If he will just call in Bill Yorke or Clesson Harris surely the three of them could set him straight.

Somehow Charleston and Mississippi county does not seem the same without her. Neither does working at the Daily Standard.

Our newsgatherers may not have the occasion to wish again soon that they knew how to write shorthand.

DISAPPEARING CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

James D. French, a convicted murderer, was electrocuted in the Oklahoma State Prison at McAlester on Aug. 10, 1966. As far as the U.S. Bureau of Prisons knows, French was the only person executed in the United States last year. The Bureau's survey of the 37 states that still impose capital punishment is now in progress and will not be published until spring. But even if a few more executions are reported, the trend is clear: The death penalty itself is dying.

Three decades ago, executions were common; no fewer than 199 were carried out in 1935. Then the number began to decrease, reaching 42 in 1961 and only 7 in 1965. In one of his last official acts as governor of California, Edmund G. Brown on Dec. 28 commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of four murderers in the death row of San Quentin Prison. The last execution in San Quentin's gas chamber took place almost four years ago.

In Massachusetts, another capital punishment state, no one has been executed in 20 years. Charles E. Tracy, convicted of first-degree murder in the killing of a Boston policeman, was to have been electrocuted shortly before Christmas. But Gov. John A. Volpe and his Executive Council stayed the sentence until next June 14. They did so to give the Massachusetts General Court (legislature) time to debate a bill providing for a one-year moratorium on the death penalty. In that period the general court, which recently convened, would try to determine whether capital punishment deters capital crimes.

Participants on both sides of the capital punishment controversy quote the same statistics and the Bible in attempting to prove their points. Arguments of those who would abolish the death penalty are based in general on religious and moral objections to taking a man's life. Arguments of those who would retain the penalty tend to stress the need to protect society against injury from evildoers. The debate continues even as capital punishment disappears.

WINTER VACATIONS

A winter vacation in Florida or California once was a luxury reserved for the rich. Today, however, jet planes and reasonably priced package tours have enabled hundreds of thousands of Americans to get away from snow and smog during the cold months. And while Florida and California remain as popular as ever, more and more winter vacationists are heading for the Caribbean, Europe, South America and Africa.

Last winter, about 600,000 Americans traveled to the Caribbean islands for varying lengths of time. Bookings to date this winter indicate that the Caribbean tourist traffic will mount to 700,000. Pan Am has scheduled 81 round trips a week from New York and the East Coast to San Juan, Puerto Rico, as against 70 round trips a year ago.

Vacations in more distant countries also are gaining in popularity. A 10-day tour of Israel, including round-trip economy jet air fare, hotels, and three days of sightseeing (but no meals), costs less than $500. Swissair is offering a variety of 15- to 21-day tours of southern Europe, the Middle East, or Alpine ski resorts for prices ranging from $400 to $800. Transatlantic air fare, transfers, tips, taxes and most meals are included.

No matter how specialized the taste, a travel agency will cater to it. One of the more unusual package tours of the 1966-67 winter season is designed specifically for devotees of gardening. For $4,400, the amateur or professional horticulturist can fly around the world in 50 days, visiting noted gardens in such places as Casablanca, Nairobi, Mauritius, Perth, Christchurch and Tahiti. It might seem difficult to find enough people interested in taking such a tour. But a round-the-world flight for the same price, announced last May, was sold out in five weeks.

Occasionally the process of evolution does leave some stone unturned, thus giving rise to those quaint misfits which remind us of another age. A few of the more striking examples are the duckbilled platypus, San Francisco's cable cars, Casey Stengel and movies the whole family can see. A less happy example is our public school system.

With their six- or seven-hour schedules and three-month vacations our schools still are geared to the agricultural economy of the 19th century, when pupils doubled as farmhands. The President's Council on Physical Fitness points out the waste involved in this system in urging communities to open up their school sports and fitness facilities for after-hours and summer use. It also indicates a logical place to begin making more efficient use of an $85 billion physical plant.

Why shouldn't the residents of a community use the gymnasiums, tennis courts, playing fields, running tracks, activity rooms and swimming pools (if they have them) of the schools which they build and support with their tax dollars? All of us - young and old alike - could use the facilities which would be added to its resources for recreation.

The time is long past when we could afford to utilize expensive public facilities for only a few hours a day, 180 days a year. Meeting the needs of the modern community is a full-time job which won't permit part-time use of valuable resources.

Of course, there is more involved in making our schools neighborhood recreation centers than merely unlocking the doors and throwing out the balls. Someone has to be there to organize, supervise and instruct, and there are problems of maintenance, insurance, equipment, etc.

Communities which already have adopted this approach have discovered that it costs them only a few dollars per capita per year. That's cheap when compared to the cost of duplicating the trained staffs and extensive facilities which our schools now employ on a part-time basis.

IKE TAKES ROLE OF 'DUTCH UNCLE'

Americans understood former President Eisenhower when he said the other day that he "would not automatically preclude anything," including the use of nuclear weapons, to bring the war in Viet Nam to an honorable conclusion.

He was expressing frustrations over the unfruitful course of a struggle with a foe who has obstinately refused every offer of negotiation we have made. It was tough talk, straight, no-nonsense talk, the kind we like to hear.

His was not the voice of a warmonger or tyrant, but that of a man who desires peace as only a professional soldier who has seen war can desire it--the voice of a one-time world leader who recently said that his greatest disappointment while in office was the failure of his quest for international safeguards against war.

Yet in the eyes of so-called neutrals, not to mention our enemies, will the advocacy of nuclear war by an American of Eisenhower's stature appear much different from the "ballistic blackmail" we once accused Comrade Khrushchev of practicing?

"When you appeal to force to carry out the policies of America abroad, there is no court above you,'" Ike added.

What of the court of world opinion? The court of history? The court of our own consciences?

Mr. Eisenhower's statement is all the more regrettable when we reflect that there are really no targets for nuclear weapons in Viet Nam, save little brown men cowering in the jungle. There may be "no substitute for victory," but there is also no shortcut to it and strategy to practicalities.

The threat of nuclear weapons may scare the North Vietnamese. Nothing else has so far. Unfortunately, it is more likely to frighten only our friends, or would-be friends.

PLAYING IT SAFE ON BIBLE ISSUE

Something many people, including Sen. Everett Dirksen, the chief proponent of a constitutional amendment legalizing prayers in the public schools, seem to have forgotten is what the Supreme Court recommended schools might do in the matter of religion at the time it rendered its historic decision three years ago.

"It certainly may be said that the Bible is worthy of study for its literary or historical qualities. Nothing we have said here (banning prescribed prayers and Bible reading) indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be affected consistent with the First Amendment."

Few schools have had the courage to do what the court told them explicitly was permissible, says the National Education Association. One that has, however, is the high school in Abington, Pa., which was one of the schools that figured in the court's decison.

Since then the school has presented in-depth studies of such books as Ecclesiastes, Job and the Psalms in its English curriculum. Principal Allan A. Glatthorn reports that there have been only a few, easily answered critics of the Bible study program, as well as of other controversial subjects like communism, sex education and modern literature.

"Playing it safe by avoiding controversy is the greatest risk of all," he says, "because it changes the school from the open forum of live ideas to the closed tomb of dead dogma."

Most parents and schools, unfortunately, prefer playing it safe. Which is why Sen. Dirksen will be back next year with another try at a constitutional amendment that would be a victory in the name of meaningless piety while at the same time eliminating the need to face the great challenge laid down by the Supreme Court.

'Internal Differences Are Healthy—Heh-Heh'

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato:

There is an easy way to solve the crowded feeling that has resulted from the human population explosion. The answer is to breed miniature people.

The first step, as a matter of fact, already has been taken.

Babies in most civilized countries today, as a result of medical advice to mothers, weigh at birth at least a pound less on the average than they did a generation or two ago.

A mother in 1900 somehow felt she had cheated her husband if she delivered a baby that didn't bump the scales beyond the 8-pound mark. Today her doctor praises a mother if she keeps her infant down to seven pounds.

The trouble is what happens thereafter. The smaller babies of today, thanks to vitamins and better nutrition generally, grow up to be taller and heavier than their fathers and their grandfathers. That's why they crowd the world.

The growing problem is how to use available space more efficiently. Scientists are well aware of this fact. Through the miniaturization of parts they have been able to make smaller machines that have more output than larger machines formerly did.

As man tends more and more to ape the machines he creates, that probably will turn out to be the human answer to overcrowding, too. Since the earth itself can hardly be enlarged, what better solution to the population problem can there be than the miniaturization of people?

For some time the secret ideal of most men has been to be six feet tall and weigh somewhere between 180 and 200 pounds. Such a man would have a brain weighing about three pounds.

This ideal must be destroyed. It is out of date.

I would say the ideal man of the future should have a five-pound brain, stand three feet tall, and weigh about 75 pounds.

Since women by then will still be insisting on being even more equal than men, I would say the ideal woman of the future should have a four-pound brain —more than ample for her everyday needs -- stands 3 feet 6 inches, weigh 100 pounds, and be broad enough so that the ideal man would hide safely behind her skirts in case of sudden attack.

Don't think this is all a dream. If science could miniaturize machines, who can say it won't be able to midgetize man?

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's note - The book "The Death of a President" gives the Kennedy side of the differences between the Kennedy and the Johnson families following John F. Kennedy's assassination. Drew Pearson was in Dallas on the day of the tragedy and in today's column endeavors to give the other side of the story.

WASHINGTON - I was in Dallas on the tragic day President Kennedy was assassinated. Since that time Jack Anderson and I have talked to various members of the Kennedy and Johnson staffs in order to get the facts regarding the friction and bitterness which William Manchester reports developed between Mrs. Jackie Kennedy and President Johnson.

Unquestionably there was friction. Bitterness developed during the tense moments after the assassination. However, the Manchester book tells only one side of the story.

Here is part of the other side:

First, friction occurred with the coroner in Dallas. Kenneth O'Donnell, secretary to Kennedy, and Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, his air force aide, had been entrusted with the job of getting the body back to Washington. But the coroner refused to release it until he held an inquest.

Finally O'Donnell and McHugh prevailed upon him. Then they had trouble with a Dallas city ordinance against carrying a casket in an ambulance. They had purchased a casket but found it was necessary to get a hearse.

It took about an hour to overcome local red tape and drive Kennedy's body to the waiting airplane.

Meanwhile, Air Force One, the presidential plane, had been waiting for Kennedy's body. This delay was on the personal order of the new president, and contrary to the wishes of the Secret Service.

Emery Roberts of the Secret Service staff had ordered the plane to take off immediately. The Secret Service had no idea, in the confusion of Kennedy's death, as to whether there was a widespread plot against both the president and the vice president and felt the new president would be safer in the air en route to Washington.

But Johnson ordered the plane to wait for Kennedy's body. Meanwhile he telephoned Robert F. Kennedy, the attorney general, in Washington to ask for a legal opinion as to whether he should take the oath of office immediately or wait till he got back in Washington. Bobby Kennedy did not reply immediately. But Deputy Attorney General Katzenbach called back to advise that Johnson should be sworn in immediately. If there was a national emergency while the plane was in the air, such as a missile attack on the United States, the president was the only person, as commander-in-chief, who could give the order to launch American missiles in retaliation.

Incidentally, Johnson addressed Bobby formally as "General Kennedy" during this and other conversations.

JACKIE'S IRE

Jackie Kennedy expressed indignation in the original version of the Manchester book that Johnson used her husband's plane. However, the plane contained secret electronic communications equipment which only the president could use in case of emergency. Johnson had flown to Dallas in the vice presidential plane, but it did not carry this equipment. The Secret Service had decided that he must use Air Force One for the return journey in order to be able to use this equipment. Besides, he was now president.

After receiving word from the Justice Department that he should be sworn in in Dallas, Johnson sent for U.S. District Judge Sarah Hughes to administer the oath. While he was waiting for her to arrive, Kennedy's body was put aboard the plane, and Gen. McHugh told Malcolm Kilduff, press secretary, that Ken O'Donnell wanted the plane to take off immediately. McHugh was quite excited. He had rushed through the plane looking for Johnson and Mrs. Kennedy, later said that he had found Mrs. Kennedy kneeling beside her dead husband while Johnson was in the washroom changing his clothes.

But Kilduff told McHugh the plane could not take off.

"He may want to take off," Kilduff said, referring to O'Donnell, "but he isn't in charge anymore. Johnson is now president."

O'Donnell, who two hours before had been the closest staff member to Kennedy and whose word was law, was bitter.

Later, as Kennedy's body was about to be removed from the plane, O'Donnell is reported to have blocked the new president in the plane's aisle so he could not disembark with the body.

RUMORS OF BOORISHNESS

Various stories have been circulated regarding the tragic flight back to Washington. Mrs. Kennedy is reported saying she objected to being called "honey" and did not want Johnson near her; that she didn't want "that man to touch me." It was also reported that Johnson had come back to the rear of the plane and smiled on the casket.

According to Kilduff, the new president acted with dignity and sympathy.

"My hero was Jack Kennedy," Kilduff told me, "but Johnson acted with nothing except sympathy for a bereaved widow. He took over the situation with precision and dignity. He acted as a strong president must. He ordered certain meetings by telephone. He telephoned the late president's mother to tell her of the tragedy, and the late president's brother. These were not easy things to do."

"Did he smile on the plane?" Kilduff was asked.

Kilduff replied: "Paternally and in sympathy. He did his best to help Mrs. Kennedy."

"There was an atmosphere of bleak silence on the plane going back," said one member of the Johnson staff. "You did not want to break the silence by touching a typewriter. You felt you were an intruder. Death of course was the intruder."

McNAMARA'S WAR

Congress in September, 1961, accomodated the State Department by following its plan and enacting a law providing that the U.S. disarm by empowering the President to transfer the U.S. armed forces and facilities to the U.N. The passage of this law has been disregarded and its existence has been overlooked by the public.

Marilyn Kay Conrad Pledges Vows With Richard Chapman

Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church was the candlelight setting at 8 p.m. Dec. 23 for the wedding of Miss Marilyn Kay Conrad and Richard Norman Chapman.

The Rev. Lindy M. Cannon, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Swags of green fir roping centered by a large circular wreath with a large red velvet bow graced the back of the altar. An arrangement of white mums and greenery with red velvet ribbons was placed on the communion table, flanked by white altar candles. Two nine-branched circular candelabra, entwined with holly and red bows, were placed on either side of the white kneeling bench.

Two baskets of southern pine and holly with red bows completed the altar arrangement. The holiday theme was carried out throughout the sanctuary with greenery, pine cones and red bows placed on each pew. The windows contained large red candles surrounded by greenery and pine cones and tied with large white satin bows.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Conrad, 408 Missouri. Her maternal grandparents are Mrs. Bert Knox and the late Mr. Knox of Perryville. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Conrad of Sedgwickville.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chapman, 800 Courtney. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Sikeston high school. Mrs. Chapman is a 1966 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College and is an English teacher at Pattonville high school in St. Louis. Chapman is a senior at Washington University in St. Louis.

WEDDING MUSIC

Mrs. Elmer B. Poage, organist, provided Christmas music as the candles were lit by Miss Mary Elizabeth Schuerenberg and Master Donald Davidson. After the mothers were seated, Mrs. James Davidson, soloist, sang "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach. Following the marriage vows, as the couple knelt, "The Greatest of These is Love" by Bitgood, was sung by Mrs. Davidson. The recessional was "The Wedding March" from the "Mid-Summer's Nights Dream."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was escorted down a white carpeted aisle. Her gown was designed by her and fashioned by her mother of heavy white bridal satin. The empire waistline was outlined with white satin braid, centered with a white satin rose. Two additional rows of braid and roses banded the A-line skirt. The portrait neckline was embroidered with pearls and tiny satin rose buds. The full length sleeves came to lily points over her hands and were joined with white satin buttons. Her watteau train hung from her shoulders and was banded with white satin braid with white satin roses scattered over the train. She wore an elbow-length veil attached to a white satin rose embroidered with pearls. The bride carried a white leather Bible, a high school graduation gift from her church. The Bible was covered in lace from the wedding gown of a friend. Atop the Bible were placed two white orchids, surrounded by white stephanotis and lily of the valley with white satin steamers. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls.

The bride carried out the tradition of something old, her shoes in which was placed a lucky penny by her father, had been worn by her cousin, Mrs. Roy Allen at her wedding. Something new was a white linen handerchief, a gift of Mrs. Hemba Young. Something borrowed was her veil which was worn by her cousin, Mrs. David Dillingham. Something blue was her garter worn by Mrs. James Davidson, at her wedding.

BRIDES ATTENDANTS

The bride chose her college roommate, Miss Sandy Combs of Cape Girardeau, for her maid of honor. Miss Carol White, cousin of the bride and Mrs. David Lewis of Anderson, Ind., close friend of the bride, were bridesmaids. Miss Tammy Barks, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants' formal-length gowns were of red brocaded taffeta, styled similar to the bridal gown with elbow-length sleeves ending in a double ruffle. A red satin bow complimented the front of the empire waistline with a bow and a single strand of pearls and dyed to match shoes were worn by the attendants. Hurricane lamps containing lighted swirl candles and festooned with holly and red satin streamers were carried by the maid of honor and bridesmaids.

The flower girl's dress was a miniature of the bridesmaids' and she carried a basket of white mums. Miss Schuerenberg wore a street-length dress identical to the other attendants and a wrist corsage of white mums with red velvet leaves. All of the bridal attendants, wore nose-tip veils of red illusion attached to red velvet poinsettas.

Mrs. Conrad, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a jacket dress of green velvet, green veil hat and matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Chapman, wore a satin trimmed, imported knit suit of deep pink, with floral hat and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of purple-throated white orchids.

Mrs. Knox, maternal grandmother, wore a wine silk dress with matching velvet hat. Mrs. Conrad, paternal grandmother, wore a blue silk jacket dress and matching accessories. Mrs. Coburn, the groom's maternal grandmother, wore a green brocade suit, with matching accessories and a winter white hat. The three grandmothers all wore corsages of white mums.

GROOM'S ATTENDANTS

Head usher was James Davidson. Additional ushers were Mike Lund of Rolla, David Lewis, of Anderson, Ind. and Mike Lee.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. Hemba Young and Mrs. Ralph McElroy were in charge. A Christmas tree was at one end of the hall. Hurrican lamps, containing red and green candles with southern pine and holly filled each window. Baskets of spruce, pine and holly were arranged in the hall. Greenery and a five-branch candlelabra were placed atop the piano.

The bride's table was covered with white taffeta draped with green net and caught up at the corners with clusters of white satin wedding bells. A four-tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional bride and groom, beneath an arch of lily of the valley and decorated with miniature red roses, centered the table. A three-branched silver candlelabra, containing red swirl candles entwined with holly, was placed on each side of the cake. Cranberry punch and coffee were served from a silver punch bowl and silver coffee service. Silver compotes containing nuts and mints completed the table. Coffee was served by Mrs. Eugene Bullard, punch by Mrs. Ray McCord and cake by Mrs. Roy Allen and Miss Karen Barks.

Corsages of white mums with red velvet leaves were worn by each participant in the reception.

Mrs. Richard Norman Chapman

Marilyn Kay Conrad Pledges Vows With Richard Chapman

Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church was the candlelight setting at 8 p.m. Dec. 23 for the wedding of Miss Marilyn Kay Conrad and Richard Norman Chapman.

The Rev. Lindy M. Cannon, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Swags of green fir roping centered by a large circular wreath with a large red velvet bow graced the back of the altar. An arrangement of white mums and greenery with red velvet ribbons was placed on the communion table, flanked by white altar candles. Two nine-branched circular candelabra, entwined with holly and red bows, were placed on either side of the white kneeling bench.

Two baskets of southern pine and holly with red bows completed the altar arrangement. The holiday theme was carried out throughout the sanctuary with greenery, pine cones and red bows placed on each pew. The windows contained large red candles surrounded by greenery and pine cones and tied with large white satin bows.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Conrad, 408 Missouri. Her maternal grandparents are Mrs. Bert Knox and the late Mr. Knox of Perryville. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Conrad of Sedgwickville.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chapman, 800 Courtney. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Sikeston high school. Mrs. Chapman is a 1966 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College and is an English teacher at Pattonville high school in St. Louis. Chapman is a senior at Washington University in St. Louis.

WEDDING MUSIC

Mrs. Elmer B. Poage, organist, provided Christmas music as the candles were lit by Miss Mary Elizabeth Schuerenberg and Master Donald Davidson. After the mothers were seated, Mrs. James Davidson, soloist, sang "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach. Following the marriage vows, as the couple knelt, "The Greatest of These is Love" by Bitgood, was sung by Mrs. Davidson. The recessional was "The Wedding March" from the "Mid-Summer's Nights Dream."

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was escorted down a white carpeted aisle. Her gown was designed by her and fashioned by her mother of heavy white bridal satin. The empire waistline was outlined with white satin braid, centered with a white satin rose. Two additional rows of braid and roses banded the A-line skirt. The portrait neckline was embroidered with pearls and tiny satin rose buds. The full length sleeves came to lily points over her hands and were joined with white satin buttons. Her watteau train hung from her shoulders and was banded with white satin braid with white satin roses scattered over the train. She wore an elbow-length veil attached to a white satin rose embroidered with pearls. The bride carried a white leather Bible, a high school graduation gift from her church. The Bible was covered in lace from the wedding gown of a friend. Atop the Bible were placed two white orchids, surrounded by white stephanotis and lily of the valley with white satin steamers. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls.

The bride carried out the tradition of something old, her shoes in which was placed a lucky penny by her father, had been worn by her cousin, Mrs. Roy Allen at her wedding. ONE LITTLE, two little, three little Indians from Hayti can't stop this fast-break layup by Matthews' Leonard Bishop at Hayti last night. The Pirates outran and outscored the Indians to gain their 19th basketball win, 72-55. It was Hayti's first loss.

Matthews Wins 19th Game, Remains No. 1

HAYTI - Matthews' Top ranked basketball Pirates crushed their only challenger for the number one spot in the Daily Standard basketball poll last night, 72-55, running their record to 19-1. Hayti suffered its first loss after winning 11 in a row.

A capacity crowd was on hand to see the Pirates run their way into an early 6-0 lead and never trail. Their smallest lead during the night was 1-0 with six seconds gone in the first quarter.

Holding a 21-10 first quarter lead the Pirates used their zone press and man-to-man defense to its maximum effectiveness. They led 13-2 with 3:35 remaining in the first period.

Dominating the rebounds the first quarter, the Pirates hit an amazing 78 per cent from the field as Chuck Brooks ended the period with nine points while Leonard Bishop added five. Hayti had a balanced scoring attack as the starting lineup each netted two points.

Hayti, expected by many to give the Pirates their toughest game of the season, seemed to be tight in the first half. They missed four consecutive layins before netting their first basket with 3:23 left in the period.

Coach Jim Hart's Pirates jumped on the much taller Indians in the first period, taking a rebound advantage of 23-9. All nine of the Indians rebounds came on defense. The Pirates only collected three offensive rebounds in the first half.

Hayti, surprised most of the capacity crowd trying to run with the speedy squad, which most teams have shied away from doing.

Hayti closed to with six points of the leaders in the second period, 25-19, but the Pirates press began to take its toll and they went into the dressing room at half with a 36-21 lead.

Brooks ended the first period with 15 points, followed by Hicks with eight and Bishop with seven. Benny Johnson topped the Indians first half scoring with eight points.

Hicks pulled 12 rebounds the first half while teammate Amon Ring was credited with five.

Matthews slacked up the second half after posting a 23-point lead, and used only seven players the entire night while Hayti used eight.

Coach Hart's Pirates took a commanding 48-26 edge in the rebound department, and ended the game hitting 53 per cent from the field.

Brooks topped the Pirates scoring attack, netting 21 points, Hayti's B. Johnson took game honors with 22 points.

The Pirates broke open a close game in the fourth period and shot to their 12th win of the season against no defeats as they downed the Indians 46-40.

Nunn and Lape poured in 13 and 11 points respectively for the Pirates while Hayti's White hit 20 for game high honors.

North Pemiscot Jumps On Delta

STEELE - The home team, North Pemiscot, rolled past the visiting Delta C-7 Chargers last night taking a twin basketball victory. The Bulldogs won the varsity outing 79-54 and the junior varsity game 92-54.

Spearheading the mighty Bulldogs, Howell netted 21 points and brought down 19 rebounds off the boards. This was Pemiscot's 10th win. It has five losses. Delta has a 5-11 record.

North Pemiscot came on strong in the final half after playing a tight first two quarters. The Bulldogs moved to a one-point lead in the first quarter, and increased it in the second by eight points, leading at the half 34-26.

Moroney collected 12 of his 20 points in the third period to lead the attack for the Bulldogs. This was the Bulldogs best team effort for the season.

Hitting 63 points in the first half the Bulldogs scored an easy victory over the Charger B squad 92-54. Fisher led the Pemiscot five team with 23 points and Bryant got 17 for the Chargers.

Bernie Gives Dexter Trouble

BERNIE -- Visiting Dexter barely made it past the wire last night as the surging Bernie Mules fell short 53-48. The Mules took the B basketball game 50-35.

Bernie with Botsch and Craft back into the starting lineup racked up a 15-13 first quarter lead but fell back 29-24 at the half and was never able to overtake the struggling Bearcats.

Both squads played even the last half, scoring 24 points. The Mules got to within three points of the forerunners midway in the third quarter but were never able to take over.

David Guethle paced the Bearcats scoring with 19 points and 17 rebounds.

A well balanced scoring attack by the Mules was led by Botsch, who netted 16 points. Watkins poured in 16 points to lead Dexter's scoring attack. Botsch netted 21 for Bernie.

Parma Has Easy Time

PARMA -- Ken Womack's 15-point production was enough to lead an 11-man scoring attack and the Pirates to a 74-41 basketball victory over arch-rival Risco Last night, Parma captured the B game 50-38.

A full-court zone press sent the Pirates ahead early. After the smoke settled the Parma quintet posted a 23-6 first quarter lead.

Womack's driving layups and ball steals on the press ignited both the Pirates offense and defense. He played his best game of the year. He was credited with eight assets.

Risco collected 17 points by half time but failed to stop Parma, who racked up 40 points.

Kellick topped the Tigers scoring attack with 11 points.

In the B contest, the Pirates broke on top early in the game, and sailed to their 50-38 victory on the shoulders of Jay Foster, who pumped in 10 points. Calvert took high game honors. He netted 17 for the Tigers.

Crader Paces Woodland

LUTESVILLE - Woodland swept two basketball games from the visiting Zalma team last night winning the B game 59-51 and the A game 82-77.

The Woodland quintet was headed by the hard hitting Crader, who popped in 34 points. He has a 30-point average. Woodfin hit 18 for Woodland also. Payne paced the Zalma team with 27.

Outrebounding the smaller Zalma five, the Zalma Bulldogs jumped to a 19-16 lead in the first quarter. Woodland gained its advantage in the third quarter as it pumped in 26 points to Zalma's 14.

Woodland captured the B game behind the shooting of Keith with 17. Morgan netted 19 for the losers.

Cards Sign Bob Gibson

ST. LOUIS -- Bob Gibson, the Cardinals' No. 1 pitcher, has become the No. 1 contract signer for the 1967 season, according to an announcement by General Manager Bob Howsam.

The big right-hander, who during the coming season will be striving to become the first Cardinal pitcher to win 20 games for three consecutive years since Mort Cooper did it in 1942-3-4, sent in his signed papers to the Red Bird front office from his home in Omaha.

Dexter Divides Games With Cape

DEXTER - Cape Girardeau junior high squad divided basketball games last night as the Dexter Cubs captured the night's opener 45-32 for their ninth straight season victory, against no losses. The Cubs have won their last 20 in a row. Cape took the night cap, 51-28, as the Cubs' ninth grade squad opened its season.

McCoy netted 15 points to take high scoring honors for Dexter in the eighth grade game. Meyer hit 10 to take high honors for Cape. Dexter won its own tournament two weeks ago to add to its record.

It was all Cape in the ninth grade contest as the Cubs opened their season with a 51-28 loss.

Roderman was high man for Dexter. He pumped in 13 points, one shy of scoring half the team's points. Marshall hit 14 for Cape.

Dexter won the Puxico invitational seventh grade basketball tournament last week. Bernie, Advance and Richland finished, in that order.

Junior College Action At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- junior college basketball comes to Southeast Missouri Thursday night when Jefferson College of Hillsboro and Southern Baptist of Walnut Ridge, Ark., meet at 8 p.m. Thursday night.

Former area cage stars are members of each team. Bloomfield has three players who will see action for Jefferson City. Among them are Mike Wise, All-American and All-State last year, Ron White, an All-Stater from the 1965 season, and Dennis Gilespie.

Included in the Southern Baptist squad are Richland's Wayne Early, who has been doing a fine job in his freshman year. Ron Patillo of Gideon and Stan Whitson and Curt Simpson of Parma. Whitson is a Class S All-Stater.

Your passport to the world

Your telephone can carry your voice to almost any corner of the globe at the speed of light. Pretty amazing when you stop to think about it. Fact is, you can reach 97 percent of the telephones in the world by Long Distance. And closer to home, you can call more people and more places in Missouri than ever before. That's just one way your telephone service has grown in value over the years.

Another way is in transmission quality. Today's phone users can talk as though they were four feet apart. Back in the early 1930's, it was 35 feet. And the low cost of telephone service makes it a real bargain. Today you can make a three-minute, station-to-station call to any point in the continental United States (except Alaska) for $1 or less after 8 p.m. or all day Sunday. Better service to more places at lower cost. We think that's a winning combination.

SURROUNDED BY five Hayti Indians, Matthews' Chuck Brooks scores two of his 19 basketball points. Matthews, rated number one in Southeast Missouri in the Daily Standard poll, defeated the number two rated Indians, 72-55.

Crader Paces Woodland

LUTESVILLE - Woodland swept two basketball games from the visiting Zalma team last night winning the B game 59-51 and the A game 82-77.

The Woodland quintet was headed by the hard hitting Crader, who popped in 34 points. He has a 30-point average. Woodfin hit 18 for Woodland also. Payne paced the Zalma team with 27.

Outrebounding the smaller Zalma five, the Zalma Bulldogs jumped to a 19-16 lead in the first quarter. Woodland gained its advantage in the third quarter as it pumped in 26 points to Zalma's 14.

Woodland captured the B game behind the shooting of Keith with 17. Morgan netted 19 for the losers.

Your passport to the world

Your telephone can carry your voice to almost any corner of the globe at the speed of light. Pretty amazing when you stop to think about it. Fact is, you can reach 97 percent of the telephones in the world by Long Distance. And closer to home, you can call more people and more places in Missouri than ever before. That's just one way your telephone service has grown in value over the years.

Another way is in transmission quality. Today's phone users can talk as though they were four feet apart. Back in the early 1930's, it was 35 feet. And the low cost of telephone service makes it a real bargain. Today you can make a three-minute, station-to-station call to any point in the continental United States (except Alaska) for $1 or less after 8 p.m. or all day Sunday. Better service to more places at lower cost. We think that's a winning combination.

Briggs Hits 20 In Leading Charleston Past Central

CHARLESTON--Posting their eight win of the season, fifth out of their last six, the Charleston Blue Jays edged the Scott Central Braves 73-62 last night.

It was a nip and tuck battle all the way. Charleston opened a first quarter lead of 15-14 but found itself tied 30-30 at intermission and broke on top of the third period 46-44. Charleston outscored its opponents 16-14.

Scott Central tallied 18 points in the fourth quarter compared to Charleston's 16, but the third quarter lead was too much to overcome.

Hitting 44 per cent from the field, the Blue Jays had three men scoring in double figures. Briggs poured in 20 points to take high game honors. Scott Central had four men scoring in double figures with Owens topping the crew with 16 points. They hit 42 per cent from the field.

Charleston controlled the rebounding over the Braves as they pulled 36 compared to the Braves 28.

Central hit on 20 of 28 free throws while Charleston netted 15 of 21 attempts.

Charleston's B squad won their eighth straight game, by dumping the Braves junior varsity 57-48.

$500,000 in Crop Loss Payments

NEW MADRID -- Corn, cotton and soybean farmers in New Madrid county shared in total estimated 1966 crop loss payments amounting to more than $500,000 paid by federal crop insurance corporation in Missouri.

Charles Lindley, Matthews, field representative in the district office, said the payments were made on the 1966 spring crops, destroyed by excessive moisture or drought.

He is now explaining the program to producers and taking applications on the 1967 crop.

Lilbourn's Panthers Edge Out East Prairie Eagles In Overtime 51-49

LILBOURN -- Lilbourn high basketball team won over the East Prairie Eagles in an overtime game in the last two seconds 51 to 49. Gunter scored a field goal from four feet out with two seconds remaining in the overtime period.

Hodges hit two free throws for East Prairie in the last six seconds to tie the score at the end of regulation play.

This was the Panthers fourth win in the last five games.

The Lilbourn B team also won its game 43 to 27. Schaffer was high point man for Lilbourn with 16 points, and Thurmond was high with six for East Prairie.

New Library Dedicated

KANSAS CITY, (AP) - A new $400,000 library at the Nazarene Theological Seminary was dedicated Tuesday.

The dedicatory address was made by Dr. G.B. Williamson, a general superintendent.

The facility has room for 95,000 volumes and will seat 150 persons.

Hall Again Seeks To Remove Fees

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., reintroduced at the opening of the new session of Congress a bill to ban admission fees at federal reservoirs.

Hall said in a statement the administrations attempts to impose the fees last year had been a dismal failure.

"It makes no sense to continue the fees at 20 per cent of the federal reservoir public use areas after finally agreeing to remove them at the other 80 per cent," he said.

$29,577 Grant To Cape Agency

KANSAS CITY - A $29,577 grant to Bollinger, Cape and Perry County Human Resources Corporation, Cape Girardeau, for the administration of community action programs, has been approved by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal agency in charge of the war on poverty.

Don Thomason, director of the north central region of OEO, made the announcement.

The 10-month grant will provide professional direction and leadership for the development and initiation of anti-poverty programs in a three-county area. The staff will comprise four professionals and 10 volunteer aides, who will be recruited from neighborhoods to be served.

The grantee is a non-profit agency, responsible for alleviating the social and economic status of low-income families and individuals.

Thomas E. Reeves is director.

COFFEE CORNER

by Cherie

Horrors! I just stepped on the scales and tipped them five pounds heavier than last year. Brother, I know one rather late New Year's resolution I'd better get busy and make, you guessed it, back to hard-boiled eggs and rabbit food, (that's the only thing I'll ever have in common with the bunnies anyway --- the food we eat). I just can't understand how pre-marriage I was a skinny 95 pounds and would have loved to gain weight. Then marriage, one baby, and wow! I refuse to even tell you my poundage. It just doesn't make sense. Before marriage I ate constantly and didn't lift a finger to do anything but turn the pages of a book, and now -- I starve myself constantly, don't lift one finger, but all ten (toes too), all the time, and just keep getting fatter. I've decided one thing about age is it sure doesn't cut you short, in fact, its most generous. You get more weight, more wrinkles, more grey hairs, more aches and pains, -- the only thing you seem to have less of is energy. Somehow, it looks to me as if it could have been worked out just a little better. I believe if I had been arranging people, I'd have made it so the kids were always pooped and the adults full of energy -- come to think of it maybe that much energy wouldn't be such a good idea after all. I hadn't considered what a problem the world might have with a population explosion! Hmmm, I guess someone had thought things out pretty thoroughly at that.

Oh bother, this really hurts me, turning through the pages of my recipes is making my salivary glands work overtime and my stomach is growling so loudly I don't hear the news on T. V. (the news being what it is nowadays, I guess it's just as well). Tell you what, I'll give you a fantastic pickle recipe, I can eat those.

1 gallon of sour pickles, drained and sliced
5 pounds of granulated sugar
1 package of pickling spices
3 cloves of garlic, sliced thin

In a large gallon jug, place a layer of pickles, sugar, spices and garlic, and continue layering until all ingredients are used and jar is full. Then for seven days, turn your jar once a day. That's it, and they are just divine.

Dear Readers, several of you have asked me to publish a cookbook with my favorite recipes. Well, I have written one and would love to have it printed, but until I have the assurance that certain number of these would be bought, I cannot do this as the price involved in getting them printed is fantastic!!! The book contains over a hundred recipes, lots of chatter, party ideas, easy and elegant meals to serve your guests, and lots more chatter (it's even a little spicey in spots and I don't mean the red pepper variety.)

It will be bound and contain illustrations, in fact, would make delightful gifts for those difficult to buy for. The cost would be $3.50. If you would buy, please call or write me and let me know how many books you'd desire. Do not send any money. If enough of you are interested, we'll go to press Feb. 1, with "Thank Hearnes for School or Why I Bake For the Truant Officer!!" Write or call your orders into Cherie Blanton.

Bureau Leaders Trained

A leadership training meeting was held for the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation in Southeast Missouri with 42 county leaders representing eight counties, present Thursday in the public library basement.

The meeting was the first for new state Farm Bureau president, Paul Pippitt, West Line, who has replaced retiring president Olin Monsees of Jefferson City.

Staff members and officers present, who shared the program on marketing, women's activities, memberships and service, legislation and resolutions, broke the discussion down to a county levy, to find the needs in this area.

State leaders present were John Summitt, Cardwell, Dick Gray, California; Benson Crane, Columbia; Clark Lewis, Margaret Schowengerdt, Russell Elsea and Richard Carroll, all of Jefferson City.

The Southeast Missouri Farm Bureau region includes the counties of Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Mississippi, Butler, Scott, Ripley and Cape Girardeau.

State to Offer Business Courses

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The department of commerce and business administration at Southeast Missouri State College will offer four night courses next semester, aimed at meeting the needs of the business community for individual improvement of skills.

Each of the four courses offers three hours of academic credit, although those enrolled need not be working towards an academic degree.

Each course will meet three hours per week, either on Monday evening or at another time mutually agreed upon by both the instructor and the class members.

Registration will be Jan. 26, in Kent Library at 6:30 p.m. A minimum of 15 students is required for each class.

Courses to be offered include business organization and management (emphasizing a behavioral science approach), under E. J. Harrick; data processing, under Robert Malahy; elementary accounting, under Robert Van Rigenmorten; and marketing, under Hayden Scheutts.

Course work will be built around the interests and problems of individual class members. Further information is available from the director of admissions at the college.

NOTHING SO SHOCKING
Let's face it, trial marriage
Goes on all the while-
Year after year, it's
Trial after trial!

THE Outlook for Business

RAILROAD INDUSTRY

Louis W. Menk President, Northern Pacific Railway Company.

The railroad industry set some significant traffic records in 1966 and made continuing advances in technology and equipment acquisition. The railroad should be reasonably well during the first six months of 1967, too, but it is doubtful if any gains will approximate the rate achieved during 1966.

Freight traffic volume in 1966 probably will exceed 750 billion ton - miles, an all-time high, while the average amount received for carrying one ton of freight one mile probably will decline to about one and one fourth cents, the lowest level since the late 1940's. This trend reflects the increasing carriage by unit train and larger cars of more and more commodities. I would expect the ton-mile rate to bottom out very near the one and one quarter cents figure during the first six months of 1967.

After record capital expenditures of about $1.7 billion in 1966, I would expect to see a decline of about 5 per cent during 1967, due to the loss of the 7 per cent tax credit.

The year 1967 will be an important year to the railroad industry because of substantial wage agreements with the various labor unions. Some already have been agreed upon. These will increase the industry's high rate of payment for wages and fringe benefits, which presently take some 46 cents of each revenue dollar. They will, however, provide employees with a level of wages that should make railroad careers even more attractive, especially to the talented young people we need.

Understandably, wage increases of this scope place even grater premium on increased railroad efficiency, which must be obtained through improved technology and management methods. While greater technological strides have been made by the railroad industry in recent years, we may expect to see such effort intensified in 1967 and subsequent years.

The wage increases bring great pressures to bear upon the freight rate structure. I am confident every effort will be made by the industry to hold the line on rates. But this may be impossible, especially if freight traffic volume does not increase during 1967. My feeling is that it will not increase in the over - all; gains in certain traffic categories will be offset by reductions in others.

Although equipment purchases and construction will be at a modestly reduced level, specialized cars being offered shippers will contribute significantly to greater over-all transportation efficiency.

The considerable problem of tailoring railroad passenger service to decreasing public usage, and of finding ways to cope with steadily increasing per passenger costs of operation, will continue to tax the ingenuity of railroad management during 1967. Although recording a traffic surge during the airline strike of last summer, railroad passenger-miles for 1967 may be expected to fall below 1.3 billion, less than the level of passenger business during the depression years of the 1930's.

Summing up, during the first six months of 1967, freight traffic can be expected to be at or near the same level of the first six months of 1966. Passenger traffic will decline 3 per cent or more. Net income should drop from 2 to 5 per cent, depending upon traffic factors for the particular railroad.

The major problem facing the industry in 1967 will be higher wage costs. Additionally, loss of the 7 per cent tax credit and the threat of a tax increase will have a bearish effect on railroad results. There will be great pressures for a freight rate increase as a result of higher wage costs, and it is doubtful if even selective rate increases can be avoided. The increasingly high cost of operating passenger trains, coupled with declining public use of them, will force further reduction in passenger train operations.

The industry, however, has made great strides in technology and management expertise in recent years and is better able to cope with current trends than perhaps at any time in recent years.

Six in Bootheel Committee Heads

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri House Speaker James E. Godfrey (Dem), St. Louis, streamlined the number of House committee chairman, by reducing the number appointed from 47 to 37.

Six committee chairmen were named from Southeast Missouri. They were, banks, Fred E. Copeland, New Madrid; transportation and natural resources, David Rolwing, Charleston; state institutions, Charles W. Foley, Hayti; accounts, Marvin E. Proffer, Jackson; interstate cooperation, Frank C. Ellis, Sedgewickville; mining, William F. Casey.

Proffer also was named vice chairman of the appropriations committee.

The Dominican Republic has a population growth of 3.5 per cent a year.

COFFEE CORNER
by Cherie

Horrors! I just stepped on the scales and tipped them five pounds heavier than last year. Brother, I know one rather late New Year's resolution I'd better get busy and make, you guessed it, back to hard-boiled eggs and rabbit food, (that's the only thing I'll ever have in common with the bunnies anyway --- the food we eat). I just can't understand how pre-marriage I was a skinny 95 pounds and would have loved to gain weight. Then marriage, one baby, and wow! I refuse to even tell you my poundage. It just doesn't make sense. Before marriage I ate constantly and didn't lift a finger to do anything but turn the pages of a book, and now -- I starve myself constantly, don't lift one finger, but all ten (toes too), all the time, and just keep getting fatter. I've decided one thing about age is it sure doesn't cut you short, in fact, its most generous. You get more weight, more wrinkles, more grey hairs, more aches and pains, -- the only thing you seem to have less of is energy. Somehow, it looks to me as if it could have been worked out just a little better. I believe if I had been arranging people, I'd have made it so the kids were always pooped and the adults full of energy -- come to think of it maybe that much energy wouldn't be such a good idea after all. I hadn't considered what a problem the world might have with a population explosion! Hmmm, I guess someone had thought things out pretty thoroughly at that.

Oh bother, this really hurts me, turning through the pages of my recipes is making my salivary glands work overtime and my stomach is growling so loudly I don't hear the news on T. V. (the news being what it is nowadays, I guess it's just as well). Tell you what, I'll give you a fantastic pickle recipe, I can eat those.

1 gallon of sour pickles, drained and sliced
5 pounds of granulated sugar
1 package of pickling spices
3 cloves of garlic, sliced thin

In a large gallon jug, place a layer of pickles, sugar, spices and garlic, and continue layering until all ingredients are used and jar is full. Then for seven days, turn your jar once a day. That's it, and they are just divine.

Dear Readers, several of you have asked me to publish a cookbook with my favorite recipes. Well, I have written one and would love to have it printed, but until I have the assurance that certain number of these would be bought, I cannot do this as the price involved in getting them printed is fantastic!! The book contains over a hundred recipes, lots of chatter, party ideas, easy and elegant meals to serve your guests, and lots more chatter (it's even a little spicey in spots and I don't mean the red pepper variety.)

It will be bound and contain illustrations, in fact, would make delightful gifts for those difficult to buy for. The cost would be $3.50. If you would buy, please call or write me and let me know how many books you'd desire. Do not send any money. If enough of you are interested, we'll go to press Feb. 1, with "Thank Hearnes for School or Why I Bake For the Truant Officer!!" Write or call your orders into Cherie Blanton.

Bureau Leaders Trained

A leadership training meeting was held for the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation in Southeast Missouri with 42 county leaders representing eight counties, present Thursday in the public library basement.

The meeting was the first for new state Farm Bureau president, Paul Pippitt, West Line, who has replaced retiring president Olin Monsees of Jefferson City.

Staff members and officers present, who shared the program on marketing, women's activities, memberships and service, legislation and resolutions, broke the discussion down to a county levy, to find the needs in this area.

State leaders present were John Summitt, Cardwell, Dick Gray, California; Benson Crane, Columbia; Clark Lewis, Margaret Schowengerdt, Russell Elsea and Richard Carroll, all of Jefferson City.

The Southeast Missouri Farm Bureau region includes the counties of Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Mississippi, Butler, Scott, Ripley and Cape Girardeau.

State to Offer Business Courses

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The department of commerce and business administration at Southeast Missouri State College will offer four night courses next semester, aimed at meeting the needs of the business community for individual improvement of skills.

Each of the four courses offers three hours of academic credit, although those enrolled need not be working towards an academic degree.

Each course will meet three hours per week, either on Monday evening or at another time mutually agreed upon by both the instructor and the class members.

Registration will be Jan. 26, in Kent Library at 6:30 p.m. A minimum of 15 students is required for each class.

Courses to be offered include business organization and management (emphasizing a behavioral science approach), under E. J. Harrick; data processing, under Robert Malahy; elementary accounting, under Robert Van Rigenmorten; and marketing, under Hayden Scheutts.

Course work will be built around the interests and problems of individual class members. Further information is available from the director of admissions at the college.

THE Outlook for Business

RAILROAD INDUSTRY

Louis W. Menk President, Northern Pacific Railway Company.

The railroad industry set some significant traffic records in 1966 and made continuing advances in technology and equipment acquisition. The railroad should be reasonably well during the first six months of 1967, too, but it is doubtful if any gains will approximate the rate achieved during 1966.

Freight traffic volume in 1966 probably will exceed 750 billion ton - miles, an all-time high, while the average amount received for carrying one ton of freight one mile probably will decline to about one and one fourth cents, the lowest level since the late 1940's. This trend reflects the increasing carriage by unit train and larger cars of more and more commodities. I would expect the ton-mile rate to bottom out very near the one and one quarter cents figure during the first six months of 1967.

After record capital expenditures of about $1.7 billion in 1966, I would expect to see a decline of about 5 per cent during 1967, due to the loss of the 7 per cent tax credit.

Mrs. Rolwing Gives DAR Program on Newspapers

The Kings Highway Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Jan. 3 with Mrs. Helen Jones with Miss Isabel Hess as co-hostess.

Supper was served to 10 members and one guest. Mrs. Jones, regent, opened the meeting with the DAR ritual. Mrs. Audley A. Brown read the president general's report.

The national defense report was given by Miss Lucille Howlett. She reported that the Communists are moving into the colleges because youth has a long life and are not yet mature. A review was given of "The New Lift" by Phillip Abbott Luce, telling the life that he lead until he was 28 and how his early training won him back to democracy.

Mrs. Margaret Rolwing of Charleston read letters from the School of the Ozarks. Several members had received jellies, candy, honey and other products made at the school.

Members were reminded to fly their flags on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, and Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Jane Ann Baker, 313 Circle Dr., was on the list for an invitation to serve as a page at the state conference, March 22 - 24.

It was announced that anyone interested in making a chartered bus trip with the Missouri Delegation to the contenental congress April 13 to April 24 should contact Mrs. Jones, 507 Woodlawn.

The chapter decided to write a letter to preserve the house of Peter Leffent in Prospect Park, New York City.

Mrs. Rolwing gave the program on Missouri newspapers. Joseph Charles founded the first Missouri newspaper, the Missouri Gazette in 1808. Most of the news was political and what was new at the capital. The local news was gained by sitting in the stores. The newspapers tried to keep people together before the Civil War and banded together to keep them together after the war.

Club Tours Extension Center

For the regular monthly meeting Monday of the Meadow Lane Garden Club, 10 members had a luncheon in Portageville, after which the group visited the Missouri University Delta Extension center.

Mrs. J. H. Calvin was program chairman and she introduced Henry F. DeCarlo, a member of the staff at the center, who spoke on the proper planting, care and pruning of flowers and shrubs.

Following the program, DeCarlo conducted a tour of buildings at the center.

Of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodges, route three, visited their son, Harold, in Indianapolis, where he is a staff member at the Indiana School for the Blind. The three then drove to Canton to spend Christmas with the family of the Hodges' youngest son, Dale. Harold visited in St. Louis before returning to Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hackett of 806 Wayne entertained their son and his family this weekend. Here from Knoxville, Tennessee, were Mr. and Mrs. David Hackett and children Cindy and Mark.

Returning this Sunday, after two weeks spent at the home of her son and his family in Memphis, Tenn., is Mrs. Leland Hollis. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hollis and son Allen, and while there a new baby boy David Lynn, eight pounds, was added to the amily. Don't forget to call me. Dial GR 1-0380.

Daughters of Isabella Meet

The St. Francix Xavier Daughters of Isabella met last Wednesday night at the Knights of Columbus hall. Twenty members attended.

Mrs. Judy Hart, regent, presided. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane gave the opening and closing prayers.

Mrs. Mary Frances LeGrand, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved. Thirteen officers were present for roll call.

A letter of thanks from the Missouri Delta Community hospital for a donation was read. The circle also received a not of thanks from Msgr. McGrane for a Christmas gift.

Hostesses for the February business meeting will be Mrs. Pauline Kaullen, Mrs. Evelyn Pinnell and Mrs. Jerry Schlosser.

Seven hours of volunteer service were reported by the members during January.

Cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mrs. Josephine Schwab and Mrs. Marcella Layton.

Monsignor McGrane reviewed "The Rabbi" by Noah Gordon.

STOP RUSTY WATER

SAVE 25¢ ON MORTON PELLENS

If you own a water softener, and still find ugly red rust stains on your bathtub, sinks and other fixtures, you've got rusty water. Now, stop rusty water with Morton Salt Pellens.

Here's how: Morton Pellens are a totally new pellet type water softener salt for recharging water softeners where iron oxide or rust is in the water. Pellens contain an iron fluidizing agent. It dissolves the iron or rust accumulation and washes it down the drain when the water softener is recharged. Pellens are used like regular water softener salt.

Mrs. Rolwing Gives DAR Program on Newspapers

The Kings Highway Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Jan. 3 with Mrs. Helen Jones with Miss Isabel Hess as co-hostess.

Supper was served to 10 members and one guest. Mrs. Jones, regent, opened the meeting with the DAR ritual. Mrs. Audley A. Brown read the president general's report.

The national defense report was given by Miss Lucille Howlett. She reported that the Communists are moving into the colleges because youth has a long life and are not yet mature. A review was given of "The New Lift" by Phillip Abbott Luce, telling the life that he lead until he was 28 and how his early training won him back to democracy.

Mrs. Margaret Rolwing of Charleston read letters from the School of the Ozarks. Several members had received jellies, candy, honey and other products made at the school.

Members were reminded to fly their flags on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, and Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

Jane Ann Baker, 313 Circle Dr., was on the list for an invitation to serve as a page at the state conference, March 22 - 24.

It was announced that anyone interested in making a chartered bus trip with the Missouri Delegation to the continental congress April 13 to April 24 should contact Mrs. Jones, 507 Woodlawn.

The chapter decided to write a letter to preserve the house of Peter Leffent in Prospect Park, New York City.

Mrs. Rolwing gave the program on Missouri newspapers. Joseph Charles founded the first Missouri newspaper, the Missouri Gazette in 1808. Most of the news was political and what was new at the capital. The local news was gained by sitting in the stores. The newspapers tried to keep people together before the Civil War and banded together to keep them together after the war.

Baptist Pastors, Layman Attend Conference

The Rev. Jimmie Edmondson, pastor of the Blodgett Baptist church, the Rev. W.N. Shepard, pastor of the Benton Baptist church and John W. Davis, Baptist layman, attended the Illinois Southern Baptist evangelistic conference at the First Baptist church in Mount Vernon, Ill.

They were guests of the Rev. Paul Higgins, former associate pastor of the First Baptist church and now superintendent of missions in Decatur, Ill.

The Sikeston group joined the Rev. Mr. Higgins and five pastors of the Sangamon association Monday at the conference.

Speakers were the Rev. Charles Howard, the Rev. C.Y. Dossey and the Rev. Wayne Ward.

The conference closed this afternoon.

Club Tours Extension Center

For the regular monthly meeting Monday of the Meadow Lane Garden Club, 10 members had a luncheon in Portageville, after which the group visited the Missouri University Delta Extension center.

Mrs. J. H. Calvin was program chairman and she introduced Henry F. DeCarlo, a member of the staff at the center, who spoke on the proper planting, care and pruning of flowers and shrubs.

Following the program, DeCarlo conducted a tour of buildings at the center.

Of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodges, route three, visited their son, Harold, in Indianapolis, where he is a staff member at the Indiana School for the Blind. The three then drove to Canton to spend Christmas with the family of the Hodges' youngest son, Dale. Harold visited in St. Louis before returning to Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hackett of 806 Wayne entertained their son and his family this weekend. Here from Knoxville, Tennessee, were Mr. and Mrs. David Hackett and children Cindy and Mark.

Returning this Sunday, after two weeks spent at the home of her son and his family in Memphis, Tenn., is Mrs. Leland Hollis. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hollis and son Allen, and while there a new baby boy David Lynn, eight pounds, was added to the amily.

Daughters of Isabella Meet

The St. Francix Xavier Daughters of Isabella met last Wednesday night at the Knights of Columbus hall. Twenty members attended.

Mrs. Judy Hart, regent, presided. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane gave the opening and closing prayers.

Mrs. Mary Frances LeGrand, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved. Thirteen officers were present for roll call.

A letter of thanks from the Missouri Delta Community hospital for a donation was read. The circle also received a not of thanks from Msgr. McGrane for a Christmas gift.

Hostesses for the February business meeting will be Mrs. Pauline Kaullen, Mrs. Evelyn Pinnell and Mrs. Jerry Schlosser.

Seven hours of volunteer service were reported by the members during January.

Cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Margaret Moore, Mrs. Josephine Schwab and Mrs. Marcella Layton.

Monsignor McGrane reviewed "The Rabbi" by Noah Gordon.

MRS. ELMER ERNST of Morehouse chooses a recipe from the cookbook she has compiled of her family's favorite foods.

Mrs. Elmer Ernst Compiles Cookbook of Favorite Foods

Editor's Note: This is the 20th in a series of articles about the homelife of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

MOREHOUSE — Mrs. Joyce Ernst likes to do things with her hands. She collects recipes and has compiled a family cookbook of favorite foods. She sews, making clothing for herself and her daughters, Sue, a freshman at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau, and Debbie, an eighth grade student.

She likes to arrange flowers and do artwork.

Mrs. Ernst's husband, Elmer, is a partner in the E and S Construction company.

The family attends St. Francis Xavier Catholic church in Sikeston. Mrs. Ernst is a member of the Daughters of Isabella and Ernst is grand knight of the Knights of Columbus.

The family likes to camp, fish and picnic in the summer.

A family treasure is a rocking chair that belonged to Mrs. Ernst's great-aunt.

Favorite recipes of the Ernst family are:

KRAUT RELISH

1 No. 303 can chopped kraut, drained
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped celery
1 can pimentoes, chopped
1 cup sugar
½ cup cider vinegar

Bring sugar and vinegar to full boil and boil one minute. Pour over the remainder of ingredients and let stand 6 hours before serving.

Mrs. Ernst says that this relish is particularly good with pork.

THRIFTY POUND CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup butter
1½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, mace and salt together three times. Cream butter with sugar and vanilla until fluffy and add eggs. Beat thoroughly. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Pour into greased tube pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for one hour.

PORK CHOPS SOUTHERN STYLE

5 pork chops
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoon lard
1 tablespoon green pepper
1 tablespoon worchestershire sauce
1 cup water
salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
onion seasoning to taste
¾ cup whole kernel corn
½ cup rich cream sauce or tomato sauce

Dredge chops in flour, brown on both sides in hot lard. Place in buttered baking dish. Drain off part of the drippings in which chops have been browned. Mix seasonings, green peppers, corn and sauce. Pour over chops. Bake about one hour in 325 degree oven. Serve with apple sauce.

TUNA AUGRATIN

Sift together:
1½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt

In mixing bowl, cut in ½ cup shortening until particles are size of small peas. Sprinkle 4 to 5 tablespoons water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough is moist enough hold together. Roll out to ⅛" thickness on floured surface. Fit loosely into 9 inch pie pan. Trim pastry from edge of shell and place extra pieces in small pan. Flute edge of shell. Prick generously with fork. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until light brown. Crumble pastry pieces for topping.

For tuna filling, combine in sauce pan:

1 can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons onion flakes.

Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1 package frozen peas, thawed and drained, 1 can pimento chopped, and 2 6½ ounce cans of tuna. Again bring to boil. Pour hot filling into baked pie shell. Sprinkle 1 cup shredded American cheese over filling and top with pastry crumbs. Bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

DATE NUT BREAD

1 6 ounces package pitted dates
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup butter
¾ cup boiling water
1¾ cup all purpose flour
1 beaten egg
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts
2 teaspoons rum flavoring, if desired

Cut dates in four pieces each using kitchen shears. Combine with brown sugar and soiling water in mixing bowl. Sift flour, remeasure and add salt, soda and sift again. Add egg to date mixture. Then stir in flour mixture and rum flavoring. Beat well. Fold in chopped nuts. Turn into well greased loaf pan, 4½ by 8½ by 2½. Bake in 370 degree oven 60 to 70 minutes. When done, turn out on cake cooker and turn right side up immediately. Cool before slicing. Serves eight to 10.

Mrs. Ernst says that this bread keeps well.

SPEEDY BAKED BEANS

Saute 4 strips bacon, diced, and 1 large onion, minced, until bacon is crisp and onions yellow.

Stir in:

No. 1 till
2 cans pork and beans,
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ cup chili sauce
3 tablespoons brown sugar.

Pour into greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake uncovered until beans brown and bubbley, approximately 45 minutes in 350 degree oven. Serves six.

Pills Get Credit For Birth Decline

TRENTON, N.J. AP -- A Rutgers University sociologist says oral contraceptives are contributing to New Jersey's three - year decline in births.

"The pills have made it easier to control births and there are several million women in the country using them," said Dr. Robert Gutman, professor of sociology and a population analyst at Rutgers.

Gutman said he felt the falling birth rate was most pronounced among Roman Catholics, who he said were using the pills in greater numbers, and the poor who "were unskilled in using mechanical contraceptives."

The State Health Department reported last week that 1966 marked the third successive lowering of the state's birthrate. There were 131,433 births last year, compared with 132,606 in 1963.

To become a pre-medical student, one must have a high school diploma and at least two years in a college of arts.

Junket and Trip Difference Defined

JEFFERSON CITY AP — How do you tell a useless legislative committee "junket" from a legitimate trip to gain information?

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis County, who has been a bitter foe of junketing, gave his yardstick Tuesday.

He told the Senate it's a junket if:

1. The information can be obtained by mail or telephone.
2. If the committee is going to Las Vegas or "some other watering spa." He noted that some committees have investigated Miami Beach every year.
3. If the characters of the men involved are such that they won't bring back any useful information to the legislature.

But he said some trips are legitimate. So he went along with the majority in supporting a resolution that would allow expenses for necessary trips of House and Senate leaders. He said this has not been abused in recent years.

Viet Nam Montage

By Dick Vaughan, Jr.

ARTICLE #26

While I was still at Ft. Riley, Kansas, preparing to come over to Viet Nam, I managed to get back to Sikeston for a short leave.

When I returned to Ft. Riley, I took some Bar-B-Q meat with me. I explained to some of my friends that my Dad had cooked this meat at his Bar-B-Q market, and I gave them all a small piece of it.

Oddly enough, only one of them had ever before tasted real pit Bar-B-Q before and they all became "hooked" on it.

There is an unfortunate aspect to this story, at least from my point of view. All of them immediately assumed that because my Dad was so good at this business, that I, being his son, had inherited his talent. I was immediately appointed "cook pro-tempy," and the other officers have spent a great part of this tour over here, scrounging up things for me to cook.

A few weeks back, two of them came driving into the compound yelling and laughing, and pointing to a trussed up object in the back of the jeep. It was a goat! "Look Dick, we feast tonight. Cook him!"

I stalled for time. "I have to give him seven days first, to make sure he doesn't have goat fever." It was the only thing I could think of at the moment.

"I never heard of that," they chorused.

"Of course not, but in S.E. Missouri, it is quite common," I replied with crossed fingers.

In the meantime, I dispatched a quick letter for help and instructions on cooking this thing from my Dad. While I was waiting on the letter to come back, the goat was placed in a hastily constructed pen, and was zealously scrutinized daily, by the others, checking for any signs of "Goat Fever."

After receiving my awaited instructions, the cooking was carried out, and turned out pretty good, although it was pretty tough.

The ones who are here with me now, that were with me in Ft. Riley, remembered the pork though, and began telling the newer people about how good it was.

They immediately began making plans to acquire a pig. I could feel it coming. From then on, I noticed that every time we landed in some distant place, the Crew Chief and Door Gunner left on some secret mission.

Then last week at Phan-Thiet, it happened. Phan-Thiet is a small village with very few Americans, and only one small, but well-stocked Helipad. There was a lot of commotion at one of the guard posts near the pad, and I noticed our Crew Chief and Door Gunner arguing loudly with the Sentry. They were standing along-side a Lambretta three-wheeled scooter. There was a burlap bag on the ground jumping around and from which there emitted loud squeals.

"What is going on Dempsy?" I asked.

"Sir, they won't let me carry this bag of turnips out to the helicopter."

"Turnips?"

"Sir, I'm afraid to tell him it is a pig. You know how these Viet Namese guards are, he may try to confiscate it," he whispered to me.

"Did you steal it?" I asked.

"He no steal" the Lambretta driver assured me, "I sell to him."

"Then Guard, since that is my aircraft there, I will take full responsibility for the cargo, and I see no danger in loading these turnips aboard," I said.

"But I must look," the guard started to say.

"It is quite all right. Thank you for your attention to duty." The guard unhappily brought his rifle up to a salute, and we cheerfully loaded our "turnips" aboard the aircraft.

As I write this article, "Marsha" is waiting in the pen we originally built for the goat. Luckily, there are some butchers in the company, and I must say I am looking forward to some Bar-B-Q pork myself.

MRS. ELMER ERNST of Morehouse chooses a recipe from the cookbook she has compiled of her family's favorite foods.

Mrs. Elmer Ernst Compiles Cookbook of Favorite Foods

Editor's Note: This is the 20th in a series of articles about the homelife of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

MOREHOUSE — Mrs. Joyce Ernst likes to do things with her hands. She collects recipes and has compiled a family cookbook of favorite foods. She sews, making clothing for herself and her daughters, Sue, a freshman at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau, and Debbie, an eighth grade student.

She likes to arrange flowers and do artwork.

Mrs. Ernst's husband, Elmer, is a partner in the E and S Construction company.

The family attends St. Francis Xavier Catholic church in Sikeston. Mrs. Ernst is a member of the Daughters of Isabella and Ernst is grand knight of the Knights of Columbus.

The family likes to camp, fish and picnic in the summer.

A family treasure is a rocking chair that belonged to Mrs. Ernst's great-aunt.

Favorite recipes of the Ernst family are:

KRAUT RELISH

1 No. 303 can chopped kraut, drained
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 can pimentoes, chopped
1 cup sugar
½ cup cider vinegar

Bring sugar and vinegar to full boil and boil one minute. Pour over the remainder of ingredients and let stand 6 hours before serving.

Mrs. Ernst says that this relish is particularly good with pork.

THRIFTY POUND CAKE

3 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup butter
1½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, mace and salt together three times. Cream butter with sugar and vanilla until fluffy and add eggs. Beat thoroughly. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Pour into greased tube pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for one hour.

PORK CHOPS SOUTHERN STYLE

5 pork chops
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoon lard
1 tablespoon green pepper
1 tablespoon worchestershire sauce
1 cup water
salt
1 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
onion seasoning to taste
¾ cup whole kernel corn
½ cup rich cream sauce or tomato sauce

Dredge chops in flour, brown on both sides in hot lard. Place in buttered baking dish. Drain off part of the drippings in which chops have been browned. Mix seasonings, green peppers, corn and sauce. Pour over chops. Bake about one hour in 325 degree oven. Serve with apple sauce.

TUNA AUGRATIN

Sift together:
1½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt

In mixing bowl, cut in ½ cup shortening until particles are size of small peas. Sprinkle 4 to 5 tablespoons water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out to ⅛" thickness on floured surface. Fit loosely into 9 inch pie pan. Trim pastry from edge of shell and place extra pieces in small pan. Flute edge of shell. Prick generously with fork. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until light brown. Crumble pastry pieces for topping.

For tuna filling, combine in sauce pan:

1 can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons onion flakes.

Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1 package frozen peas, thawed and drained, 1 can pimento chopped, and 2 6½ ounce cans of tuna. Again bring to boil. Pour hot filling into baked pie shell. Sprinkle 1 cup shredded American cheese over filling and top with pastry crumbs. Bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

DATE NUT BREAD

1 6 ounces package pitted dates
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup butter
¾ cup boiling water
1⅞ cup all purpose flour
1 beaten egg
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts
2 teaspoons rum flavoring, if desired

Cut dates in four pieces each using kitchen shears. Combine with brown sugar and soiling water in mixing bowl. Sift flour, remeasure and add salt, soda and sift again. Add egg to date mixture. Then stir in flour mixture and rum flavoring. Beat well. Fold in chopped nuts. Turn into well greased loaf pan, 4½ by 8½ by 2½. Bake in 370 degree oven 60 to 70 minutes. When done, turn out on cake cooker and turn right side up immediately. Cool before slicing. Serves eight to 10.

Mrs. Ernst says that this bread keeps well.

SPEEDY BAKED BEANS

Saute 4 strips bacon, diced, and 1 large onion, minced, until bacon is crisp and onions yellow.

Stir in:
No. 1 tall
2 cans pork and beans,
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ cup chili sauce
3 tablespoons brown sugar.

Pour into greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake uncovered until beans are bubbly and bubbly, approximately 45 minutes in 350 degree oven. Serves six.

Pills Get Credit For Birth Decline

TRENTON, N.J. AP — A Rutgers University sociologist says oral contraceptives are contributing to New Jersey's three - year decline in births.

"The pills have made it easier to control births and there are several million women in the country using them," said Dr. Robert Gutman, professor of sociology and a population analyst at Rutgers.

Gutman said he felt the falling birth rate was most pronounced among Roman Catholics, who he said were using the pills in greater numbers, and the poor who "were unskilled in using mechanical contraceptives."

The State Health Department reported last week that 1966 marked the third successive lowering of the state's birth-rate. There were 121,433 births last year, compared with 132,606 in 1963.

To become a pre-medical student, one must have a high school diploma and at least two years in a college of arts.

Viet Nam Montage

By Dick Vaughan, Jr.

ARTICLE #36

While I was still at Ft. Riley, Kansas, preparing to come over to Viet Nam, I managed to get back to Sikeston for a short leave.

When I returned to Ft. Riley, I took some Bar-B-Q meat with me. I explained to some of my friends that my Dad had cooked this meat at his Bar-B-Q marked, and I gave them all a small piece of it.

Oddly enough, only one of them had ever before tasted real pit Bar-B-Q before and they all became "hooked" on it.

There is an unfortunate aspect to this story, at least from my point of view. All of them immediately assumed that because my Dad was so good at this business, that I, being his son, had inherited his talent. I was immediately appointed "cook pro-temp," and the other officers have spent a great part of this tour over here, scrounging up things for me to cook.

A few weeks back, two of them came driving into the compound yelling and laughing, and pointing to a trussed up object in the back of the jeep. It was a goat! "Look Dick, we feast tonight. Cook him!"

I stalled for time. "I have to give him seven days first, to make sure he doesn't have goat fever." It was the only thing I could think of at the moment.

"I never heard of that," they chorused.

"Of course not, but in S.E. Missouri, it is quite common," I replied with crossed fingers.

In the meantime, I dispatched a quick letter for help and instructions on cooking this thing from my Dad. While I was waiting on the letter to come back, the goat was placed in a hastily constructed pen, and was anxiously scrutinized daily, by the others, checking for any signs of "Goat Fever."

After receiving my awaited instructions, the cooking was carried out, and turned out pretty good, although it was pretty tough.

The ones who are here with me now, that were with me in Ft. Riley, remembered the pork though, and began telling the newer people about how good it was.

They immediately began making plans to acquire a pig. I could feel it coming. From then on, I noticed that every time we landed in some distant place, the Crew Chief and Door Gunner left on some secret mission.

Then last week at Phan-Thiet, it happened. Phan-Thiet is a small village with very few Americans, and only one small, but well-guarded Helipad. There was a lot of commotion at one of the guard posts near the pad, and I noticed our Crew Chief and Door Gunner arguing loudly with the Sentry. They were standing along-side a Lambretta three-wheel scooter. There was a burlap bag on the ground jumping around and from which there emitted loud squeals.

"What is going on Dempsy?" I asked.

"Sir, they won't let me carry this bag of turnips out to the helicopter."

"Turnips?"

"Sir, I'm afraid to tell him it is a pig. You know how these Viet Namese guards are, he may try to confiscate it," he whispered to me.

"Did you steal it?" I asked.

"He no steal" the Lambretta driver assured me, "I sell to him."

"Then Guard, since that is my aircraft there, I will take full responsibility for the cargo, and I see no danger in loading these turnips aboard," I said.

"But I must look," the guard started to say.

"It is quite all right. Thank you for your attention to duty." The guard unhappily brought his rifle up to a salute, and we cheerfully loaded our "turnips" aboard the aircraft.

As I write this article, "Marsha" is waiting in the pen we originally built for the goat. Luckily, there are some butchers in the company, and I must say I am looking forward to some Bar-B-Q pork myself.

Junket and Trip Difference Defined

JEFFERSON CITY AP — How do you tell a useless legislative committee "junket" from a legitimate trip to gain information?

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis County, who has been a bitter foe of junketing, gave his yardstick Tuesday.

He told the Senate it's a junket if:

1. The information can be obtained by mail or telephone.

2. If the committee is going to Las Vegas or "some other watering spa." He noted that some committees have investigated Miami Beach every year.

3. If the characters of the men involved are such that they won't bring back any useful information to the legislature.

But he said some trips are legitimate. So he went along with the majority in supporting a resolution that would allow expenses for necessary trips of House and Senate leaders. He said this has not been abused in recent years.

Armed Forces

Colonel Elizabeth P. Hoisington

Colonel Elizabeth P. Hoisington, newly appointed director of the Women's Army Corps will make her first official visit to the St. Louis area on 19 January 1967. She will visi the U.S. Army Recruiting Main Station and will meet the women under her command throughout the St. Louis area.

As Director of the Women's Army Corps, Col. Hoisington is the principal adviser to the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff on all matters pertaining to the approximately 10,000 officers, warrant officers and enlisted women of the Corps, stationed in most of the 50 states and around the world, including Europe, The Pacific, the Far East and Southeast Asia. She advises on plans and policies for the recruitment, reception, classification, training, utilitzation, promotion, assignment, logistical support, separation, mobilization and career development of WAC personnel. The Colonel maintains liaison with other government and civilian agencies and with other women's military services, and acts as the United States Army representative to the women's Army groups of foreign nations. She also initiates and formulates plans and policies for the supervision, administration, morale and well-being of WAC personnel.

In choosing military service as a career, Colonel Hoisington followed the path of her father and her three brothers, all of whom were graduated from the United States Military Academy.

She has served in posts throughout the United States and overseas in both the European and Far Eastern theaters and just prior to becoming the seventh WAC Director she was Commanding Officer, U.S. Women's Army Corps Center and Commandant, U.S. Women's Army Corps School, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

A native of Newton, Kansas, the Colonel went on to become a graduate from the College of Notre Dame of Maryland in Baltimore in 1940. At Spokane, Washington in 1942, she enlisted in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (which became the Women's Army Corps in September 1943.) She is a graduate of Officers Candidate School, Army Exchange School, the WAC Officer Career Course, the Army Management School and the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College.

Long Asks New Mental Health Studes

ST. LOUIS -- U. S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), Monday night said the 90th Congress, which convenes tomorrow, "must make new strides forward in mental health and mental retardation legislation."

Senator Long was speaking at the annual dinner of the 83-year-old Missouri Baptist Hospital.

The Senator said the 90th congress "must encourage the development of psychiatric centers like the one here at the new Missouri Baptist Hospital."

"We need these centers close to the communities so that patients can be helped to re-adjust to living and working under normal conditions," Senator Long said.

"As a member of the senate committee on aging, I will be taking special interest in legislation to expand the older Americans act," Senator Long said.

Senator Long praised the work of the 89th congress which, he said, "last year passed 11 health bills, making it one of the most important health congresses in American history. The new 90th Congress must continue this record of achievement.

"This year congress must consider doing more to combat infant mortality," the senator warned. "Our rate continues to be far too high -- there are now ten countries in the world with a lower infant mortality rate than the United States," Long said.

Senator Long noted that the new Missouri Baptist Hospital complex has "pioneered in better hospital care."

"This year congress must make a major effort to encourage more hospitals to consider designing and building new buildings," the Missouri senator said.

"We must encourage more research and development in the field of hospital design and construction," Long said.

Senator Long said the United States "must marshall the same kinds of minds for these great health tasks as we are today putting into our space programs."

Your Dental Health

27 - SHOULD YOUR CHILD BE A DENTIST?

PRECEDE: The following is one of a series of articles being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with they Scott County Dental Society

Should your child be a dentist?

It's a profession he might want to consider and it's a rewarding career.

The dentist is a respected member of his community. He is recognized as a major contributor to the health and well-being of people and is considered an integral part of any over-all health program.

Dentistry is exciting and stimulating work. Each patient is different and each dental problem a challenge to the dentist's skill and intelligence.

It's work that needs doing. Less than 40 per cent of Americans get reasonably adequate and regular care. One in seven adults has never been to a dentist. Seven of ten need bridges or dentures.

Today there are about 93,000 practicing dentists, and by 1970 more than 104,000 will be needed. With our expanding population, the demand for dentists is increasing.

Dentistry is a well-paying profession, and the dentist's personal life can be pleasant. The average dentist earns $16,000 yearly after all expenses; the specialist about $24,000.

A dentist in private practice can set his own hours, and few emergencies demand his after-hours' time. He can choose the city or town in which he wants to practice and can have a long dental career if he desires. In fact, the average dentist works until age 68. He's his own boss.

To be successful in dentistry, certain qualifications are needed.

It takes intelligence. Applicants welcomed most warmly by the dental school admissions committees are those with well-diversified educational backgrounds and keen, scientific minds. Especially needed are the intellectually-inquisitive students who will become researchers and teachers in the clinical and biological sciences.

It takes ability to work and study hard. A dental student spends about 35 hours a week in class, laboratory and clinic -- and then spends most of his evenings in concentrated study.

It takes certain special skills. A dentist must be good with his hands, have excellent judgment of space and shape and have the ability to understand technical material.

And it takes the right personality. A dentist works with people all day. He must enjoy them, have their welfare at heart and be able to make them feel at ease.

Once a dentist has completed training, the many worlds of the profession open up for him. He can choose to be an educator or research scientist. He can become a specialist in one of the profession's eight special areas of dental practice and continue his training beyond dental school.

If your child meets these requirements, he may want to consider a dental career. The cost of dental education is high. But scholarships and loans may be available. Talk it over with your child. Have a word with your family dentist. He and the high school guidance counselor will tell you the next steps to take.

Missouri Press Report

Sen. Edward Long

The Ozarks Planning Commission is now considering new ways to stimulate economic growth in the Ozarks areas of Missouri and Arkansas.

The Commission told me recently that nearly a half million people moved out of the Ozarks between 1950 and 1960. This translates into a staggering economic loss to the area.

For example, the out-migration meant the loss to the area of one billion dollars in retail sales. During 1962 alone, losses in food sales in the Ozarks totaled $263,963,466, the Commission estimates.

Task of the Commission will be to help create more and better job opportunities in the Ozarks counties. With more jobs available, fewer people will leave, and the population loss trend could be reversed.

One goal will be to find ways of producing goods in the Ozarks which are normally shipped into the area from other parts of the country. The Commission hopes to stimulate industries which can "export" goods from the Ozarks and thus bring in new income. This increased income will then be available for investing in more economic development for the Ozarks.

The Ozarks Planning Commission was formed as a result of the Economic Development Act, which I co-sponsored in the Senate, and which passed in Congress during 1965.

Am keeping in close touch with the Commission's work for I am deeply hopeful that these efforts will be successful.

The year-end report of the U. S. Bureau of Mines says the biggest lead - zinc development in the Nation is taking place in Missouri's "Lead Belt" area.

Yet another company will soon begin producing refined lead in Missouri. Located 3 miles away from our new lead smelter, the new Buick Lead Project has just been announced by American Metal Climax, Inc., and Homestake Mining Company. The new project will cost $35,000,000 and production will begin late in 1967, the two companies said.

Girl in Miniskirts Get Blue Knees

LONDON AP -- Girls wearing miniskirts are getting blue knees in Britain's first big freeze of 1967. More than 100 in thigh-high skirts walked out of classes at Reading College of technology near London.

"It's not so bad for the boys in their warm trousers," explained one fashionable but freezing young lady. "But we girls in miniskirts found our knees and legs turning blue."

College authorities said a shortage of stokers in the boiler rooms cut the central heating system to quarter power. Ink froze in the college's printing works.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, of England, is 66 years old.

When votes were counted in an election for city commissioners of gainesville, Ga., it was found two candidates had a tie -- 674 each. There was one write-in vote. It was for Batman.

Armed Forces

Colonel Elizabeth P. Hoisington

Colonel Elizabeth P. Hoisington, newly appointed director of the Women's Army Corps will make her first official visit to the St. Louis area on 19 January 1967. She will visi the U.S. Army Recruiting Main Station and will meet the women under her command throughout the St. Louis area.

As Director of the Women's Army Corps, Col. Hoisington is the principal adviser to the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff on all matters pertaining to the approximately 10,000 officers, warrant officers and enlisted women of the Corps, stationed in most of the 50 states and around the world, including Europe, The Pacific, the Far East and Southeast Asia. She advises on plans and policies for the recruitment, reception, classification, training, utilitzation, promotion, assignment, logistical support, separation, mobilization and career development of WAC personnel. The Colonel maintains liaison with other government and civilian agencies and with other women's military services, and acts as the United States Army representative to the women's Army groups of foreign nations. She also initiates and formulates plans and policies for the supervision, administration, morale and well-being of WAC personnel.

In choosing military service as a career, Colonel Hoisington followed the path of her father and her three brothers, all of whom were graduated from the United States Military Academy.

She has served in posts throughout the United States and overseas in both the European and Far Eastern theaters and just prior to becoming the seventh WAC Director she was Commanding Officer, U.S. Women's Army Corps Center and Commandant, U.S. Women's Army Corps School, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

A native of Newton, Kansas, the Colonel went on to become a graduate from the College of Notre Dame of Maryland in Baltimore in 1940. At Spokane, Washington in 1942, she enlisted in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (which became the Women's Army Corps in September 1943.) She is a graduate of Officers Candidate School, Army Exchange School, the WAC Officer Career Course, the Army Management School and the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College.

Long Asks New Mental Health Studes

ST. LOUIS -- U. S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), Monday night said the 90th Congress, which convenes tomorrow, "must make new strides forward in mental health and mental retardation legislation."

Senator Long was speaking at the annual dinner of the 83-year-old Missouri Baptist Hospital.

The Senator said the 90th congress "must encourage the development of psychiatric centers like the one here at the new Missouri Baptist Hospital."

"We need these centers close to the communities so that patients can be helped to re-adjust to living and working under normal conditions," Senator Long said.

"As a member of the senate committee on aging, I will be taking special interest in legislation to expand the older Americans act," Senator Long said.

Senator Long praised the work of the 89th congress which, he said, "last year passed 11 health bills, making it one of the most important health congresses in American history. The new 90th Congress must continue this record of achievement.

"This year congress must consider doing more to combat infant mortality," the senator warned. "Our rate continues to be far too high -- there are now ten countries in the world with a lower infant mortality rate than the United States," Long said.

Senator Long noted that the new Missouri Baptist Hospital complex has "pioneered in better hospital care."

"This year congress must make a major effort to encourage more hospitals to consider designing and building new buildings," the Missouri senator said.

"We must encourage more research and development in the field of hospital design and construction," Long said.

Senator Long said the United States "must marshall the same kinds of minds for these great health tasks as we are today putting into our space programs."

Your Dental Health

27 - SHOULD YOUR CHILD BE A DENTIST?

PRECEDE: The following is one of a series of articles being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with they Scott County Dental Society

Should your child be a dentist?

It's a profession he might want to consider and it's a rewarding career.

The dentist is a respected member of his community. He is recognized as a major contributor to the health and well-being of people and is considered an integral part of any over-all health program.

Dentistry is exciting and stimulating work. Each patient is different and each dental problem a challenge to the dentist's skill and intelligence.

It's work that needs doing. Less than 40 per cent of Americans get reasonably adequate and regular care. One in seven adults has never been to a dentist. Seven of ten need bridges or dentures.

Today there are about 93,000 practicing dentists, and by 1970 more than 104,000 will be needed. With our expanding population, the demand for dentists is increasing.

Dentistry is a well-paying profession, and the dentist's personal life can be pleasant. The average dentist earns $16,000 yearly after all expenses; the specialist about $24,000.

A dentist in private practice can set his own hours, and few emergencies demand his after-hours' time. He can choose the city or town in which he wants to practice and can have a long dental career if he desires. In fact, the average dentist works until age 68. He's his own boss.

To be successful in dentistry, certain qualifications are needed.

It takes intelligence. Applicants welcomed most warmly by the dental school admissions committees are those with well-diversified educational backgrounds and keen, scientific minds. Especially needed are the intellectually-inquisitive students who will become researchers and teachers in the clinical and biological sciences.

It takes ability to work and study hard. A dental student spends about 35 hours a week in class, laboratory and clinic -- and then spends most of his evenings in concentrated study.

It takes certain special skills. A dentist must be good with his hands, have excellent judgment of space and shape and have the ability to understand technical material.

And it takes the right personality. A dentist works with people all day. He must enjoy them, have their welfare at heart and be able to make them feel at ease.

Once a dentist has completed training, the many worlds of the profession open up for him. He can choose to be an educator or research scientist. He can become a specialist in one of the profession's eight special areas of dental practice and continue his training beyond dental school.

If your child meets these requirements, he may want to consider a dental career. The cost of dental education is high. But scholarships and loans may be available. Talk it over with your child. Have a word with your family dentist. He and the high school guidance counselor will tell you the next steps to take.

Congress later in January.

The new budget, he said, will project spending of $135 billion, revenues of $126.9 billion, and a deficit of $8.1 billion.

For the current year, he said spending now is likely to total $126.7 billion compared with revenues of $117 billion. That would leave a deficit of $9.7 billion.

Several times in his text, Mr. Johnson spoke of "a time of testing" for the nation.

"At home," he said, "the question is whether we will continue working for better opportunities for all Americans. . . .

"Abroad, the question is whether we have the staying power to fight a costly war, when the objective is limited and the danger to us seemingly remote."

Discussing domestic programs, President Johnson conceded that there have been "mistakes and setbacks in some of his recently enacted "Great Society" programs. He promised to try to overcome these and said that, despite them, "we are moving, and our direction is forward."

Officials said next year's budget for the anti-poverty program would be increased by about $270 million from the current level of $1.75 billion if Congress authorizes new activities Mr. Johnson proposes.

The President said last October he would seek an average increase of at least 10 per cent in Social Security benefits.

Tuesday he told Congress he wants the average boost to hit 20 per cent -- with the range running a minimum of 15 per cent to a maximum of 59 per cent.

President Johnson talked only in general terms about the civil rights program he will propose but sources said it would include a new approach to open housing -- an item that was largely responsible for the death of 1966 civil rights proposals.

victim could not have been more than 10 feet from the gun when it was fired. He said he thought he was probably from three to five feet from the shotgun.

The doctor stated that there was only slight angulation in the trajectory of the wound, and that none of the shot passed completely through the body.

No powder burns were found on the body, the doctor said.

Merrill Jones, a clerk in charge of the records room at State Hospital No. 4 in Farmington, was called to the stand and asked to identify a folder containing medical records on the deceased Clennis Ables. Jones identified the folder and was dismissed. The records were not read at the hearing.

Lt. James E. Stone of the Sikeston police department told of finding two spent shotgun shells at the Boshears' residence the night of the shooting. He also said he found a fifth of whisky, about one third full, on the kitchen table of the residence.

Wadding was found on the front porch of the residence, Stone said. The whisky bottle, the wadding and clothes of the deceased have been sent to crime laboratories in Jefferson City for tests, Stone said.

Scott county deputy Eddie Michael testified that he found footprints of someone who had gone barefoot in the snow around the Boshears residence the night of the slaying. He also described a hole in a masonite kickboard on the front door of the porch.

The footprints were made by Mrs. Boshears, Michael said. And the hole in the masonite is believed to have been made by a shotgun blast.

Attorneys for the defendant attempted to ask questions concerning the reputation of Clennis Ables, but the prosecutors objections were sustained on the basis that the Ables reputation had no bearing on the hearing.

C.L. Gipson Dies at Home

Clifford L. Gipson, 67, wholesale grocery salesman, died Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at his home at 722 Sikes Ave. after an illness from a heart ailment of one year.

He was born near Canalou, Sept. 15, 1899, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gipson.

He was a salesman for the McKnight - Keaton Grocer Company more than 25 years.

He was a deacon in the First Baptist church, and had served as president and secretary of the Agoga men's Sunday school class. He was the class secretary at the time of his death.

He also was a member of the Masonic Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cathleen Baty Gipson; one son, Clifford L. Gipson Jr., Phoenix, Ariz.; two daughters, Mrs. Ann Todd, Brunswick, Ga., and Mrs. Norma Jean Lenon, Jefferson City; one brother, John Gipson, Sikeston; two sisters, Mrs. Dell Winder, St. Louis and Mrs. Golda Bragg, Poplar Bluff; and five grandchildren.

Services tentatively are set for Friday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist church, with the Rev. James W. Hackney, pastor, officiating.

Masonic services will be held in the Welsh Funeral Chapel Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Burial will be in City cemetery.

George Kernell Dies Tuesday

George Kernell, 73, Diehlstadt rural, a retired carpenter, died Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Cape Girardeau Osteopathic hospital.

He was born Oct. 28, 1893, in Toulou, Ky.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Clara Akers, Cape Girardeau, and nieces and nephews.

Services will be Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Welsh Funeral Chapel in Sikeston.

Burial will be in the old Morley cemetery.

Ada Conners Service Monday

CHARLESTON - Services for Ada Conners, 86, a resident of the Henson community, will be Sunday at 11 a.m. in St. Paul Baptist church, with the Rev. Alex Banks, officiating.

Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery, with Sparks Funeral in charge.

Army Tests MAW to Suit The Soldier

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (ANF)—Quickly now, who knows the meaning of anthropometry? (Pronounced AN-throw-POM-eh-tree)

It's the science of measuring the human body and its parts. And it was the name of the engineering tests conducted here earlier this month on the Army's Medium Anti-tank Assault Weapon (MAW), the first guided missile system light enough to be carried by one man and fired from the shoulder.

MAW launcher

During the anthropometry tests, about 200 soldiers of all sizes and weights handled and fired the 27-pound MAW from a variety of positions. The tests were conducted to develop a weapon that is tailored for the man—instead of having to adapt the man to the weapon.

Data from the tests is being incorporated in the MAW engineering model phase hardware by the U. S. Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal. The McDonnell Co., Titusville, Fla., is the prime contractor.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Readers: My niece who lives in Omaha sent me Twelve Rules for Rearing Children. Her pediatrician had handed her these rules and explained that he gives them to all young mothers. I read the rules and recognized them as my own. Closer examination revealed that the physician had credited Ann Landers as the author --- which I appreciate.

I am offering the rules again today for the benefit of young mothers who were high school kids when the rules first appeared. --- ANN LANDERS

1. Remember that a child is a gift from God, the richest of all blessings. Do not attempt to mold him in the image of your neighbor. Each child is an individual and should be permitted to be himself.

2. Don't crush a child's spirit when he fails. And never compare him with others who have outshone him.

3. Remember that anger and hostility are natural emotions. Help your child to find socially acceptable outlets for these normal feelings or they may be turned inward and erupt.

4. Discipline your child with firmness and reason. Don't let your anger throw you off balance. If he knows you are fair you will not lose his respect or his love. And make sure the punishment fits the crime.

5. Remember that each child needs two parents. Present a united front. Never join with your child against your mate. This can create emotional conflicts in your child as well as in yourself.

6. Do not hand your child everything his little heart desires. Permit him to know the thrill of earning and the joy of deserving. Grant him the greatest of all satisfactions -- the pleasure that comes with personal achievement.

7. Do not set yourself up as the epitome of perfection. This is a difficult role to play 24 hours a day. You will find it easier to communicate with your child if you let him know that Mom and Dad make mistakes, too.

8. Don't make threats in anger or impossible promises when you are in a generous mood. Threaten or promise only what you can live up to.

9. Do not smother your child with superficial manifestations of love. The purest and healthiest love expresses itself in day-in, day-out training which breeds self-confidence and independence.

10. Teach your child that there is a dignity in work whether it is performed with calloused hands that shovel coal or skilled fingers that manipulate surgical instruments. Let him know that a useful life is a blessed one.

11. Do not try to protect your child against every small blow and disappointment. Adversity strengthens character and makes us compassionate. Trouble is the great equalizer. LET HIM LEARN IT.

12. Teach your child to love God and to love his fellow man. Don't send your child to a place of worship --- take him there. Children learn from example. Telling him something is not teaching him. If you give your child a deep and abiding faith in God it can be his strength and his light when all else fails.

Alconol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You--For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

VIETNAM TRIP

I have just returned from some six weeks in the Pacific, the Far East, the Middle East and parts of Europe, and am now working on a report to be filed with the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee.

As soon as the report is cleared for security, it will be released to the public and will be sent to any who are interested.

On this trip I visited with foreign and United States officials in Guam, Thailand, Laos, Vietnam, the United Arab Republic, Jordan, Israel, and Spain.

Above all other impressions was again one's pride in the superb ability and dedication of our servicemen. I had the opportunity of visiting with hundreds of them, including many from Missouri.

PRIME MILITARY CONTRACTS

In the first quarter of fiscal year 1967 (July 1 to September 30, 1966), Missouri firms received $717 million in prime military contracts, 7.5% of these awards in that period. This ranks our State as fourth in the nation.

In the fiscal year 1966, the 12 months ending last June 30, Missouri received 3.5 % of these military procurement actions. This ranked us 8th as compared to 5th in the fiscal year 1965 and fourth in 1964.

In Department of Defense civil contracts, which include flood control, rivers and harbors, during the first quarter of fiscal 1967, Missouri firms received 3.19% of all contracts for civil functions ranking us 13th among the 50 states. In the fiscal year 1966 Missouri ranked 9th receiving 3.56% of civil procurements as compared to a ranking of 11th in fiscal 1965 and 14th in the fiscal 1964.

INTERSTATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM

When Rex M. Whitton retired December 31 as Highway Administrator and he and Mrs. Whitton moved back to Missouri to make their home in Independence, the nation lost one of its most able public servants. In the last six years, this dedicated American of whom we Missourians are so proud, has directed the greatest highway building program in world history.

Throughout the United States over 22,100 of the miles of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways are now open to traffic. When completed, now scheduled for 1972, 41,000 miles of freeways will connect more than 90 per cent of all cities of populations of 50,000 or more, and will carry 20% of the nation's traffic even though it will include only 1% of the nation's total road and street mileage.

The system will save at least 8,000 lives per year. The Bureau of Public Roads estimates that travel on the Interstate is 2 1/2 times as safe as on older roads with comparable traffic.

As of September 30, 1966, 721.7 miles of the Interstate Highway System in Missouri had been completed, 385.1 miles are in the process of being completed and 12.3 miles are in preliminary planning stages, bringing a total designated system mileage for the state to 1,119.1 miles.

In Missouri, total cost of the roads completed has been $493. 9 million with Federal funds providing $441.5 million of the amount. Of the projects underway, the total cost is $241.9 million, the Federal share being $216 million.

As compared to other states, Missouri ranks 9th in highway funds from the Federal government, 10th in total designated system mileage, 8th in total miles open to traffic, and 7th in total miles completed to full or acceptable standards.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO ALL MEMBERS SECURITY FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

This is to notify you that the annual meeting of the members of Security Federal Savings and Loan Association will be held on Wednesday, January 18, 1967 at 2:00 p.m. at the office of the Association at 124 East Center Street, Sikeston, Missouri for the purpose of presenting to the membership a report of the financial condition of the Association and of its progress for the preceding year and outline a program for the succeeding year. I CAN'T TAKE IT WITH ME SO

I have to sell my home. It's an older house with large rooms and a lot more comfortable living space than appears on the outside. It has an efficiency apartment with inside and outside entrances that can help make the payments. An extra heavy roof and gas furnace are only 7 years old. There are 3 bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room and enclosed porch besides the apartment and a basement with another bath. The inside needs redecorating and I'm moving Jan. 20, so I've slashed the price nearly $1500 under appraisal value and will throw in the apartment furniture. I would consider trading on a smaller single family house that I could rent. Call C. D. Butler any week day at GR 1-4474 or GR 1-0034.

Army Tests MAW to Suit The Soldier

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (ANF)—Quickly now, who knows the meaning of anthropometry? (Pronounced AN-throw-POM-eh-tree)

It's the science of measuring the human body and its parts. And it was the name of the engineering tests conducted here earlier this month on the Army's Medium Anti-tank Assault Weapon (MAW), the first guided missile system light enough to be carried by one man and fired from the shoulder.

MAW launcher

During the anthropometry tests, about 200 soldiers of all sizes and weights handled and fired the 27-pound MAW from a variety of positions. The tests were conducted to develop a weapon that is tailored for the man—instead of having to adapt the man to the weapon.

Data from the tests is being incorporated in the MAW engineering model phase hardware by the U. S. Army Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal. The McDonnell Co., Titusville, Fla., is the prime contractor.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Readers: My niece who lives in Omaha sent me Twelve Rules for Rearing Children. Her pediatrician had handed her these rules and explained that he gives them to all young mothers. I read the rules and recognized them as my own. Closer examination revealed that the physician had credited Ann Landers as the author --- which I appreciate.

I am offering the rules again today for the benefit of young mothers who were high school kids when the rules first appeared. --- ANN LANDERS

1. Remember that a child is a gift from God, the richest of all blessings. Do not attempt to mold him in the image of your neighbor. Each child is an individual and should be permitted to be himself.

2. Don't crush a child's spirit when he fails. And never compare him with others who have outshone him.

3. Remember that anger and hostility are natural emotions. Help your child to find socially acceptable outlets for these normal feelings or they may be turned inward and erupt.

4. Discipline your child with firmness and reason. Don't let your anger throw you off balance. If he knows you are fair you will not lose his respect or his love. And make sure the punishment fits the crime.

5. Remember that each child needs two parents. Present a united front. Never join with your child against your mate. This can create emotional conflicts in your child as well as in yourself.

6. Do not hand your child everything his little heart desires. Permit him to know the thrill of earning and the joy of deserving. Grant him the greatest of all satisfactions -- the pleasure that comes with personal achievement.

7. Do not set yourself up as the epitome of perfection. This is a difficult role to play 24 hours a day. You will find it easier to communicate with your child if you let him know that Mom and Dad make mistakes, too.

8. Don't make threats in anger or impossible promises when you are in a generous mood. Threaten or promise only what you can live up to.

9. Do not smother your child with superficial manifestations of love. The purest and healthiest love expresses itself in day-in, day-out training which breeds self-confidence and independence.

10. Teach your child that there is a dignity in work whether it is performed with calloused hands that shovel coal or skilled fingers that manipulate surgical instruments. Let him know that a useful life is a blessed one.

11. Do not try to protect your child against every small blow and disappointment. Adversity strengthens character and makes us compassionate. Trouble is the great equalizer. LET HIM LEARN IT.

12. Teach your child to love God and to love his fellow man. Don't send your child to a place of worship --- take him there. Children learn from example. Telling him something is not teaching him. If you give your child a deep and abiding faith in God it can be his strength and his light when all else fails.

Alconol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You --- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

VIETNAM TRIP

I have just returned from some six weeks in the Pacific, the Far East, the Middle East and parts of Europe, and am now working on a report to be filed with the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee.

As soon as the report is cleared for security, it will be released to the public and will be sent to any who are interested.

On this trip I visited with foreign and United States officials in Guam, Thailand, Laos, Vietnam, the United Arab Republic, Jordan, Israel, and Spain.

Above all other impressions was again one's pride in the superb ability and dedication of our servicemen. I had the opportunity of visiting with hundreds of them, including many from Missouri.

PRIME MILITARY CONTRACTS

In the first quarter of fiscal year 1967 (July 1 to September 30, 1966), Missouri firms received $717 million in prime military contracts, 7.5% of these awards in that period. This ranks our State as fourth in the nation.

In the fiscal year 1966, the 12 months ending last June 30, Missouri received 3.5 % of these military procurement actions. This ranked us 8th as compared to 5th in the fiscal year 1965 and fourth in 1964.

In Department of Defense civil contracts, which include flood control, rivers and harbors, during the first quarter of fiscal 1967, Missouri firms received 3.19% of all contracts for civil functions ranking us 13th among the 50 states. In the fiscal year 1966 Missouri ranked 9th receiving 3.56% of civil procurements as compared to a ranking of 11th in fiscal 1965 and 14th in the fiscal 1964.

INTERSTATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM

When Rex M. Whitton retired December 31 as Highway Administrator and he and Mrs. Whitton moved back to Missouri to make their home in Independence, the nation lost one of its most able public servants. In the last six years, this dedicated American of whom we Missourians are so proud, has directed the greatest highway building program in world history.

Throughout the United States over 22,100 of the miles of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways are now open to traffic. When completed, now scheduled for 1972, 41,000 miles of freeways will connect more than 90 per cent of all cities of populations of 50,000 or more, and will carry 20% of the nation's traffic even though it will include only 1% of the nation's total road and street mileage.

The system will save at least 8,000 lives per year. The Bureau of Public Roads estimates that travel on the Interstate is 2 1/2 times as safe as on older roads with comparable traffic.

As of September 30, 1966, 721.7 miles of the Interstate Highway System in Missouri had been completed, 385.1 miles are in the process of being completed and 12.3 miles are in preliminary planning stages, bringing a total designated system mileage for the state to 1,119.1 miles.

In Missouri, total cost of the roads completed has been $493. 9 million with Federal funds providing $441.5 million of the amount. Of the projects underway, the total cost is $241.9 million, the Federal share being $216 million.

As compared to other states, Missouri ranks 9th in highway funds from the Federal government, 10th in total designated system mileage, 8th in total miles open to traffic, and 7th in total miles completed to full or acceptable standards.

I CAN'T TAKE IT WITH ME SO

I have to sell my home. It's an older house with large rooms and a lot more comfortable living space than appears on the outside. It has an efficiency apartment with inside and outside entrances that can help make the payments. An extra heavy roof and gas furnace are only 7 years old. There are 3 bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room and enclosed porch besides the apartment and a basement with another bath. The inside needs redecorating and I'm moving Jan. 20, so I've slashed the price nearly $1500 under appraisal value and will throw in the apartment furniture. I would consider trading on a smaller single family house that I could rent. Call C. D. Butler any week day at GR 1-4474 or GR 1-0034.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

THE CASE OF THE POTTED JOCKEY

Jockey Johnny got so inebriated, one night, that he couldn't even pronounce it. But even worse than being drunk, he stole a rear view mirror off a car and was charged and convicted of petty larceny. The result? The next morning the State Racing Commission revoked his jockey license because of "improper conduct detrimental to the best interests of racing."

Demanding the restoration of his license, Johnny took the matter to court.

"It's not fair," he protested to a judge. "I didn't murder anybody. All I did was to take one drink too many. The headache I had the next morning was sufficient punishment."

"It's not that simple," retorted a member of the Racing Commission. "When a jockey gets drunk and commits a crime, his conduct hurts the sport and everyone in it. Under such circumstances, instead of the horses, he's the one to be booted."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you put Johnny back in the saddle?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! In so holding, the judge said that to ride a horse in the Sport of Kings is an ancient and honorable pursuit, occasionally receiving the adulation of its devotees, but jockeys as a class are not necessarily either connoisseurs of art or paragons of virtue or sobriety. Consequently, "improper conduct," to be sufficent to cause revocation of a jockey's license, must be more directly related to racing than his having had to much to drink.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

O God, thou art my God, I see thee, my soul thirsts for thee; my flesh faints for thee, as in a dry and weary land where no water is. (Psalm 63:1, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, for whom our souls thirst, help us to turn to Thee with a whole heart and find in Thee the satisfaction of the soul's hunger. Help us to give ourselves to Thee with sincerity that we may find in Thee our joy and salvation. In the Savior's name.....Amen.

Zip Code to Aid Mailing

Use of zip code will make it easier to mail packages after Sunday, acting Postmaster Ewart S. Taylor, said today.

New rates and a new system for identifying parcel post zones will go into effect on that date as provided in a new law.

The rate increases will average about 10 cents a parcel, the postmaster said. Starting July 1, the law provides for a series of size and weight increases on packages mailed between first class offices. Sikeston is a first class office. The size and weight increases will be in five annual steps, the last coming July 1, 1971.

Use of zip code in the recipient's address will enable the sender or a mail clerk to quickly determine the proper zone, and thus the rate, for the package. The zones will be based on the distance a parcel travels between the 552 sectional centers in the country, Postmaster Taylor said.

By consulting a chart, available at post offices, the zone can be identified readily because the first three numbers of the zip code represent the sectional center. This replaces a method in which a directory often had to be consulted to locate the zone for each of the nation's 33,000 post offices.

The new rates will range from 40 cents for a three-pound parcel destined for local delivery to 60 cents for the same parcel to zone three (150 to 300 miles) to $1.05 to zone 8 (over 1,800 miles). The new zoning method will also apply to air parcel post, catalogs and to publishers who pay zone rates on the advertising portion of their periodicals.

Postmaster Taylor noted that all parcels mailed between post offices within the Sikeston sectional center will be charged at the first zone rate. There are 53 offices within the Sikeston section center.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, January 11th, the 11th day of 1967. There are 354 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, Japan declared war on The Netherlands and then proceeded to invade The Netherlands East Indies.

On this date.

In 1805, the territory of Michigan was created.

In 1861, Alabama seceded from the union.

In 1865, Missouri adopted an ordinance abolishing slavery.

In 1897, the United States and Great Britain signed a treaty to arbitrate the boundary between Alaska and Canada.

In 1949, San Diego, Calif., had the first snowfall of its 99 years of recorded weather history.

Ten years ago. . . the new British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan pledged that the primary goal of his government would be the reestablishment of Britain as a strong partner of the United States.

Five years ago . . . President Kennedy personally delivered his annual "State of the Union" message to Congress. He expressed full confidence in the country's domestic and international outlook and made 34 legislative requests.

One year ago. . . Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri died of a heart attack shortly after signing a declaration with Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan. The declaration called for withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani troops from positions won in fighting in the disputed Kashmir region the fall before.
